on common procedures for granting and withdrawing international protection status

Having regard to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, and in particular Article 78(2)(d) thereof,

Having regard to the opinion of the Committee of the Regions²,

Acting in accordance with the ordinary legislative procedure,

² OJ C […], […], p. […].
(1) A number of substantive changes are to be made to Council Directive 2005/85/EC of 1 December 2005 on minimum standards on procedures for granting and withdrawing refugee status. In the interest of clarity, that Directive should be recast.

(2) A common policy on asylum, including a Common European Asylum System, is a constituent part of the European Union's objective of establishing progressively an area of freedom, security and justice open to those who, forced by circumstances, legitimately seek protection in the Union. It should be governed by the principle of solidarity and fair sharing of responsibility, including its financial implications, between the Member States.

(3) The European Council, at its special meeting in Tampere on 15 and 16 October 1999, agreed to work towards establishing a Common European Asylum System, based on the full and inclusive application of the Geneva Convention of 28 July 1951 relating to the status of refugees, as amended by the New York Protocol of 31 January 1967 (Geneva Convention), thus affirming the principle of non-refoulement and ensuring that nobody is sent back to persecution.

(4) The Tampere Conclusions provide that a Common European Asylum System should include, in the short term, common standards for fair and efficient asylum procedures in the Member States and, in the longer term, Union Community rules leading to a common asylum procedure in the European Union Community.

(5) The first phase of a Common European Asylum System was achieved through the adoption of relevant legal instruments foreseen in the Treaties, including Directive 2005/85/EC which was The minimum standards laid down in this Directive on procedures in Member States for granting or withdrawing refugee status are therefore a first measure on asylum procedures.

(6) The European Council, at its meeting of 4 November 2004, adopted the Hague Programme, which set the objectives to be implemented in the area of freedom, security and justice in the period 2005-2010. In this respect, the Hague Programme invited the European Commission to conclude the evaluation of the first phase legal instruments and to submit the second phase instruments and measures to the Council and the European Parliament. In accordance with the Hague Programme, the objective to be pursued for the creation of the Common European Asylum System is the establishment of a common asylum procedure and a uniform status valid throughout the Union.
In the European Pact on Immigration and Asylum, adopted on 16 October 2008, the European Council noted that considerable disparities remain between one Member State and another concerning the grant of protection and called for new initiatives, including a proposal for establishing a single asylum procedure comprising common guarantees, to complete the establishment of a Common European Asylum System, provided for in the Hague Programme.

The European Council, at its meeting of 10-11 December 2009, adopted the Stockholm Programme which reconfirmed the commitment to establishing a common area of protection and solidarity based on a common asylum procedure and a uniform status for those granted international protection based on high protection standards and fair and effective procedures by 2012. The Stockholm Programme affirmed that people in need of international protection must be ensured access to legally safe and efficient asylum procedures. In accordance with the Stockholm Programme, individuals, regardless of the Member State in which their application for asylum is lodged, should be offered the same level of treatment as regards procedural arrangements and status determination. The objective should be that similar cases should be treated alike and result in the same outcome.

The resources of the European Refugee Fund and of the European Asylum Support Office, established by Regulation (EU) No 439/2010 of the European Parliament and of the Council, should be mobilised to provide adequate support to the Member States' efforts relating to the implementation of the standards set in the second phase of the Common European Asylum System, in particular to those Member States which are faced with specific and disproportionate pressures on their asylum systems, due in particular to their geographical or demographic situation.

In order to ensure a comprehensive and efficient evaluation of the international protection needs of applicants within the meaning of Directive […/…/EU] [on minimum standards for the qualification and status of third country nationals or stateless persons as beneficiaries of international protection and the content of the protection granted (the Qualification Directive)], the Union framework on procedures for granting international protection should be based on the concept of a single asylum procedure.

The main objective of this Directive is to further develop the standards for procedures in Member States for granting and withdrawing international protection with a view to establishing a common asylum procedure in the Union and introduce a minimum framework in the Community on procedures for granting and withdrawing refugee status.

The approximation of rules on the procedures for granting and withdrawing international protection and refugee status should help to limit the secondary movements of applicants for international protection and asylum between Member States, where such movement would be caused by differences in legal frameworks, and create equivalent conditions for the application of Directive […/…/EU] [the Qualification Directive] in Member States.
(13) It is in the very nature of minimum standards that Member States should have the power to introduce or maintain more favourable provisions for third country nationals or stateless persons who ask for international protection from a Member State, where such a request is understood to be on the grounds that the person concerned is in need of international protection within the meaning of Directive […/…/EU] [the Qualification Directive] Article 1(A) of the Geneva Convention.

(14) With respect to the treatment of persons falling within the scope of this Directive, Member States are bound by obligations under instruments of international law to which they are party and which prohibit discrimination.

(15) It is essential that decisions on all applications for international protection as asylum be taken on the basis of the facts and, in the first instance, by authorities whose personnel has the appropriate knowledge or has received the necessary training in the field of asylum and international protection refugee matters.
(16) It is in the interest of both Member States and applicants for international protection that a decision is made to make a decision as soon as possible on applications for international protection, without prejudice to an adequate and complete examination. The organisation of the processing of applications for asylum should be left to the discretion of Member States, so that they may, in accordance with their national needs, prioritise or accelerate the processing of any application, taking into account the standards in this Directive.

(17) It is also in the interest of both Member States and applicants to ensure a correct recognition of international protection needs already at first instance. To that end, applicants should be provided at first instance, free of charge, with legal and procedural information, taking into account their particular circumstances. The provision of such information should inter alia enable the applicants to better understand the procedure, thus helping them to comply with the relevant obligations. It would be disproportionate to require Member States to provide such information only through the services of qualified lawyers. Member States should therefore have the possibility to find the most appropriate modalities for the provision of such information, such as through non-governmental organisations, government officials or specialised services of the State.

(18) In appeals procedures, subject to certain conditions, applicants should be granted free legal assistance and representation provided by persons competent to do so under national law. Furthermore, at all stages of the procedure, applicants should have the right to consult, at their own cost, legal advisers or counsellors permitted as such under national law.
(19) The notion of public order may \textit{inter alia} cover a conviction for committing a serious crime.

(20) In the interests of a correct recognition of those persons in need of protection as refugees within the meaning of Article 1 of the Geneva Convention or as persons eligible for subsidiary protection, every applicant should, subject to certain exceptions, have an effective access to procedures, the opportunity to cooperate and properly communicate with the competent authorities so as to present the relevant facts of his/her case and sufficient procedural guarantees to pursue his/her case throughout all stages of the procedure. Moreover, the procedure in which an application for \textit{international protection} is examined should normally provide an applicant at least with the right to stay pending a decision by the determining authority, access to the services of an interpreter for submitting his/her case if interviewed by the authorities, the opportunity to communicate with a representative of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) and with organisations providing advice or counselling to applicants for \textit{international protection} or with any organisation working on its behalf, the right to appropriate notification of a decision, a motivation of that decision in fact and in law, the opportunity to consult a legal adviser or other counsellor, and the right to be informed of his/her legal position at decisive moments in the course of the procedure, in a language he/she understands or is reasonably supposed to understand and, in the case of a negative decision, the right to an effective remedy before a court or a tribunal.
In addition, specific procedural guarantees for unaccompanied minors should be laid down on account of their vulnerability. In this context, the best interests of the child should be a primary consideration of Member States.

With a view to ensuring an effective access to the examination procedure, officials who first come into contact with persons seeking international protection, in particular those carrying out surveillance of land or maritime borders or conducting border checks, should receive instructions and necessary training on how to recognise and deal with requests for international protection. They should be able to provide third country nationals or stateless persons who are present in the territory, including at the border, in the territorial waters or in the transit zones of the Member States, and wish to request international protection, with all relevant information as to where and how applications for international protection may be lodged. Where those persons are present in the territorial waters of a Member State, they should be disembarked on land and have their applications examined in accordance with this Directive.

In order to facilitate access to the examination procedure at border crossing points and in detention facilities, information should be made available on the possibility to request international protection. Basic communication necessary to enable the competent authorities to understand if persons declare their wish to apply for international protection should be ensured through interpretation arrangements.
(23) In addition, applicants in need of special procedural guarantees, such as minors, unaccompanied minors, persons who have been subjected to torture, rape or other serious acts of violence or disabled persons, should be provided with adequate support in order to create the conditions necessary for their effective access to procedures and presenting the elements needed to substantiate the application for international protection.

(24) National measures dealing with identification and documentation of symptoms and signs of torture or other serious acts of physical or mental violence, including acts of sexual violence, in procedures covered by this Directive should inter alia be based on the Manual on Effective Investigation and Documentation of Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment (Istanbul Protocol).

(25) With a view to ensuring substantive equality between female and male applicants, examination procedures should be gender sensitive. In particular, personal interviews should be organised in a way which makes it possible for both female and male applicants to speak about their past experiences in cases involving gender based persecution. The complexity of gender related claims should be properly taken into account in procedures based on the safe third country concept, the safe country of origin concept or the notion of subsequent applications.

(27) Procedures for examining international protection needs should be organised in a way that makes it possible for the competent authorities to conduct a rigorous examination of applications for international protection.
(28) Where an applicant makes a subsequent application without presenting new evidence or arguments, it would be disproportionate to oblige Member States to carry out a new full examination procedure. In these cases, Member States should be able to dismiss an application as inadmissible in accordance with the res judicata principle. They have a choice of procedure involving exceptions to the guarantees normally enjoyed by the applicant.

(29) Many asylum applications are made at the border or in a transit zone of a Member State prior to a decision on the entry of the applicant. Member States should be able to provide for admissibility and/or substantive examination procedures which make it possible to decide on applications made at the border or in transit zones at those locations in well-defined circumstances. They should keep existing procedures adapted to the specific situation of these applicants at the border. Common rules should be defined on possible exceptions made in these circumstances to the guarantees normally enjoyed by applicants. Border procedures should mainly apply to those applicants who do not meet the conditions for entry into the territory of the Member States.
A key consideration for the well-foundedness of an asylum application for international protection is the safety of the applicant in his/her country of origin. Where a third country can be regarded as a safe country of origin, Member States should be able to designate it as safe and presume its safety for a particular applicant, unless he/she presents serious counter-indications.

Given the level of harmonisation achieved on the qualification of third country nationals and stateless persons as refugees, common criteria for designating third countries as safe countries of origin should be established.

Where the Council has satisfied itself that those criteria are met in relation to a particular country of origin, and has consequently included it in the minimum common list of safe countries of origin to be adopted pursuant to this Directive, Member States should be obliged to consider applications of persons with the nationality of that country, or of stateless persons formerly habitually resident in that country, on the basis of the rebuttable presumption of the safety of that country. In the light of the political importance of the designation of safe countries of origin, in particular in view of the implications of an assessment of the human rights situation in a country of origin and its implications for the policies of the European Union in the field of external relations, the Council should take any decisions on the establishment or amendment of the list, after consultation of the European Parliament.
(32) It results from the status of Bulgaria and Romania as candidate countries for accession to the European Union and the progress made by these countries towards membership that they should be regarded as constituting safe countries of origin for the purposes of this Directive until the date of their accession to the European Union.

(33) The designation of a third country as a safe country of origin for the purposes of this Directive cannot establish an absolute guarantee of safety for nationals of that country. By its very nature, the assessment underlying the designation can only take into account the general civil, legal and political circumstances in that country and whether actors of persecution, torture or inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment are subject to sanction in practice when found liable in the country concerned. For this reason, it is important that, where an applicant shows that there are valid serious reasons to consider the country not to be safe in his/her particular circumstances, the designation of the country as safe can no longer be considered relevant for him/her.
(34) Member States should examine all applications on the substance, i.e. assess whether the applicant in question qualifies as a refugee in accordance with Directive [.../.../EU] [the Qualification Directive] Council Directive 2004/83/EC of 29 April 2004 on minimum standards for the qualification and status of third country nationals or stateless persons as refugees or as persons who otherwise need international protection and the content of the protection granted, except where the present Directive provides otherwise, in particular where it can be reasonably assumed that another country would do the examination or provide sufficient protection. In particular, Member States should not be obliged to assess the substance of an asylum application where a first country of asylum has granted the applicant refugee status or otherwise sufficient protection and the applicant will be readmitted to this country.

(35) Member States should also not be obliged to assess the substance of an asylum application where the applicant, due to a sufficient connection to a third country as defined by national law, can reasonably be expected to seek protection in that third country, and there are grounds for considering that the applicant will be admitted or re-admitted to that country. Member States should only proceed on this basis where this particular applicant would be safe in the third country concerned. In order to avoid secondary movements of applicants, common principles for the consideration or designation by Member States of third countries as safe should be established.
Furthermore, with respect to certain European third countries, which observe particularly high human rights and refugee protection standards, Member States should be allowed to not carry out, or not to carry out full examination of asylum applications for international protection regarding applicants who enter their territory from such European third countries. Given the potential consequences for the applicant of a restricted or omitted examination, this application of the safe third country concept should be restricted to cases involving third countries with respect to which the Council has satisfied itself that the high standards for the safety of the third country concerned, as set out in this Directive, are fulfilled. The Council should take decisions in this matter after consultation of the European Parliament.

It follows from the nature of the common standards concerning both safe third country concepts as set out in this Directive, that the practical effect of the concepts depends on whether the third country in question permits the applicant in question to enter its territory.

In order to facilitate regular exchange of information about the national application of the safe country of origin, safe third country and European safe third country concepts and to prepare possible further harmonisation in the future, Member States should notify or periodically inform the Commission about the third countries to which these concepts are applied.
(38) With respect to the withdrawal of refugee or subsidiary protection status, Member States should ensure that persons benefiting from international protection are duly informed of a possible reconsideration of their status and have the opportunity to submit their point of view before the authorities can take a motivated decision to withdraw their status. However, dispensing with these guarantees should be allowed where the reasons for the cessation of the refugee status is not related to a change of the conditions on which the recognition was based.

(39) It reflects a basic principle of Union law that the decisions taken on an application for international protection, the decisions concerning a refusal to reopen the examination of an application after its discontinuation, and the decisions on the withdrawal of refugee or subsidiary protection status are subject to an effective remedy before a court or tribunal within the meaning of Article 234 of the Treaty. The effectiveness of the remedy, also with regard to the examination of the relevant facts, depends on the administrative and judicial system of each Member State seen as a whole.
In accordance with Article 72 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, this Directive does not affect the exercise of the responsibilities incumbent upon Member States with regard to the maintenance of law and order and the safeguarding of internal security.

This Directive does not deal with procedures between Member States governed by Council Regulation (EC) No 343/2003 of 18 February 2003 [establishing the criteria and mechanisms for determining the Member state responsible for examining an asylum application for international protection lodged in one of the Member States by a third-country national or a stateless person] (the Dublin Regulation).

Applicants with regard to whom Regulation (EU) No [...] [the Dublin Regulation] applies should enjoy access to the basic principles and guarantees set out in this Directive and to the special guarantees pursuant to Regulation (EU) No [...] [the Dublin Regulation].

DE considered recital (41) and recital (42) contradictory.
The implementation of this Directive should be evaluated at regular intervals not exceeding two years.

Since the objectives of this Directive, namely to establish minimum standards on procedures in Member States for granting and withdrawing refugee status, cannot be sufficiently achieved by the Member States and can therefore, by reason of the scale and effects of the action, be better achieved at Union level, the Union may adopt measures, in accordance with the principle of subsidiarity as set out in Article 5 of the Treaty on European Union. In accordance with the principle of proportionality, as set out in that Article, this Directive does not go beyond what is necessary in order to achieve that objective.

In accordance with Article 3 of the Protocol on the position of the United Kingdom and Ireland, annexed to the Treaty on European Union and to the Treaty establishing the European Community, the United Kingdom has notified, by letter of 24 January 2001, its wish to take part in the adoption and application of this Directive.
In accordance with Article 3 of the Protocol on the position of the United Kingdom and Ireland, annexed to the Treaty on European Union and to the Treaty establishing the European Community, Ireland has notified, by letter of 14 February 2001, its wish to take part in the adoption and application of this Directive.

In accordance with Article 4a(1) of Protocol No. 21 on the position of the United Kingdom and Ireland in respect of the Area of Freedom, Security and Justice, annexed to the Treaty on European Union and the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, and without prejudice to paragraph 2 of that Article, so long as the United Kingdom and Ireland have not notified their wish to accept this measure, in accordance with Article 4 of that Protocol, they are not bound by it and continue to be bound by Directive 2005/85/EC.

In accordance with Articles 1 and 2 of the Protocol on the position of Denmark, annexed to the Treaty on European Union and to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union establishing the European Community, Denmark does not take part in the adoption of this Directive and is not bound by it or subject to its application.
(47) This Directive respects the fundamental rights and observes the principles recognised in particular by the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union. In particular, this Directive seeks to ensure full respect for human dignity and to promote the application of Articles 1, 18, 19, 21, 23, 24, and 47 of the Charter and has to be implemented accordingly.

(48) The obligation to transpose this Directive into national law should be confined to those provisions which represent a substantive change as compared with the earlier Directive. The obligation to transpose the provisions which are unchanged arises under the earlier Directive.

(49) This Directive should be without prejudice to the obligations of the Member States relating to the time-limit for transposition into national law of the Directive set out in Annex II, Part B.
HAVE ADOPTED THIS DIRECTIVE\(^6\),

CHAPTER I

GENERAL PROVISIONS

Article 1

Purpose

The purpose of this Directive is to establish \(\rightarrow\) common \(\leftarrow\) minimum standards on \(\rightarrow\) procedures in \(\leftarrow\) Member States for granting and withdrawing \(\rightarrow\) international protection status by virtue of Directive [...] [...] [the Qualification Directive] \(\leftarrow\) refugee status.
Article 2

Definitions

For the purposes of this Directive:

(a) "Geneva Convention" means the Convention of 28 July 1951 relating to the status of refugees, as amended by the New York Protocol of 31 January 1967;

(b) "application" or "application for asylum" means an application made by a third country national or stateless person which can be understood as a request for international protection from a Member State under the Geneva Convention. Any application for international protection is presumed to be an application for asylum, unless the person concerned explicitly requests another kind of protection that can be applied for separately.

(b) "application" or "application for international protection" means a request made by a third country national or a stateless person for protection from a Member State, who can be understood to seek refugee status or subsidiary protection status, and who does not explicitly request another kind of protection outside the scope of Directive […] […] EU [the Qualification Directive], that can be applied for separately.
(c) "applicant" or "applicant for international protection as asylum" means a third country national or stateless person who has made an application for international protection as asylum in respect of which a final decision has not yet been taken;

(d) "applicant in need of special procedural guarantees" means an applicant whose ability to benefit from the rights and comply with the obligations provided for in this Directive is limited due to individual circumstances such as age, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity, disability, serious illness, mental disorders or consequences of torture, rape or other serious forms of psychological, physical or sexual violence.

7 Reservation: AT, ES, IT, PT, RO
Scrutiny reservation: CZ, EL, FR, LU, SE, SK
ES, PT considered that persons with special needs should primarily be supported through social assistance and not so much through providing special procedural guarantees.
FR, RO, SI, SK expressed in particular concerns on the reference to sexual orientation and gender identity considering these circumstances at first sight not sufficient reasons for obtaining an entitlement to special procedural guarantees.
EL, FR, LU suggested not to list the examples. EE, NL, MT could support the definition but would prefer not listing examples.

8 Scrutiny reservation on "mental disorders": AT, DE, ES
AT, DE suggested "mental illness" instead of "mental disorders".
(e) "final decision" means a decision on whether the third country national or stateless person be granted refugee or subsidiary protection status by virtue of Directive [.../…/EU] [the Qualification Directive] 2004/83/EC and which is no longer subject to a remedy within the framework of Chapter V of this Directive irrespective of whether such remedy has the effect of allowing applicants to remain in the Member States concerned pending its outcome subject to Annex III of this Directive.

(f) "determining authority" means any quasi-judicial or administrative body in a Member State responsible for examining applications for international protection asylum competent to take decisions at first instance in such cases subject to Annex I.

(g) "refugee" means a third country national or a stateless person who fulfils the requirements of Article 2(d) of Directive [.../…/EU] [the Qualification Directive] of the Geneva Convention as set out in Directive 2004/83/EC.
(h) "person eligible for subsidiary protection" means a third country national or a stateless person who fulfils the requirements of Article 2(f) of Directive […/…/EU] [the Qualification Directive];

(i) "international protection status" means the recognition by a Member State of a third country national or a stateless person as a refugee or a person eligible for subsidiary protection;

(je) "refugee status" means the recognition by a Member State of a third country national or a stateless person as a refugee;

(k) "subsidiary protection status" means the recognition by a Member State of a third country national or a stateless person as a person eligible for subsidiary protection;

(l) "minor" means a third country national or a stateless person below the age of 18 years;
"unaccompanied minor" means a minor as defined in Article 2(l) of Directive 2005/85/EC (adapted) [the Qualification Directive] a person below the age of eighteen who arrives in the territory of the Member States unaccompanied by an adult responsible for him/her whether by law or by custom, and for as long as he/she is not effectively taken into the care of such a person; it includes a minor who is left unaccompanied after he/she has entered the territory of the Member States:

"representative\(^{10}\) means a person or an organisation appointed by the competent bodies in order to assist and represent an unaccompanied minor in procedures provided for in this Directive with a view to ensuring the child's best interests and exercising legal capacity for the minor where necessary. Where an organisation is appointed as a representative, it shall designate a person responsible for carrying out the duties of his organisation in respect of the minor, in accordance with this Directive person acting on behalf of an organisation representing an unaccompanied minor as legal guardian, a person acting on behalf of a national organisation which is responsible for the care and well-being of minors, or any other appropriate representation appointed to ensure his/her best interests.

9 Scrutiny reservation: CZ, EL, SE
   EL requested clarification if "organisations" referred solely to NGOs or also to public organisations.

10 EE proposed to insert: "of an unaccompanied minor".

11 Reservation CY on deletion on the phrase "to act as a legal guardian". In the same vein, Cion indicated it would like to keep the concept of the legal guardian in the Directive.
"withdrawal of international protection status" means the decision by a competent authority to revoke, end or refuse to renew the refugee or subsidiary protection status of a person in accordance with Directive [.../.../EU] [the Qualification Directive] 2004/83/EC:

"remain in the Member State" means to remain in the territory, including at the border or in transit zones, of the Member State in which the application for international protection as asylum has been made or is being examined:

"subsequent application" means a further application made after a final decision has been taken on a previous application, including cases where the applicant has explicitly withdrawn his/her application and cases where the determining authority has rejected an application following its implicit withdrawal in accordance with Article 28(1).

Reservation: CY, NL expressing concerns about possible costs and potential abuse. Scrutiny reservation: CZ, EE, EL, ES, FI, IT, SE, SI, SK.

EE, NL proposed to delete "final" arguing that it should be possible to reject a subsequent application while the appeal in the initial application has not yet been finalised.
Article 3

Scope

1. This Directive shall apply to all applications for international protection as asylum made in the territory, including at the border, in the territorial waters or in the transit zones of the Member States, and to the withdrawal of international protection refugee status.

2. This Directive shall not apply in cases of requests for diplomatic or territorial asylum submitted to representations of Member States.

3. Where Member States employ or introduce a procedure in which asylum applications are examined both as applications on the basis of the Geneva Convention and as applications for other kinds of international protection given under the circumstances defined by Article 15 of Directive 2004/83/EC, they shall apply this Directive throughout their procedure.
Moreover, Member States may decide to apply this Directive in procedures for deciding on applications for any kind of international\(^{14}\) protection falling outside of the scope of Directive [...] [the Qualification Directive].

Article 4\(^{15}\)

Responsible authorities

1. Member States shall designate a determining authority which will be responsible for an appropriate examination of the applications in accordance with this Directive, in particular Articles 8(2) and 9. Member States shall ensure that that authority is provided with appropriate means, including sufficient competent personnel, to carry out its tasks in accordance with this Directive.

In accordance with Article 4(4) of Regulation (EC) No 343/2003, applications for asylum made in a Member State to the authorities of another Member State carrying out immigration controls there shall be dealt with by the Member State in whose territory the application is made.

\(^{14}\) NL expressed a preference for deleting "international" given that "international protection" is defined in the Qualification Directive whereas "international protection" in this paragraph refers to protection falling outside the scope of that directive.

\(^{15}\) Scrutiny reservation: FR (also in relation to the Articles 31 and 43), PT
2. However, Member States may provide that an another authority other than that referred to in paragraph 1 is responsible for the purposes of:

(a) processing cases pursuant to Regulation (EU) No [...] [the Dublin Regulation], and processing cases in which it is considered to transfer the applicant to another State according to the rules establishing criteria and mechanisms for determining which State is responsible for considering an application for asylum, until the transfer takes place or the requested State has refused to take charge of or take back the applicant;

(b) taking a decision on the application in the light of national security provisions, provided the determining authority is consulted prior to this decision as to whether the applicant qualifies as a refugee by virtue of Directive 2004/83/EC;

(c) conducting a preliminary examination pursuant to Article 32, provided this authority has access to the applicant's file regarding the previous application;

(d) processing cases in the framework of the procedures provided for in Article 35(1);

(b) granting or refusing permission to enter in the framework of the procedure provided for in Article 43 to 45(2) to (5), subject to the conditions and as set out therein and on the basis of the opinion of the determining authority.

DE proposed to delete paragraph 2. BE, considering this a crucial issue because, explained that in Belgian national law, the Minister is responsible for the decision to remove an asylum seeker from the territory in case this person is considered a danger to the public order. Given that this decision applies on the whole of the territory and not only to border zones, BE proposed to maintain the points (b) and (c) of the directive currently in force.

AT, DE suggested to avoid references to the Dublin Regulation considering that the scope of this Regulation and the scope of the Asylum Procedures Directive have no overlap.
establishing that an applicant is seeking to enter or has entered into the Member State from a safe third country pursuant to Article 36, subject to the conditions and as set out in that Article.

3. Member States shall ensure that the personnel of the determining authority are properly trained. To that end, Member States shall provide for initial and, where relevant, follow-up training which shall include the elements listed in Article 6(4) (a) to (e) of Regulation (EU) No 439/2010. Member States shall also take into account the training established and developed by the European Asylum Support Office. Persons interviewing applicants pursuant to this Directive shall also receive basic training with regard to the awareness of […] consequences of torture and of medical problems which could adversely affect the applicants' ability to be interviewed.

Scrubtny reservation: DE, ES, FR, IT, MT, NL, RO, SI, SK

DE, under reference to its proposals for Articles 18 and 24 contained in document 14909/11, suggested a reference to general knowledge of problems which could impair the applicant's ability to be interviewed instead of basic training and no specific reference to torture. In response, Cion wondered how knowledge could be obtained without training.

FR, supported by ES, rejected Article 4(3) finding it too binding. Alternatively, FR expressed its support for the DE proposal contained in document 14909/11 for Article 18 suggesting to add at the end of paragraph 1 the phrase: "without prejudice to the fact that the applicant can submit evidence to support his/her application."

NL requested clarification whether all elements of the training need to be covered both in the initial training and in the follow-up training.

ES, NL, SI, SK expressed concerns about the level of detail of the proposed provision considering that the reference to EASO would suffice. In response, Cion indicated this concerns basic training which should already be in place in the Member States. Furthermore, Cion noted that EASO and the European Asylum Curriculum will be of use.

ES requested clarification on what would be the consequences if EASO would not submit its training proposals in a timely manner.

Scrubtny reservation: PT arguing that the training provided by EASO should be sufficient.
Where an authority is designated in accordance with paragraph 2, Member States shall ensure that the personnel of such authorities have the appropriate knowledge or receive the necessary training to fulfil their obligations when implementing this Directive.

Applications for international protection made in a Member State to the authorities of another Member State carrying out border or immigration controls there shall be dealt with by the Member State in whose territory the application is made.

Article 5

More favourable provisions

Member States may introduce or maintain more favourable standards on procedures for granting and withdrawing international protection or refugee status, insofar as those standards are compatible with this Directive.
CHAPTER II

BASIC PRINCIPLES AND GUARANTEES

Article 6

Access to the procedure

1. Member States may require that applications for international protection as asylum be lodged in person and/or at a designated place, without prejudice to paragraphs 2, 3, and 4.

Reservation: CZ, NL
Scrutiny reservation: BE, CY, DE, EE, ES, HU, FR, IT, LU, RO, SE, SI, SK
In response to queries from BE, DE, ES, HU, SE, SI, SK on the requirements and implications of registration of an application for international protection, Cion indicated that a person becomes an applicant for international protection from the moment he/she expresses a request for protection to any authority - the determining authority or any other competent authority. From that moment on, basic rights must be provided, in particular the right to remain. Registration is the act that an authority puts on record in writing that an application for international protection has been made. Such record does not have any additional legal effect in comparison to the earlier request for protection and can be basic. Lodging the application is the step where the administrative formalities linked to the transmission of the first essential elements of the application are completed. It requires the applicant to communicate to the relevant authority the information that will enable the examination of the application to begin. This authority can, but does not have to be, the determining authority. The lodging of the application is the starting point for a number of deadlines. Registering and lodging can be done at the same time.

AT, NL, SI wanted to make sure in the text that the applicant for international protection lodges the application in person and is not replaced by his/her legal representative. In response, Cion indicated that the article covers this concern given the term "without prejudice to paragraphs 2, 3 and 4 in paragraph 1. SI proposed to delete the phrase "without prejudice to paragraphs 2, 3 and 4" considering it superfluous.

NL expressed concerns about a possible interpretation of the Article that all written forms which are lodged by an applicant, including those not lodged in person and/or at a designated place, must be considered as a complete application. For that reason, NL proposed to split paragraph 3 and to replace at the beginning of the second part of the split paragraph "An application for international protection is deemed..." by "Without prejudice to paragraph 1, an application for international protection is deemed.." and to adapt the numbering of the paragraphs accordingly.
2. When a person makes a request for international protection, Member States shall ensure that the fact that the person is an applicant is registered as soon as possible and no later than 3 working days after such request has been made. Member States shall also ensure that the authorities likely to receive such requests for protection have the relevant instructions and that their personnel receives the necessary training. In the implementation of this paragraph, Member States shall take into account relevant guidelines developed by the European Asylum Support Office.

3. Member States shall ensure that a person who has made a request for international protection has an effective opportunity to lodge his/her application as soon as possible. An application for international protection shall be deemed to have been lodged once a form submitted by the applicant or a report prepared by the authorities has reached the competent authorities of the Member State concerned.

21 Reservation: SI
Scrutiny reservation: DE, EL

22 CY, supported by IT, SK, proposed "intends to make an application.

23 CY, IT, ES rejected a deadline for registering an applicant considering this, in some cases, unworkable. HU considered the "3 working day deadline" too short in particular in cases when the application is made before some authorities not competent for asylum matters. In this context, Cion noted that 72 hours would be an indication of time period which is more consistent with the time periods contained in the EURODAC Regulation.

24 CZ, DE, LU, SI suggested in relation to the last sentence of paragraph 2 to insert a general reference to EASO in the recitals and SI proposed to stop the sentence after "..instructions". In response, Cion indicated that this provision does not make the EASO guidelines binding and that Member States are only in a position to apply the EASO guidelines from the moment these will have come available.

25 Scrutiny reservation: DE, EE
Where the simultaneous request for international protection by a large number of third country nationals or stateless persons makes it impossible in practice to respect the time limit laid down in paragraph 2, Member States may provide for that time limit to be extended to 7 working days.\(^\text{27}\)

2. Member States shall ensure that each adult having legal capacity has the right to make an application for asylum on his/her own behalf.

3. Member States may provide that an application may be made by an applicant on behalf of his/her dependants. In such cases Member States shall ensure that dependant adults consent to the lodging of the application on their behalf, failing which they shall have an opportunity to make an application on their own behalf.

Consent shall be requested at the time the application is lodged or, at the latest, when the personal interview with the dependant adult is conducted.

4. Member States may determine in national legislation

IT, ES considered 7 working days insufficient in case of a large influx of applicants for international protection. IT proposed "30 working days". CZ considered 7 working days too short in case people arrive at the airport.
(b)—the cases in which the application of an unaccompanied minor has to be lodged by a representative as provided for in Article 17(1)(a);

(c)—the cases in which the lodging of an application for asylum is deemed to constitute also the lodging of an application for asylum for any unmarried minor.

5. Member States shall ensure that authorities likely to be addressed by someone who wishes to make an application for asylum are able to advise that person how and where he/she may make such an application and/or may require these authorities to forward the application to the competent authority.

Applications made on behalf of dependants or minors

1. Member States shall ensure that each adult having legal capacity has the right to make an application for international protection on his/her own behalf.

2. Member States may provide that an application may be made by an applicant on behalf of his/her dependants. In such cases Member States shall ensure that dependant adults consent to the lodging of the application on their behalf, failing which they shall have an opportunity to make an application on their own behalf.
Consent shall be requested at the time the application is lodged or, at the latest, when the personal interview with the dependant adult is conducted. Before consent is requested, each dependant adult among these persons shall be informed in private of relevant procedural consequences and of his or her right to make a separate application for international protection.

3. Member States shall ensure that a minor has the right to make an application for international protection either on his/her own behalf, if he/she has the legal capacity to act in procedures according to the national law of the Member State concerned, or through his/her parents or other adult family members, or an adult responsible for him/her, whether by law or by national practice of the Member State concerned, or through a representative.

28 Reservation: DE proposed to delete the phrase: "or other adult family members, or an adult responsible for him/her", considering this subject matter for regulation in national law. Scrutiny reservation: ES expressing doubts about the possibilities for minors to lodge an application.
4. Member States shall ensure that the appropriate bodies referred to in Article 10 of Directive 2008/115/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council have the right to lodge an application for international protection on behalf of an unaccompanied minor if, on the basis of an individual assessment of his/her personal situation, those bodies are of the opinion that the minor may have protection needs pursuant to Directive [...] [the Qualification Directive].

5. Member States may determine in national legislation:

(a) the cases in which a minor can make an application on his/her own behalf;

(b) the cases in which the application of an unaccompanied minor has to be lodged by a representative as provided for in Article 25(1)(a);

Reservation: AT, DE, NL, RO, SI
Scrutiny reservation: BG, FI, HU, PL
NL referred to the link with Article 2 (n) pointing out that a representative is to be appointed for every unaccompanied minor. As a result, NL expressed doubts about the need to provide for a right for bodies referred to in Article 10 of the Return Directive to lodge an application for an unaccompanied minor.

Article 8

Information and counselling at border crossing points and in detention facilities

1. Member States shall ensure that information on the possibility to request international protection is available in detention facilities and at border crossing points, including transit zones, at external borders, in response to an enquiry from the third country national or stateless person in this respect. Member States shall provide interpretation arrangements to the extent necessary to facilitate access to procedure in these areas.

Scrutiny reservation: AT, HU, PT, RO, SK
SI, supported by AT, RO, proposed to add in the title and in paragraph 1 a phrase making an explicit link between the provision of information and a request for international protection: "for persons who have expressed a wish to make an application".
EE, HU, PT considered that the relevant information can be provided with a brochure.
EE, RO requested clarification on the implementation of the last sentence. In response, Cion indicated that interpretation arrangements supported by UNHCR exist and are in use in several Member States. Furthermore, Cion pointed to the risk of refoulement in case no adequate interpretation arrangements would be available.
Cion expressed concerns that persons who do not know that international protection can be asked will not be properly informed. Moreover, Cion considered that rules for giving information are already sufficiently provided for in Article 6.3.
2. Member States shall ensure that organisations providing advice and counselling to applicants for international protection have access to the applicants present at border crossing points, including transit zones, at external borders. Member States may provide for rules covering the presence of such organizations in these areas, in particular as far as limitations regarding security, public order and administrative management of these areas are concerned and that such access is subject to an agreement with the competent authorities of the Member State.

Article 9

Right to remain in the Member State pending the examination of the application

1. Applicants shall be allowed to remain in the Member State, for the sole purpose of the procedure, until the determining authority has made a decision in accordance with the procedures at first instance set out in Chapter III. This right to remain shall not constitute an entitlement to a residence permit.

Reservation: NL
Scrutiny reservation: IT, LT
Linguistic reservation: DE

IT, NL expressed concerns about the security implications of allowing access to border crossing points. These delegations considered the possibility that Member States may provide rules not sufficient guarantee for tackling these concerns. In addition, NL proposed to indicate that it is the applicant that should go to the NGOs and not the other way around. In response, Cion indicated that several Member States already allow NGOs access to border points on the basis of security agreements.

DE, EE proposed to insert "and persons".

Scrutiny reservation: CY, ES
2.Member States can make an exception only where a person makes a subsequent application referred to in Article 41 will not be further examined or where they will surrender or extradite, as appropriate, a person either to another Member State pursuant to obligations in accordance with a European arrest warrant or otherwise, or to a third country, with the exception of the country of origin of the applicant concerned, or to international criminal courts or tribunals.

3.A Member State may extradite an applicant to a third country pursuant to paragraph 2 only where the competent authorities are satisfied that an extradition decision will not result in direct or indirect refoulement in violation of international obligations of the Member State.

35 Reservation: CZ, DE
Scrutiny reservation: AT
NL proposed to add as a third ground for making an exception, the situation where "the person may for serious reasons be considered a danger to the national security or public order of the Member State".

36 Reservation: AT, NL on the reference to Article 41.
38 DE proposed to delete the phrase "with the exception of the country of origin of the applicant concerned,"; in this context, DE submitted a proposal (17408/11). This was supported by AT. Alternatively, AT suggested to add the words "if that country is the country of the alleged persecution" after the words "with the exception of the country of origin of the applicant concerned".
In response, Cion indicated that the new proposal is not intended to result in a change of substance and that surrendering or extraditing a person to the country of origin is forbidden on the base of case-law.
39 DE expressed concerns about paragraph 3 arguing it would limit the possibilities for Member States to extradite a person which currently is not allowed as the Directive currently in force only makes a reference to extradition. In that context, DE requested clarification whether the legal base of the recast proposal covers this new limitation.
Article 10

Requirements for the examination of applications

1. Without prejudice to Article 23(4)(i), Member States shall ensure that applications for international protection as asylum are neither rejected nor excluded from examination on the sole ground that they have not been made as soon as possible.

2. When examining applications for international protection, the determining authority shall first determine whether the applicants qualify as refugees and, if not, determine whether the applicants are eligible for subsidiary protection.

Scrutiny reservation: RO
Linguistic reservation: RO
Reservation: NL
NL proposed to insert: "the elements of".
3. Member States shall ensure that decisions by the determining authority on applications for international protection are taken after an appropriate examination. To that end, Member States shall ensure that:

(a) applications are examined and decisions are taken individually, objectively and impartially;

(b) precise and up-to-date information is obtained from various sources, such as the European Asylum Support Office and the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR), as to the general situation prevailing in the countries of origin of applicants for asylum and, where necessary, in countries through which they have transited, and that such information is made available to the personnel responsible for examining applications and taking decisions;

(c) the personnel examining applications and taking decisions have the knowledge with respect to relevant standards applicable in the field of asylum and refugee law.
(d)\(^{43}\) the personnel examining applications and taking decisions \(\Rightarrow […] \) have the possibility to seek advice, whenever necessary, from experts on particular issues, such as medical, cultural, religious, child-related or gender issues.

4. The authorities referred to in Chapter V shall, through the determining authority or the applicant or otherwise, have access to the general information referred to in paragraph 3\(^{2}\)(b), necessary for the fulfilment of their task.

5. Member States \(\Rightarrow \text{shall} \Rightarrow \text{may}^{44}\) provide for rules concerning the translation of documents relevant for the examination of applications.

43 Scrutiny reservation: DE, EL, NL, RO as regards the level of detail of this provision and the possible costs involved.
NL, RO proposed to delete the phrase "such as medical, cultural, religious, child-related or gender issues" considering it more important to highlight that the personnel examining applications and taking decisions in each case undertake an individual assessment.
RO expressed concerns that this provision could be a basis for litigation and result in interpretation by a court.

44 Scrutiny reservation: DE, LV, SE, SI. In response, Cion pointed to the contribution of rules concerning the translation of documents relevant for the examination of applications in view of improving frontloading in the asylum procedure.
AT, LV, SI expressed a preference for keeping "may".
DE considered this paragraph more appropriately placed in the preamble.
Article 11

Requirements for a decision by the determining authority

1. Member States shall ensure that decisions on applications for international protection are given in writing.

2. Member States shall also ensure that, where an application is rejected with regard to refugee status and/or subsidiary protection status, the reasons in fact and in law are stated in the decision and information on how to challenge a negative decision is given in writing.

Member States need not state the reasons for not granting refugee status in a decision where the applicant is granted a status which offers the same rights and benefits under national and Community law as the refugee status by virtue of Directive 2004/83/EC. In these cases, Member States shall ensure that the reasons for not granting refugee status are stated in the applicant's file and that the applicant has, upon request, access to his/her file.

Reservation: NL
NL opposed deletion of the subparagraph given that its national system provides for the grant of a single status and that, sanctioned by the highest court in the Netherlands, no appeal is possible on the issue whether the basis for that status is the Geneva Convention or provisions on subsidiary protection. Against that background, NL proposed as first subparagraph: "Member States shall also ensure that, where a decision is taken not to grant a protection status or not to grant a protection status which contains the same rights applicable to refugees as described in Chapter VII of [the Qualification Directive], the reasons in fact and in law are stated in the decision and information on how to challenge a negative decision is given in writing.". For the same reason, NL has a reservation on Article 46.

CY proposed to replace the phrase "with regard to refugee status and/or subsidiary protection status" with "application for international protection". CY argued that applications are examined in a single procedure and consequently, that there is no reason to state the reasons in case a refugee status is not granted refugee status while subsidiary protection status is granted.
Moreover, Member States need not provide information on how to challenge a negative decision in writing in conjunction with a decision where the applicant has been provided with this information at an earlier stage either in writing or by electronic means accessible to the applicant.

3. For the purposes of Article 7(2), and whenever the application is based on the same grounds, Member States may take one single decision, covering all dependants, unless this would lead to the disclosure of particular circumstances of an applicant which could jeopardize his/her interests, in particular in cases involving gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and/or age based persecution.

Article 12

Guarantees for applicants for international protection

1. With respect to the procedures provided for in Chapter III, Member States shall ensure that all applicants for international protection enjoy the following guarantees:

Reservation: RO considering the paragraph too specific and casting doubts as to the coherence with Article 2(d). In that context, RO proposed to delete the phrase: "in particular in cases...persecution".
(a) they shall be informed in a language which they understand or are may reasonably be supposed to understand of the procedure to be followed and of their rights and obligations during the procedure and the possible consequences of not complying with their obligations and not cooperating with the authorities. They shall be informed of the time-frame, as well as the means at their disposal for fulfilling the obligation to submit the elements as referred to in Article 4 of Directive [.../.../EU] [the Qualification Directive] 2004/83/EC, as well as of the consequences of an explicit or implicit withdrawal of the application. This information shall be given in time to enable them to exercise the rights guaranteed in this Directive and to comply with the obligations described in Article 13:

(b) they shall receive the services of an interpreter for submitting their case to the competent authorities whenever necessary. Member States shall consider it necessary to give these services at least when the determining authority calls upon the applicant is to be interviewed as referred to in Articles 14, 15, 12 and 13 and appropriate communication cannot be ensured without such services. In this case and in other cases where the competent authorities call upon the applicant, these services shall be paid for out of public funds;

(c) they shall not be denied the opportunity to communicate with the UNHCR or with any other organisation providing legal advice or counselling to applicants for international protection in accordance with the national law of working on behalf of the UNHCR in the territory of the Member State pursuant to an agreement with that Member State;
(d) they and, if applicable, their legal advisers shall not be denied access to the information referred to in Article 10(3)(b), where the determining authority has taken [...][that information into consideration for the purpose of taking a decision on their application;

(e) they shall be given notice in reasonable time of the decision by the determining authority on their application for international protection as asylum. If a legal adviser or other counsellor is legally representing the applicant, Member States may choose to give notice of the decision to him/her instead of to the applicant for international protection.

Reservation: EL, HU
Scrutiny reservation: NL, SE

EL argued that access should be limited to that information that has been important for the decision on the application expressing the position that access to this information should only be allowed in case an appeal is lodged against a final decision before the Supreme Court of Justice.

In response to HU, Cion indicated that access of the applicant and/or his/her legal adviser to information would remain possible before and after the decision.

NL could lift its scrutiny reservation on this provision and on Article 23 if the phrase "in accordance with Article 23(1), " would be inserted after "legal advisers".
they shall be informed of the result of the decision by the determining authority in a language that they may reasonably be supposed to understand when they are not assisted or represented by a legal adviser or other counsellor and when free legal assistance is not available. The information provided shall include information on how to challenge a negative decision in accordance with the provisions of Article 11(2) of the Qualification Directive.

2. With respect to the procedures provided for in Chapter V, Member States shall ensure that all applicants for asylum enjoy equivalent guarantees to the ones referred to in paragraph 1(b), (c), (d) and (e) of this Article.

Article 13

Obligations of the applicants for international protection

1. Member States shall impose upon applicants for international protection the obligation to cooperate with the competent authorities with a view to establishing their identity and other elements referred to in Article 4(2) of Directive [...] [the Qualification Directive]. Member States may impose upon applicants other obligations to cooperate with the competent authorities insofar as these obligations are necessary for the processing of the application.

2. In particular, Member States may provide that:

(a) applicants for asylum are required to report to the competent authorities or to appear before them in person, either without delay or at a specified time;
(b) applicants for asylum have to hand over documents in their possession relevant to the examination of the application, such as their passports;

(c) applicants for asylum are required to inform the competent authorities of their current place of residence or address and of any changes thereof as soon as possible. Member States may provide that the applicant shall have to accept any communication at the most recent place of residence or address which he/she indicated accordingly;

(d) the competent authorities may search the applicant and the items he/she carries with him/her. Whenever possible, a search of the applicant's person shall be carried out by a person of the same sex;

(e) the competent authorities may take a photograph of the applicant; and

(f) the competent authorities may record the applicant's oral statements, provided he/she has previously been informed thereof.

DE requested to indicate more specifically the purpose of the search as this enters in private sphere of people. In response, Cion indicated that the purpose is explained in the last sentence of paragraph 1 of the article. Moreover, Cion pointed out that paragraph 2 mentions a search of applicants only as an option for Member States.

Cion opposed "Whenever possible," given the intrusiveness of a search of a person and, moreover, considering it always possible to find a same sex person to perform such a search.
Article 14

Personal interview

1. Before a decision is taken by the determining authority, the applicant shall be given the opportunity of a personal interview on his/her application for international protection with a person competent under national law to conduct such an interview. Interviews on the substance of the application for international protection shall be conducted by the personnel of the determining authority.

This paragraph shall be without prejudice to Article 42(2)(b).

Member States may also give the opportunity of a personal interview to each dependant adult referred to in Article 6(2).

Scrutiny reservation: FR

Scrutiny reservation: EE, EL, ES, SE

SE proposed to strengthen the rights of a child to be heard (see document 16753/11).

AT pointed to the sequence of references to other provisions of the directive which reduce the readability of the directive.
Where a large number of third country nationals or stateless persons simultaneously request international protection, which makes it impossible in practice for the determining authority to conduct timely interviews on the substance of an application, Member States may provide that the personnel of another authority be temporarily involved in conducting such interviews. In such cases, the personnel of that authority shall receive in advance the necessary training which shall include the elements listed in Article 6(4)(a) to (e) of Regulation (EU) No 439/2010 and in Article 18(5) of this Directive.

Where a person has made an application for international protection on behalf of his/her dependants, each adult concerned shall be given the opportunity of a personal interview.

55 NL proposed to delete "in advance" fearing difficulties in engaging staff. Cion opposed this proposal specifying that the training should be done in advance of starting conducting interviews and not in advance of engaging interviewers.

56 Reservation: SI considering this paragraph difficult to apply in practice.
Member States may determine in national legislation the cases in which a minor shall be given the opportunity of a personal interview.

2. The personal interview on the substance of the application may be omitted where:

(a) the determining authority is able to take a positive decision with regard to refugee status on the basis of evidence available; or

(b) the competent authority has already had a meeting with the applicant for the purpose of assisting him/her with completing his/her application and submitting the essential information regarding the application, in terms of Article 4(2) of Directive 2004/83/EC; or

(c) the determining authority, on the basis of a complete examination of information provided by the applicant, considers the application to be unfounded in cases where the circumstances mentioned in Article 23(4)(a), (c), (g), (h) and (j) apply.

3. The personal interview may also be omitted where

Scrutiny reservation: CY, EE, EL, ES, FR, SE

58 SI opposed the phrase "with regard to refugee status" in relation to Article 10.

59 PL proposed to re-introduce the possibility to omit the personal interview in cases referred to in Article 31.6 (a).

60 CY, FR, SI proposed to reinsert point (c) of the directive currently in force.
(b) it is not reasonably practicable, in particular where the determining authority is of the opinion that the applicant is unfit or unable to be interviewed owing to enduring circumstances beyond his/her control. When in doubt, the determining authority shall consult a medical expert to establish whether the condition that makes the applicant unfit or unable to be interviewed is temporary or of long-term nature. Member States may require a medical or psychological certificate.

Where a personal interview is not conducted, the Member State does not provide the applicant with the opportunity for a personal interview pursuant to point (b) this paragraph, or where applicable, with the dependant, reasonable efforts shall be made to allow the applicant or the dependant to submit further information.

3. The absence of a personal interview in accordance with this Article shall not prevent the determining authority from taking a decision on an application for international protection.

4. The absence of a personal interview pursuant to paragraph 2(b) and (c) and paragraph 3 shall not adversely affect the decision of the determining authority.

5. Irrespective of Article 28(1), Member States, when deciding on the application for international protection, may take into account the fact that the applicant failed to appear for the personal interview, unless he/she had good reasons for the failure to appear.
Article 15

Requirements for a personal interview

1. A personal interview shall normally take place without the presence of family members unless the determining authority considers it necessary for an appropriate examination to have other family members present.

2. A personal interview shall take place under conditions which ensure appropriate confidentiality.

3. Member States shall take appropriate steps to ensure that personal interviews are conducted under conditions which allow applicants to present the grounds for their applications in a comprehensive manner. To that end, Member States shall:

Scrutiny reservation: PT
(a) ensure that the person who conducts the interview is sufficiently competent to take account of the relevant personal and general circumstances surrounding the application, including the applicant's cultural origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity or vulnerability within the meaning of Article 22 of Directive [.../.../EU] [the Reception Conditions Directive], insofar as it is possible to do so.

---

62 Scrutiny reservation: AT, ES
ES considered it excessive obliging Member States to take all personal and general circumstances into account.
Cion opposed the insertion of "relevant" pointing out this change is made in "white" text on which it has not submitted any proposals.
63 SK proposed to delete "gender, sexual orientation, gender identity" considering these terms sufficiently covered by the reference to personal circumstances.
64 NL proposed to delete the reference to Article 22 of the Reception Conditions Directive considering a specification of vulnerability referring to reception conditions not relevant in the framework of the Asylum Procedures Directive. NL explained that procedural needs are different from reception needs and that procedural needs often only become apparent when the asylum procedure is already underway. In response, Cion indicated that the reference to the Reception Conditions Directive is made because the concept of "vulnerability" is not specified in the Asylum Procedures Directive.
(b) wherever possible, provide for the interview with the applicant to be conducted by a person of the same sex if the applicant concerned so requests unless the request is based on discriminatory grounds.

Scrutiny reservation: AT

On the points (b) and (c):

Reservation: FR wanting to set as well the condition of the request being "duly motivated". In response Cion indicated that persons who have good reasons to be interviewed by a same sex interviewer can be expected to have problems with duly motivating the reasons for wanting a same sex interviewer to an interviewer of another sex.

Scrutiny reservation: ES, NL, SK

ES, HU, NL, SK could support neither the Presidency suggestion nor the the Cion proposal, finding both unworkable in practice. These delegations found the reference to "discriminatory grounds " unclear and considered "wherever possible" sufficient. In response, Cion gave as an example of a discriminatory ground an applicant from Afghanistan who refuses to be interviewed by a woman.

In this context, MT requested clarification what further proceedings the Asylum Procedures Directive foresees in case a demand for a same sex interviewer and an interpreter is refused and the interview does not take place. Would Article 28.1(a) apply in such cases?

Cion expressed concerns about the use of "discriminatory grounds" given that these are difficult to determine in an objective manner and because such grounds do not seem to be sufficient reason for denying access to the asylum procedure.
(c) select an interpreter who is able to ensure appropriate communication between the applicant and the person who conducts the interview. The communication shall need not necessarily take place in the language preferred by the applicant for asylum unless if there is another language which he/she may reasonably be supposed to understands and in which he/she is able to communicate clearly. Wherever possible, Member States shall provide an interpreter of the same sex if the applicant so requests unless the request is based on discriminatory grounds;}

(d) ensure that the person who conducts an interview on the substance of an application for international protection does not wear a military or law enforcement uniform.

67 DE, LU, MT, NL, SK proposed to maintain "may reasonably be supposed" as in the directive currently in force. In response, Cion considered this not in line with the right to be heard.

68 Reservation: LV on "clearly".

69 Reservation: ES
(e) ensure that interviews with minors are conducted in a child appropriate manner.\(^70\)

Article 14

Status of the report of a personal interview in the procedure

1. Member States shall ensure that a written report is made of every personal interview, containing at least the essential information regarding the application, as presented by the applicant, in terms of Article 4(2) of Directive 2004/83/EC.

2. Member States shall ensure that applicants have timely access to the report of the personal interview. Where access is only granted after the decision of the determining authority, Member States shall ensure that access is possible as soon as necessary for allowing an appeal to be prepared and lodged in due time.

3. Member States may request the applicant's approval of the contents of the report of the personal interview.

Where an applicant refuses to approve the contents of the report, the reasons for this refusal shall be entered into the applicant's file.

The refusal of an applicant to approve the contents of the report shall not prevent the determining authority from taking a decision on his/her application.

Report and recording of personal interviews

1. Member States shall ensure that a thorough report containing all substantial elements is made of every personal interview.

2. Member States may provide for audio or audio-visual recording of the personal interview. In this case, Member States shall ensure that the recording of the personal interview is annexed to the report.

3. Member States shall ensure that the applicant has the opportunity to make comments and/or provide clarifications with regard to any mistranslations or misconceptions appearing in the report, at the end of the personal interview or within a specified time limit before the determining authority takes a decision. To that end, Member States shall ensure that the applicant is fully informed of the content of the report, with the assistance of an interpreter if necessary. Member States shall then request the acknowledgment of the applicant on the content of the report.

Reservation: IT expressing concerns about the possible administrative burden resulting from the proposed obligations for reporting on personal interviews.

Scrutiny reservation: BE, ES, FR, SE

Scrutiny reservation: FI on phrase "the recording of the personal interview is annexed to the report". In response, Cion indicated that the purpose of this provision is that the recording should be part of the asylum file of the applicant.

Scrutiny reservation: BE, FR, MT

BE expressed concerns about the implications of this paragraph for administrative costs, in particular considering its practice of having interviews lasting on average several hours which are followed by a session in which the personnel of the determining authority discusses the report of the interview with applicant. In response, Cion indicated that the provision leaves flexibility to the Member States.
Member States need not request the applicant's acknowledgement on the content of the report if the interview is recorded in accordance with paragraph 2 and if the recording is admissible as evidence in procedures referred to in Chapter V.

4. Where an applicant refuses to acknowledge the content of the report, the reasons for this refusal shall be entered into the applicant's file.

The refusal of an applicant to acknowledge the content of the report shall not prevent the determining authority from taking a decision on the application.

5. Applicants shall not be denied access to the report and, where applicable, the recording, before the determining authority takes a decision. Where the application is determined in the framework provided for in Article 31(6), Member States may provide that access to the report is granted at the same time as the decision is made.

75 DE, whilst not opposing access as general rule, proposed to allow for exceptions in certain cases.

76 Scrutiny reservation: CY, CZ, FR, SE

CY considered it not possible to give access to the report at the same moment the decision is taken.

CZ, HU, supported by Cion, expressing concerns that the level of guarantees for applicants is lowered, requested clarification on the exact moment in time the phrase "as the decision is made" is referring to.

SE preferred the Commission proposal.

Cion expressed doubts about the last sentence arguing that the current acquis already provides for access to the report pointing out it considered restricting access to the report not appropriate in case of accelerated procedures which already leave an applicant less time for preparing him/herself.
Article 18

Medical examination

1. Without prejudice to Article 24(3), Member States shall, subject to the applicant's consent, arrange for a medical examination of him/her where the determining authority deems this to be relevant for an assessment of the applicant's request for international protection in accordance with Article 4 of Directive [...]/EU [Qualification Directive]. The medical examination, which in this case shall be paid for out of public funds, shall be carried out by qualified medical professionals and the result thereof shall be submitted to the determining authority. The applicant's refusal to undergo such a medical examination shall not prevent the determining authority from taking a decision on the application for international protection.

77 Reservation: AT, CZ, NL (see proposal for amending Article 18 (13131/11)), SI
Scrutiny reservation: BG, ES, FR, LU, SE
CZ proposed to delete paragraph 1.
In response to concerns expressed by DE, NL, SI, SK that the provision on medical examinations would create new rights for applicants which could lead to costs and delays in the procedure, Cion indicated that the provision does not give a right to appeal in case the determining authority decides not to conduct a medical examination. That leaves however unaffected that such decision not to conduct a medical examination can be part of the appeal an applicant is entitled to make to the decision in first instance on his/her application for international protection. Moreover, Cion argued that the Qualification Directive already provides that facts relevant for the assessment of the application for international protection need to be taken into account and that a medical examination can be such a fact amongst other facts.

78 Reservation: CY, SE (referring to its proposal contained in document 16753/11 which received support of FI)).
Scrutiny reservation: AT, FI, RO
RO rejected the obligatin that the costs of the medical examination must be paid for out of public funds.
FI, NL, SE wanted to specify that the initiative for the medical examination should lie with the applicant.

79 DE proposed to add at the beginning of the last sentence of paragraph 1: "For the procedures on international protection, the …".
2. A medical examination may also be arranged by the applicant at his/her own costs in support of his/her statements regarding past persecution or serious harm. Having informed the applicant of this option, Member States may require that the results of the medical examination shall be submitted to the determining authority within a reasonable time limit. If without good reason, the applicant fails to submit the results of the medical examination within the prescribed time limit, this shall not prevent the determining authority from taking a decision on the application for international protection.

Reservation: AT, CZ, DE, FR, RO, SE, SI and scrutiny reservation: EL, expressing concerns about delays and administrative burden.

DE referred to its proposal contained in document 14909/11 and in particular its suggestion concerning paragraph 18.4.

AT wanted that the results of the examination are "immediately" submitted and not "within a reasonable time limit".

In response, Cion indicated that under the directive currently in force the applicant already has the right to submit results of a medical examination however without any indication of a time limit. The time limit included in the recast aims at increasing respect of the procedure and avoiding delays. In this context, Cion suggested to clarify in the provision that the time limit starts as of the moment the applicant has submitted his/her application.

Scrutiny reservation: IT

Cion opposed the deletion of paragraph 18.4 of its proposal: "Member States shall provide for further rules and arrangements for identification and documentation of symptoms of torture and other forms of physical, sexual or psychological violence, relevant to the application of this Article". In this context, Cion noted that a reference to the Istanbul Protocol is contained in recital (24).
The results of medical examinations referred to in paragraphs 1 and 2 shall be assessed by the determining authority along with other elements of the application.

Article 19

Provision of legal and procedural information free of charge in procedures at first instance

1. In procedures at first instance provided for in Chapter III Member States shall ensure that, on request, applicants are provided with legal and procedural information free of charge. This shall include, at least, the provision of information on the procedure in the light of the applicant's particular circumstances and, in the event of a negative decision, applicants shall be provided with information concerning the available legal remedies.

Reservation: MT
Scrutiny reservation: AT, CZ, DE, EL, IT, LT, LV, SE, SK
LV rejected a right to free legal assistance in certain situations, such as claims that are manifestly unfounded.
CZ, HU, LV, MT requested clarification about the distinction between Article 12 and Article 19. In response, Cion, while acknowledging a potential overlap between the two articles, indicated that obligations of Article 12 usually concern written explanations, whereas obligations of 19 are geared to face-to-face information sessions.

Reservation: AT, CY, CZ and scrutiny reservation: FR, MT, RO considered that information on the procedure should be given in general and, moreover, that the reasons for the rejection is given in the letter of decision. These delegations proposed to delete the phrase: "in the light of the applicant's particular circumstances and explanations of reasons in fact and in law". In response, Cion indicated that the aim of this phrase is not that the Member State enter in the detail of the applicant's individual situation but only that the Member State provides information about the procedure that will apply to the applicant (accelerated procedure, border procedure, etc) in his/her particular case. Moreover, in providing such information, Member States have a margin to determine the level of detail.

Cion, opposed, as SE, the deletion of the phrase "and of explanations of reasons in fact and in law" and the insertion of the phrase "applicants shall be provided with information concerning the available remedies". Cion argued that the deleted phrase aimed at providing more information to applicants so that he/she would be in a better position to esteem if a possible appeal would have chances of success, whereas the added phrase could encourage applicants to appeal.
The provision of legal and procedural information free of charge shall be subject to the conditions laid down in Article 21.

Article 20

Free legal assistance and representation in appeals procedures

1. In the event of a negative decision by the determining authority, Member States shall ensure that free legal assistance and/or representation is granted on request subject to the provisions of paragraph 3 in appeals procedures provided for in Chapter V. This shall include, at least, the preparation of the required procedural documents and participation in the hearing before the court or tribunal of first instance on behalf of the applicant.

2. Member States may also provide free legal assistance and/or representation in procedures at first instance provided for in Chapter III. In such cases, Article 19 shall not apply.

86 Scrutiny reservation: AT, CY
87 Scrutiny reservation: CY, EL, LT, LV, SE, SK
88 Scrutiny reservation: FR considering this paragraph on free legal assistance and/or representation in procedures at first instance out of place given that the Article mainly deals with legal assistance in appeals.
3. Member States may provide that free legal assistance and representation not be granted if the applicant's appeal is considered by a court or tribunal to have no tangible prospect of success.

In such a case, Member States shall ensure that legal assistance and representation is not arbitrarily restricted and that the applicant's effective access to justice is not hindered.

4. Free legal assistance and representation shall be subject to the conditions laid down in Article 21.

Article 21

Conditions for the provision of legal and procedural information free of charge and free legal assistance and representation

1. Member States may provide that the legal and procedural information referred to in Article 19 and the legal assistance and representation referred to in Article 20 are provided by non-governmental organisations, government officials, or specialised services of the State.

89  DE preferred a provision following the logic of the directive currently in force thereby allowing Member States to provide in their national legislation that free legal assistance and/or representation is granted only if the appeal or review is likely to succeed. LV requested clarification about the consistency of this paragraph pointing out that legal assistance is already needed to ascertain that there are no tangible prospects of success.

90  Scrutiny reservation: AT, CY, CZ, EE, EL, IT, LT, LV, SE, SK
1. Member States shall allow applicants for asylum the opportunity, at their own cost, to consult in an effective manner a legal adviser or other counsellor, admitted or permitted as such under national law, on matters relating to their asylum applications.

2. Member States may provide in their national legislation that the provision of legal and procedural information free of charge referred to in Article 19 and free legal assistance and/or representation referred to in Article 20 are granted:

(a) only for procedures before a court or tribunal in accordance with Chapter V and not for any onward appeals or reviews provided for under national law, including a rehearing of an appeal following an onward appeal or review; and/or

(b) only through the services provided by legal advisers or other counsellors specifically designated by national law to assist and/or represent applicants for international protection.

91 DE proposed to add the phrase: "in accordance with national rules on legal assistance and representation".
and that free legal assistance and representation referred to in Article 20 is granted

(c) only for first time appeals procedures in accordance with Chapter V before a court or tribunal and not for any onward appeals or reviews provided for under national law including rehearings or reviews of appeals.

(d) only if the appeal or review is likely to succeed.

Member States shall ensure that legal assistance and/or representation granted under point (d) is not arbitrarily restricted.

Rules concerning the modalities for filing and processing requests for legal and procedural information under Article 19 and legal assistance and/or representation under Article 20 may be provided by Member States.

Member States may also:

(a) impose monetary and/or time limits on the provision of legal and procedural information free of charge referred to in Article 19 and the provision of free legal assistance and/or representation referred to in Article 20, provided that such limits do not arbitrarily restrict access to the provision of legal and procedural information and legal assistance and/or representation;

(b) provide that, as regards fees and other costs, the treatment of applicants shall not be more favourable than the treatment generally accorded to their nationals in matters pertaining to legal assistance.

Scrutiny reservation: CY, RO

Cion opposed the text "and that free...appeals" considering it already covered by Article 20.1 and. moreover, potentially misleading as the term "first time appeals" could be erroneously interpreted in a way that no legal assistance needs to be provided in case of subsequent applications.
Member States may demand to be reimbursed wholly or partially for any expenses granted if and when the applicant's financial situation has improved considerably or if the decision to grant such benefits was taken on the basis of false information supplied by the applicant.

Right to legal assistance and representation at all stages of the procedure

1. Member States shall allow applicants for asylum to be given the opportunity, at their own cost, to consult, at their own cost, in an effective manner a legal adviser or other counsellor, admitted or permitted as such under national law, on matters relating to their asylum applications for international protection, at all stages of the procedure, including following a negative decision.

2. Member States may allow non-governmental organisations to provide legal assistance and/or representation to applicants for international protection in procedures provided for in Chapter III and Chapter V.

93 Reservation: AT
Scrutiny reservation: CZ, EL, IT, LT, LV, NL, SE, SK
94 CY proposed to specify that legal assistance is provided by lawyers working for the NGOs.
Article 23

Scope of legal assistance and representation

1. Member States shall ensure that a legal adviser or other counsellor admitted or permitted as such under national law, and who assists or represents an applicant for international protection under the terms of national law, shall enjoy access to the such information in the applicant's file upon which a decision is or will be made as is liable to be examined by the authorities referred to in Chapter V, insofar as the information is relevant to the examination of the application.

Scrutiny reservation: IT, SE
Reservation: DE

DE questioned the competence of the Commission to establish whether national procedures are in accordance with Article 23 considering that the European Court of Human Rights would have the final say. In response, Cion explained that the reason for its proposal to amend this provision is that the provision in the directive currently in force is no longer in line with case law of that court.

Scrutiny reservation: EL, NL
Member States may make an exception where disclosure of information or sources would jeopardise national security, the security of the organisations or person(s) providing the information or the security of the person(s) to whom the information relates or where the investigative interests relating to the examination of applications for international protection by the competent authorities of the Member States or the international relations of the Member States would be compromised. In these cases, Member States shall:

(a) make access to the information or sources in question available to the authorities referred to in Chapter V.
(b) establish in national law procedures guaranteeing that the applicant's rights of defence are respected. In this respect, Member States may in particular grant access to the information or sources in question to a legal adviser or counsellor who has undergone a security check, insofar as the information is relevant to the examination of the application or taking a decision to withdraw international protection.

Reservation: CZ, DE, IT
Scrutiny reservation: BG, CY, EE, ES, FI, MT, NL, RO, SE, SK
DE opposed the proposed deletion of the phrase "except where such access is precluded in cases of national security".
SE indicated that no access should be given to the information itself but that, instead, it could be considered to give access a summary of that information.
MT suggested that the information would only come available in case of an appeal and not in case of a first instance procedure in order to avoid lengthening of the procedure.
SK feared abuse of documents of the intelligence service.
RO expressed concerns about possible delays in the procedure in case a Member State would decide not to allow access.
ES requested clarification about the scope of the information to which access should be allowed.
BG requested clarification whether this provision would mean that the legal adviser would receive copies of the documents considering this not acceptable before the decision is taken. In response, Cion indicated that the provision reflects case law of the European Court of Human Rights (see in this context document 11354/10). Moreover, Cion indicated that the reference to national law in the provision leaves a certain degree of flexibility to Member States.
Member States shall ensure that the legal adviser or other counsellor who assists or represents an applicant for asylum has access to closed areas, such as detention facilities and transit zones, for the purpose of consulting that applicant, in accordance with Article 10(4) and Article 18(2)(b) and (c) of Directive [...] [the Reception Conditions Directive]. Member States may only limit the possibility of visiting applicants in closed areas where such limitation is, by virtue of national legislation, objectively necessary for the security, public order or administrative management of the area, or in order to ensure an efficient examination of the application, provided that access by the legal adviser or other counsellor is not thereby severely limited or rendered impossible.

Member States shall allow the applicant to bring to the personal interview a legal adviser or other counsellor admitted or permitted as such under national law.

CZ noted that this paragraph has an overlap with Article 8.2.
DE, supported by ES, proposed to insert "authorised by national law".
FR
Reservation: EL, ES
LT proposed to insert ", at his/her own costs,"
4. Member States may provide rules covering the presence of legal advisers or other counsellors at all interviews in the procedure, without prejudice to this Article or to Article 25(1)(b)\(^{103}\).

4. Member States may provide that the applicant is allowed to bring with him/her to the personal interview a legal adviser or other counsellor admitted or permitted as such under national law.

Member States may require the presence of the applicant at the personal interview, even if he/she is represented under the terms of national law by such a legal adviser or counsellor, and may require the applicant to respond in person to the questions asked.

The absence of a legal adviser or other counsellor shall not prevent the competent authority from conducting the personal interview with the applicant, without prejudice to Article 25(1)(b)\(^{103}\).

\(^{103}\) Reservation: NL on reference to Article 25.1(b)
Article 24

Applicants in need of special procedural guarantees

1. Member States shall ensure that applicants in need of special procedural guarantees are identified in due time. To that end, Member States may use the identification provided for in Article 22 of Directive […]/…/EU [the Reception Conditions Directive].

Member States shall ensure that this Article also applies if it becomes apparent at a later stage in the procedure that an applicant is in need of special procedural guarantees.

Scrutiny reservation: AT, ES, FR, IT, PT, RO, SE

DE, with support of AT, FR, PT, SE, proposed to delete paragraphs 1 and 3 or, alternatively, to amend Article 24 as reflected in document 14909/11.

AT requested clarification on the link between this provision and art 14.2(b).

DE expressed misgivings because of the relation of this article with Article 2(d) - supported by BG, ES, LU, NL, PT, SI - and with Article 18.

Reservation: AT, DE, ES, IT, PT, SI

Scrutiny reservation: EE, FR, NL

AT, BG, FR, HU, NL, RO expressed concerns on the reference to Article 22 of the recast of the Reception Conditions Directive.

SI suggested to have a single procedure instead of laying down different procedures in paragraph 1 and paragraph 3.
2. Member States shall ensure that the support provided to such persons takes into account their need of special procedural guarantees throughout the asylum procedure in order to facilitate the process of presenting the elements of their application as completely as possible and with all available evidence.

3. If the determining authority deems it necessary to arrange a medical examination of an applicant because there is indication that his/her ability to be interviewed and/or to give accurate and coherent statements is absent or limited, such examination shall be made in order to identify these limitations. In this case, the medical examination shall be paid for out of public funds. The support that is needed shall be determined on the basis of the medical examination. The applicant's refusal to undergo such a medical examination shall not prevent the determining authority from taking a decision on the application for international protection.

Support for such applicant may, for instance, take form of assistance at the interview and/or extension of the time period necessary to prepare for the interview.

Scrutiny reservation: DE, supported by ES, considered the paragraph too broad and the terms used insufficiently specific and therefore open to abuse.
Cion opposed the text arguing that its own proposal already sufficiently limits the group of persons covered by this provision to persons identified as persons in need of special procedural guarantees instead of all vulnerable persons.

Reservation: AT, CZ, EL, FR, RO
Scrutiny reservation: IT, SE
RO rejected that the cost of the medical examination must be paid for out of public funds.
IT proposed to insert "results of the".
CY, SE suggested to delete this subparagraph.
Cion opposed the deletion of the provision "In cases where the determining authority considers that an applicant has been subjected to torture, rape or other serious forms of psychological, physical or sexual violence, Article 31(6) and Article 32(2) shall not apply."
Guarantees for unaccompanied minors

1. With respect to all procedures provided for in this Directive and without prejudice to the provisions of Articles 14, 15, 16, and 17, Member States shall:

(a) take measures as soon as possible to ensure that a representative represents and assists the unaccompanied minor to enable him/her to benefit from the rights and comply with the obligations provided for in this Directive with respect to the examination of the application. The representative shall have the necessary expertise in the field of childcare and shall perform his/her duties in accordance with the principle of the best interests of the child. The representative can also be the representative referred to in Article 19 of Directive 2003/9/EC of 27 January 2003 laying down minimum standards for the reception of asylum seekers.

111 Scrutiny reservation: PT, RO, SE
HU suggested to specify that another representative is nominated in case the initial representative cannot participate in the interview so as to avoid postponement of the interview.

112 Reservation: HU, NL, PT, RO, SE (see document 16753/11) proposing to delete the phrase: "shall have the necessary expertise in the field of childcare". In this context, RO expressed doubts whether the legal basis of the Directive was sufficient for including this phrase. In response, Cion indicated that such expertise is needed for the representative to be effective.

(b) ensure that the representative is given the opportunity to inform the unaccompanied minor about the meaning and possible consequences of the personal interview and, where appropriate, how to prepare himself/herself for the personal interview.

Member States shall ensure that a legal adviser or other counsellor admitted as such under national law are to be present at that interview and have an opportunity to ask questions or make comments, within the framework set by the person who conducts the interview.

Member States may require the presence of the unaccompanied minor at the personal interview, even if the representative is present.

2. Member States may refrain from appointing a representative where the unaccompanied minor:

(a) will in all likelihood reach the age of 18 years maturity before a decision at first instance is taken;

(b) can avail himself, free of charge, of a legal adviser or other counsellor, admitted as such under national law to fulfil the tasks assigned above to the representative; or

(c) is married or has been married.

---

114 Reservation: CY
115 NL proposed "allow" instead of "ensure".
116 BG opposed the proposed deletion of point (c).
3. Member States may, in accordance with the laws and regulations in force on 1 December 2005, also refrain from appointing a representative where the unaccompanied minor is 16 years old or older, unless he/she is unable to pursue his/her application without a representative. ¹¹⁷

3. 4. Member States shall ensure that:

(a) if an unaccompanied minor has a personal interview on his/her application for international protection or asylum as referred to in Articles 14, 15, ¹⁶, ¹⁷, and ³⁴ ¹², ¹³ and ¹⁴, that interview is conducted by a person who has the necessary knowledge of the special needs of minors;

(b) ¹¹⁸ an official with the necessary knowledge of the special needs of minors prepares the decision by the determining authority on the application of an unaccompanied minor.

4. ¹¹⁹ Unaccompanied minors, together with the representative, shall be provided, free of charge, with legal and procedural information as referred to in Article 19 also for the procedures for the withdrawal of international protection status provided for in Chapter IV.

¹¹⁷ CY opposed the proposed deletion of this paragraph.
¹¹⁸ Reservation: CY considering a general reference to the training requirements of interviewers in the recitals sufficient.
¹¹⁹ Reservation: CZ, LV, SK
5. Member States may use medical examinations to determine the age of unaccompanied minors within the framework of the examination of an application for international protection where, following general statements or other relevant indications, Member States have doubts concerning the applicant's age. If after the medical examination, Member States are still in doubt concerning the applicant's age, they shall assume that the applicant is a minor.

Any medical examination shall be performed in full respect of the individual's dignity, selecting the least invasive examination.

120 Reservation: CY, DE, FR
Scrutiny reservation: PT, RO

121 DE proposed to delete the phrase "following general statements or other relevant indications". Cion strongly opposed this suggestion arguing that, given the invasiveness of an age assessment, the age should always first be assessed through statements or other relevant indications.

122 DE, PT requested clarification about the application of the principle of doubt considering that 100% certainty is not possible. In this context, HU suggested to make use of a second opinion.
FR suggested to specify that the doubts refer to the doubts of a Member State.
CY proposed to delete the last sentence of this subparagraph as it refers to medical experts and not to the authority examining an application for international protection.
In cases where medical examinations are used, Member States shall ensure that:

(a) unaccompanied minors are informed prior to the examination of their application for international protection as asylum, and in a language that they may reasonably be supposed to understand, of the possibility that their age may be determined by medical examination. This shall include information on the method of examination and the possible consequences of the result of the medical examination for the examination of the application for international protection as asylum, as well as the consequences of refusal on the part of the unaccompanied minor to undergo the medical examination;

(b) unaccompanied minors and/or their representatives consent to carry out an examination being carried out to determine the age of the minors concerned; and

(c) the decision to reject an application for international protection as asylum from an unaccompanied minor who refused to undergo this medical examination shall not be based solely on that refusal.

The fact that an unaccompanied minor has refused to undergo such a medical examination shall not prevent the determining authority from taking a decision on the application for international protection as asylum.

\(^{123}\) Cion opposed information about age assessment in a language an unaccompanied minor is "reasonably supposed to understand" arguing that, given the invasiveness of age assessment, an unaccompanied minor should be informed in a language he/she understands.
Article 20(3), Article 31(6), Article 32(2), Article 33(2)(c), Article 38, and Article 43 shall not apply to unaccompanied minors who are below 14 years of age.

The best interests of the child shall be a primary consideration for Member States when implementing this Article.

Reservation: AT, DE, ES, FI, FR, NL, PT, SI
Scrutiny reservation: EE, HU, RO, SE
AT, DE, ES, FR, PT, SI proposed to delete paragraph 6 considering that there is no reason to allow exemptions for unaccompanied minors from the provisions mentioned in this paragraph.
NL, PT, SE expressed doubts about the applicability of this provision which makes a distinction between younger and older minors in practice.
HU suggested to make a distinction between provision relating to procedural aspects and provisions relating to the substance of an application indicating that accelerated procedures and border procedures should not be applied in case of unaccompanied minors. Furthermore, HU suggested to also imply the concept of safe third countries in this provision.
Cion indicated that all unaccompanied minors should be exempted from the procedures listed in paragraph 6 because these procedures put the applicant in a disadvantageous position and, moreover, can have serious consequences given that there can be no automatic application that the applicant is allowed to remain on the territory of the Member State. HU suggested to set the same conditions with regard to the removal of unaccompanied minors from the Member State's territory as in Article 10.2 of the Return Directive: "the authorities shall be satisfied that he or she will be returned to a member of his or her family, a nominated guardian or adequate reception facilities in the state of return."
Article 26

Detention

1. Member States shall not hold a person in detention for the sole reason that he/she is an applicant for international protection as asylum. Grounds and conditions of detention as well as guarantees available to detained applicants for international protection shall be in accordance with Directive […]/…/EU [the Reception Conditions Directive].

2. Where an applicant for international protection as asylum is held in detention, Member States shall ensure that there is a possibility of speedy judicial review in accordance with Directive […]/…/EU [the Reception Conditions Directive].

Article 27

Procedure in the case of withdrawal of the application

1. Insofar as Member States provide for the possibility of explicit withdrawal of the application under national law, when an applicant explicitly withdraws his/her application for international protection as asylum, Member States shall ensure that the determining authority takes a decision to either discontinue the examination or reject the application.

2. Member States may also decide that the determining authority can decide to discontinue the examination without taking a decision. In this case, Member States shall ensure that the determining authority enters a notice in the applicant's file.

Article 28

Procedure in the case of implicit withdrawal or abandonment of the application

1. When there is reasonable cause to consider that an applicant for international protection has implicitly withdrawn or abandoned his/her application for asylum, Member States shall ensure that the determining authority takes a decision to either discontinue the examination or, provided that the determining authority considers the application to be unfounded on the basis of an adequate examination of its substance in line with Article 4 of Directive [...] [the Qualification Directive], to reject the application on the basis that the applicant has not established an entitlement to refugee status in accordance with Directive 2004/83/EC. Provided that the applicant becomes available for a personal interview within 3 months of initiating the substance examination of the application, this examination shall include such an interview.

Scrutiny reservation: SE
Reservation: SI
Cion opposed the proposal of the Presidency indicating that a rejection of an application can only be done on the basis of an interview. Furthermore, Cion noted that the rules on withdrawal have already been made more flexible in the Commission proposal.

Scrutiny reservation: NL because Netherlands does not have a procedure of discontinuing an asylum application.

Reservation on last sentence: AT, CY, FR, HU
Scrutiny reservation on last sentence: CZ, DE, EE, ES, FI, LV, NL, RO, SE, SI, SK
Member States may assume that the applicant has implicitly withdrawn or abandoned his/her application for international protection in particular when it is ascertained that:

(a) he/she has failed to respond to requests to provide information essential to his/her application in terms of Article 4 of Directive [...] [the Qualification Directive 2004/83/EC] or has not appeared for a personal interview as provided for in Articles 14, 15, 16, and 17 of this Directive, unless the applicant demonstrates within a reasonable time that his/her failure was due to circumstances beyond his/her control;

(b) he/she has absconded or left without authorisation the place where he/she lived or was held, without contacting the competent authority within a reasonable time, or he/she has not within a reasonable time complied with reporting duties or other obligations to communicate.

For the purposes of implementing these provisions, Member States may lay down time limits or guidelines.
2. Member States shall ensure that the applicant who reports again to the competent authority after a decision to discontinue as referred to in paragraph 1 of this Article is taken, is entitled to request that his/her case be reopened or entitled to make a new application which shall not be subject to the procedure referred to in Articles 40 and 41 unless the request is examined in accordance with Articles 32 and 34.

Member States may provide for a time limit of at least 6 months after which the applicant's case can no longer be re-opened or the new application may be treated as a subsequent application and subject to the procedure referred to in Articles 40 and 41. Member States may provide that the applicant's case may be reopened only once.

Member States shall ensure that such a person is not removed contrary to the principle of non-refoulement.

Member States may allow the determining authority to take up the examination at the stage where the it was discontinued.

Scrutiny reservation: CZ, HU

CZ considered this paragraph to be too favourable for an applicant who fails to cooperate with the authorities on his asylum application and who often has left the territory of the Member State.

HU explained that in Hungary it is not allowed to start a new procedure in case the applicant has disappeared.

HU remarked that the provision should refer to the Articles 33 and 40 instead of 40 and 41. SI opposed that the entitlement to make a new application would not be subject to the arrangements concerning subsequent applications. In response, Cion explained that a Member State can consider an application as a subsequent application after the time-limit of at least one year. From that moment on, the applicant needs to submit new elements for having his application examined again.

Reservation: CZ, ES, SI (maximum 3 months) considering the one year time limit too long for fear of asylum shopping.

Cion found 6 months too limited given that this concerns situation in which the substance of the application is not examined. Furthermore, Cion argued that asylum shopping should be dealt with through the Dublin system.

DE opposed the suggestion of the Presidency to allow a case to be opened only once arguing that changes in the situation of the country of origin might need more possibilities for opening the case.
3. This Article shall be without prejudice to Regulation (EU) No […] [the Dublin Regulation].

Article 29

The role of UNHCR

1. Member States shall allow the UNHCR:

   (a) to have access to applicants for international protection, including those in detention, at the border and in transit zones;

   (b) to have access to information on individual applications for international protection, on the course of the procedure and on the decisions taken, provided that the applicant agrees thereto;

Reservation: DE
Scrutiny reservation: EE, SI

DE proposed to delete this paragraph arguing that the Dublin Regulation concerns different issues than the Asylum Procedures Directive and that making the reference to the Dublin Regulation creates unnecessary confusion.

In response, Cion indicated that the reference to the Dublin Regulation is already in the directive currently in force and that the reference is intended as a clarification.
(c) to present its views, in the exercise of its supervisory responsibilities under Article 35 of the Geneva Convention, to any competent authorities regarding individual applications for international protection or asylum at any stage of the procedure.

2. Paragraph 1 shall also apply to an organisation which is working in the territory of the Member State concerned on behalf of the UNHCR pursuant to an agreement with that Member State.

Article 30

Collection of information on individual cases

For the purposes of examining individual cases, Member States shall not:

(a) directly disclose information regarding individual applications for international protection or asylum, or the fact that an application has been made, to the alleged actor(s) of persecution or serious harm of the applicant for asylum;

(b) obtain any information from the alleged actor(s) of persecution or serious harm in a manner that would result in such actor(s) being directly informed of the fact that an application has been made by the applicant in question, and would jeopardise the physical integrity of the applicant and his/her dependants, or the liberty and security of his/her family members still living in the country of origin.
CHAPTER III

PROCEDURES AT FIRST INSTANCE

SECTION I

Article 31

Examination procedure

1. Member States shall process applications for international protection in an examination procedure in accordance with the basic principles and guarantees of Chapter II.

2. Member States shall ensure that such a procedure is concluded as soon as possible, without prejudice to an adequate and complete examination.

Scrutiny reservation: LU, PT
3. Member States shall ensure that a procedure is concluded within six months after the application is lodged.

Member States may extend that time limit for a period not exceeding a further twelve months, where:

(a) complex issues of fact and law are involved;

(b) a large number of third country nationals or stateless persons simultaneously request international protection which makes it impossible in practice to conclude the procedure within the six-month time-limit;

(c) where the delay can clearly be attributed to the failure of the applicant to comply with his/her obligations under Article 13.

136 HU proposed to insert "strictly necessary to complete the procedure and, ".
137 CZ, DE, EL, ES, FI, LU, SK expressed the view that in exceptional cases also an extension of 12 months might be too short.
NL considered a deadline not justified in cases where the delay can be attributed to the applicant.
Cion expressed its strong opposition to lengthening the duration of the examination period to 12 months.
Member States may postpone concluding the procedure where the determining authority cannot reasonably be expected to decide within the time limits laid down in this paragraph due to an uncertain situation in the country of origin which is expected to be temporary.

4. Member States shall ensure that, where a decision cannot be taken within six months, the applicant concerned shall either:

(a) be informed of the delay; and

(b) receive, upon his/her request, information on the reasons for the delay and the time-frame within which the decision on his/her application is to be expected. Such information shall not constitute an obligation for the Member State towards the applicant concerned to take a decision within that time-frame.

138 Scrutiny reservation: AT, SE
139 FR proposed "or" instead of "and".
The consequences of failure to adopt a decision within the time limits laid down in paragraph 3 shall be determined in accordance with national law.

5. Member States may prioritise or accelerate any examination of an application for international protection in accordance with the basic principles and guarantees of Chapter II, including where the application is likely to be well founded or where the applicant has special needs.

140 Reservation: CY, FR
Scrutiny reservation: LU, NL
CY proposed to delete this subparagraph.
CZ, LU requested clarification whether it is sufficient that the Member State informs the applicant about the delay and the reason for that delay.
NL requested clarification if a Member State would be allowed to determine in national law that there would be no consequences in case of failure to adopt a decision within the time limits.

141 Scrutiny reservation: AT expressing a preference for deleting paragraph 5.
(a) where the application is likely to be well founded;

(b) where the applicant is vulnerable within the meaning of Article 22 of Directive [.../.../EU] [the Reception Conditions Directive], or is in need of special procedural guarantees, in particular unaccompanied minors;

(c) in other cases with the exception of applications referred to in paragraph 6.

Scrutiny reservation: PT
NL, PT requested clarification about point (c).
BE proposed to delete the exception for applications in accelerated procedure because Belgium does not have accelerated procedures only prioritised procedures.
HU proposed to add as a ground for prioritisation cases where the applicant is detained.
Member States may also provide that an examination procedure in accordance with the basic principles and guarantees of Chapter II be prioritised or accelerated and/or conducted at the border in accordance with Article 43 if:

(a) the applicant, in submitting his/her application and presenting the facts, has only raised issues that are not relevant or of minimal relevance to the examination of whether he/she qualifies as a refugee or a person eligible for subsidiary protection by virtue of Directive [.../.../EU] [the Qualification Directive] 2004/83/EC; or

(b) the applicant clearly does not qualify as a refugee or for refugee status in a Member State under Directive 2004/83/EC; or

Scrutiny reservation: AT, BE, DE, EE, EL, ES, FI, FR, HU, NL, PT, SE, SI, SK EE, ES, NL, PT expressed doubts about the need to enumerate in the article a list of cases in which accelerated procedures are possible considering the heading setting the condition that these procedures need to be in accordance with the basic principles and guarantees of Chapter II sufficient. In the same vein, SE suggested to make use of the more general ground laid down in Article 23.4(b) of the directive currently in force, extended to subsidiary protection, instead of listing specific grounds for accelerated procedures. DE considered that the points (b), (e) and (k) are the most important points that need to be re-inserted. SI considered that the points (i) and (n) are the most important points that need to be re-inserted.

FR requested clarification of the implications of the reference to border procedures. AT, DE, SE, SI opposed the proposed deletion proposing at the same time to include subsidiary protection. In response, Cion explained that the conclusion that the applicant does not qualify should be the outcome of an examination and not the starting point. Cion further expressed concerns that this point could open the door to applying accelerated procedures in many cases.
(c) the application for asylum is considered to be unfounded: 148

(b i) because the applicant is from a safe country of origin within the meaning of this Directive 149 Articles 29, 30 and 31, or

(ii) because the country which is not a Member State, is considered to be a safe third country for the applicant, without prejudice to Article 28(1); or 150

(c d) the applicant has misled the authorities by presenting false information or documents or by withholding relevant information or documents with respect to his/her identity and/or nationality that could have had a negative impact on the decision; or

(c1) the applicant has filed another application for international protection stating different personal data, in which new elements or findings that relate to the examination of whether the applicant qualifies as a refugee or a person eligible for subsidiary protection by virtue of Directive […/…/EU] [the Qualification Directive] have arisen or have been presented; or 151

(e) the applicant has filed another application for asylum stating other personal data; 152
(d) the applicant has not produced information establishing with a reasonable degree of certainty his/her identity or nationality, or it is likely that, in bad faith, the applicant has destroyed or disposed of an identity or travel document that would have helped establish his/her identity or nationality; or

(e) the applicant has made clearly inconsistent and contradictory representations which contradict sufficiently verified country-of-origin information, thus making his/her claim clearly unconvincing in relation to whether he/she qualifies as a refugee or a person eligible for subsidiary protection by virtue of his/her having being the object of persecution referred to in Directive [.../.../EU] [the Qualification Directive] Directive 2004/83/EC; or

(h) the applicant has submitted a subsequent application which does not raise any relevant new elements with respect to his/her particular circumstances or to the situation in his/her country of origin; or

(i) the applicant has failed without reasonable cause to make his/her application earlier, having had opportunity to do so; or

153 CY expressed its preference for the Commission proposal. Cion expressed doubts about "clearly in consistent and contradictory" as criteria for applying an accelerated procedure under reference to applicants who are suffering from Post Traumatic Stress Symptoms. These persons could give inconsistent and contradictory information because of their past experiences. This could result in their applications being examined in an accelerated procedure even though, because of their vulnerability, an examination with the full set of procedural guarantees would be more appropriate.

154 DE, FR preferred the wording of point (g) in the directive currently in force.

155 FR opposed the proposed deletion.

156 CZ, DE, EE, LU, PT, SI opposed the proposed deletion. In response, Cion indicated that this point was deleted because it is not related to the substance of the claim.
(f) the applicant is making an application merely in order to delay or frustrate the enforcement of an earlier or imminent decision which would result in his/her removal; or

(d) the applicant has failed without good reason to comply with obligations referred to in Article 4(1) and (2) of Directive 2004/83/EC or in Articles 11(2)(a) and (b) and 20(1) of this Directive; or

(l) the applicant entered the territory of the Member State unlawfully or prolonged his/her stay unlawfully and, without good reason, has either not presented himself/herself to the authorities and/or filed an application for asylum as soon as possible, given the circumstances of his/her entry; or

(f1) the applicant entered the territory of the Member State unlawfully or prolonged his/her stay unlawfully and, without good reason, has either not presented himself/herself to the authorities and/or filed an application for asylum as soon as possible, given the circumstances of his/her entry; or

FR proposed to insert a new point (e1) "the applicant has introduced a subsequent application" (15395/11).

AT, DE, EE, PT, SK opposed the proposed deletion. In response, Cion indicated that this point was deleted because it is not related to the substance of the claim.

CZ, DE, EE, SI, SK opposed the proposed deletion. In response, Cion indicated that this point was deleted because it is not related to the substance of the claim.

Cion considered this criterion not relevant arguing that it has nothing to do with the substance of the application. Cion further argued that Member States can take this criterion into consideration when assessing the credibility of the applicant.

MT proposed to delete "either".
the applicant refuses to comply with an obligation to have his/her fingerprints taken in accordance with Regulation (EU) […] [EURODAC Regulation], or the applicant may for serious reasons be considered a danger to the national security or public order of the Member State, or the applicant has been forcibly expelled for serious reasons of public security or and public order under national law:

the applicant refuses to comply with an obligation to have his/her fingerprints taken in accordance with relevant Community and/or national legislation;

the application was made by an unmarried minor to whom Article 6(4)(c) applies, after the application of the parents or parent responsible for the minor has been rejected and no relevant new elements were raised with respect to his/her particular circumstances or to the situation in his/her country of origin.

Reservation: HU
Scrutiny reservation: AT, EE

Cion strongly opposed to this acceleration ground considering refusal to have the fingerprints taken a minor case of non cooperation for which applying the accelerated procedure with its reduced guarantees would be disproportionate. Cion further argued that this form of non cooperation is not related to the substance of the application or to any ground for international protection. Finally, a genuine refugee could refuse to have his/her fingerprints taken because of fear for authorities. FR, PT found refusal of fingerprint taking an indication of abuse of the asylum procedure.

AT, supported by CZ, proposed to delete "for serious reasons".

CZ, FR, LT, PT, SI, SK opposed the proposed deletion. In response, Cion indicated that this point is similar to point (c) and not related to the substance of the claim.
7. Member States shall lay down reasonable time limits for the adoption of a decision in the procedure at first instance pursuant to paragraph 6.

8. The fact that an application for international protection was submitted after an irregular entry into the territory or at the border, including in transit zones, as well as the lack of documents or use of forged documents, shall not per se entail an automatic recourse to the procedure at first instance pursuant to paragraph 6.

Reservation: AT (on reference to paragraph 6), LT (in particular on the term "reasonable time-limit". In response, Cion indicated this term is taken from case-law of the European Court of Human Rights).

Scrutiny reservation: EE, FI, FR, RO opposing an obligation to set time-limits.

Reservation: AT, DE, SI
Scrutiny reservation: EE, FR
AT, supported by DE, proposed to delete this paragraph.
DE, supported by EE, proposed to delete the phrase: "as well as the lack of documents or use of false documents." In response, Cion indicated that asylum applicants rather frequently have difficulties obtaining proper documents because of the situation in their country of origin.
Article 24

Specific procedures

1. Member States may provide for the following specific procedures derogating from the basic principles and guarantees of Chapter II:

   (a) a preliminary examination for the purposes of processing cases considered within the framework set out in Section IV;

   (b) procedures for the purposes of processing cases considered within the framework set out in Section V.

2. Member States may also provide a derogation in respect of Section VI.
Article 32

Unfounded applications\(^{167}\)

1. Without prejudice to Articles 27, 19 and 20, Member States may only consider an application for asylum as unfounded if the determining authority has established that the applicant does not qualify for international protection\(^ {refugee}\) status pursuant to Directive [.../.../EU] [the Qualification Directive] 2004/83/EC.

2. In the cases mentioned in Article 23(4)(b) and in cases of unfounded applications for asylum in which any of the circumstances listed in Article 31(6)\(^ {a} \) to \(^{o}\) apply, Member States may also consider an application as manifestly unfounded, where it is defined as such in the national legislation.

\(^{167}\) HU pointed to the relation between this article and Article 46.

\(^{168}\) DE proposed to insert "and 28".

\(^{169}\) Scrutiny reservation: FR, SE

\(^{170}\) CZ, DE, SE requested clarification why point (g) has not been included. In response, Cion indicated that national security need not be referred to because it is unrelated to a claim being manifestly unfounded.

\(^{171}\) Cion opposed including ground (f2).
SECTION II

Article 33

Inadmissible applications

1. In addition to cases in which an application is not examined in accordance with Regulation (EU) No […/…] [the Dublin Regulation] (EC) No 343/2003, Member States are not required to examine whether the applicant qualifies for international protection in accordance with Directive […/…/EU] [the Qualification Directive] 2004/83/EC where an application is considered inadmissible pursuant to this Article.

---

172 Scrutiny reservation: EE, FI, FR, SE
SE requested clarification on the relation between Article 33 and Article 34.

173 In view of a ruling of its Supreme Court, CZ requested clarification if in case of an inadmissible application, the grounds for granting subsidiary protection need to be examined.
2. Member States may consider an application for international protection as inadmissible only pursuant to this Article if:

   (a) another Member State has granted refugee status;

   (b) a country which is not a Member State is considered as a first country of asylum for the applicant, pursuant to Article 35;

   (c) a country which is not a Member State is considered as a safe third country for the applicant, pursuant to Article 38;

   (d) the applicant is allowed to remain in the Member State concerned on some other grounds and as result of this he/she has been granted a status equivalent to the rights and benefits of the refugee status by virtue of Directive 2004/83/EC;

   (e) the applicant is allowed to remain in the territory of the Member State concerned on some other grounds which protect him/her against refoulement pending the outcome of a procedure for the determination of status pursuant to point (d).

174 HU suggested to add to the list of inadmissible applications a reference to "the application of an unaccompanied minor who lodges an application after an application has been made on his/her behalf pursuant to Article 7(5)(c) without any facts which justify a separate application" so as to achieve coherency with Article 40.6 (b).

175 NL proposed to add a new point (c1): "the applicant is protected against refoulement in accordance with Article 21 of the Directive [...] because he is authorised to remain in the territory of a Member State by means of a residence permit or pending the outcome of a judicial process." In response, Cion indicated this would be incompatible inter alia with the right to asylum in Article 18 of the Charter. In the same vein, BE, SE considered that other grounds for inadmissibility should be added for instance the situation that a Member States grants another form of protection than subsidiary protection or refugee protection.
(d) the application is a subsequent application, where no new elements or findings relating to the examination of whether the applicant qualifies as a refugee or a person eligible for subsidiary protection by virtue of Directive […/…/EU] [the Qualification Directive] have arisen or have been presented by the applicant; the applicant has lodged an identical application after a final decision.

(e) a dependant of the applicant lodges an application, after he/she has in accordance with Article 7(2) consented to have his/her case be part of an application made on his/her behalf, and there are no facts relating to the dependant's situation, which justify a separate application.

176 Reservation: SI considering that in case there are no new elements a protection status should automatically be denied.
Scrutiny reservation: AT, DE, ES, FI, RO, SK

177 CY agreed in principle to this point but opposed the term "subsequent application".

178 SK proposed to insert "relevant".

179 RO proposed to insert "that could not have been proposed earlier".
Article 34

Special rules on an admissibility interview

1. Member States shall allow applicants to present their views with regard to the application of the grounds referred to in Article 33 in their particular circumstances before a decision to consider an application inadmissible is taken. To that end, Member States shall conduct a personal interview on the admissibility of the application. Member States may make an exception only in accordance with Article 42 in the case of a subsequent application.

2. Paragraph 1 shall be without prejudice to Article 5 of Regulation (EU) No […] [the Dublin Regulation].

3. Member States shall ensure that the person who conducts the interview on the admissibility of the application does not wear a military or law enforcement uniform.

Scrutiny reservation: EE, FR, SE, SI
DE proposed to delete this paragraph.
HU requested clarification on the reference to the personal interview in the context of the Dublin Regulation considering this provision to have a different objective than the personal interview in the context of the Asylum Procedures Directive.

Scrutiny reservation: LT
HU considered this paragraph superfluous given the general provisions of Chapter II.
EE, ES, LT considered that more flexibility is needed given that a request for asylum made at the border is usually addressed to a policeman in uniform. In response, Cion indicated that at least people in military uniforms should be covered.
SECTION III

Article 35

The concept of first country of asylum

A country can be considered to be a first country of asylum for a particular applicant for international protection if:

(a) he/she has been recognised in that country as a refugee and he/she can still avail himself/herself of that protection, or

(b) he/she otherwise enjoys sufficient protection in that country, including benefiting from the principle of non-refoulement, provided that he/she will be re-admitted to that country.

In applying the concept of first country of asylum to the particular circumstances of an applicant for international protection, Member States may take into account Article 38(1) and (2).

The applicant shall be allowed to challenge the application of the first country of asylum concept in his/her particular circumstances.

183 Scrutiny reservation: DE, EL, IT in particular as regards the possibility for the applicant to challenge the application of the first country of asylum concept in his/her particular circumstances. DE requested clarification why a separate challenge is needed in view of the right of appeal. In response, Cion specified that the challenge should take place at the administrative level at first instance.
Article 27

The safe third country concept

1. Member States may apply the safe third country concept only where the competent authorities are satisfied that a person seeking asylum will be treated in accordance with the following principles in the third country concerned:

(a) life and liberty are not threatened on account of race, religion, nationality, membership of a particular social group or political opinion;

(b) the principle of non-refoulement in accordance with the Geneva Convention is respected;

(c) the prohibition of removal, in violation of the right to freedom from torture and cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment as laid down in international law, is respected; and

(d) the possibility exists to request refugee status and, if found to be a refugee, to receive protection in accordance with the Geneva Convention.

2. The application of the safe third country concept shall be subject to rules laid down in national legislation, including:

(a) rules requiring a connection between the person seeking asylum and the third country concerned on the basis of which it would be reasonable for that person to go to that country.
(b) rules on the methodology by which the competent authorities satisfy themselves that the safe third country concept may be applied to a particular country or to a particular applicant. Such methodology shall include case-by-case consideration of the safety of the country for a particular applicant and/or national designation of countries considered to be generally safe.

(c) rules in accordance with international law, allowing an individual examination of whether the third country concerned is safe for a particular applicant which, as a minimum, shall permit the applicant to challenge the application of the safe third country concept on the grounds that he/she would be subjected to torture, cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment.

3. When implementing a decision solely based on this Article, Member States shall:

(a) inform the applicant accordingly; and

(b) provide him/her with a document informing the authorities of the third country, in the language of that country, that the application has not been examined in substance.

4. Where the third country does not permit the applicant for asylum to enter its territory, Member States shall ensure that access to a procedure is given in accordance with the basic principles and guarantees described in Chapter II.

5. Member States shall inform the Commission periodically of the countries to which this concept is applied in accordance with the provisions of this Article.

Article 28

Unfounded applications

1. Without prejudice to Articles 19 and 20, Member States may only consider an application for asylum as unfounded if the determining authority has established that the applicant does not qualify for refugee status pursuant to Directive 2004/83/EC.
In the cases mentioned in Article 23(4)(b) and in cases of unfounded applications for asylum in which any of the circumstances listed in Article 23(4)(a) and (c) to (o) apply, Member States may also consider an application as manifestly unfounded, where it is defined as such in the national legislation.

Article 29

Minimum common list of third countries regarded as safe countries of origin

1. The Council shall, acting by a qualified majority on a proposal from the Commission and after consultation of the European Parliament, adopt a minimum common list of third countries which shall be regarded by Member States as safe countries of origin in accordance with Annex II.

2. The Council may, acting by a qualified majority on a proposal from the Commission and after consultation of the European Parliament, amend the minimum common list by adding or removing third countries, in accordance with Annex II. The Commission shall examine any request made by the Council or by a Member State to submit a proposal to amend the minimum common list.

3. When making its proposal under paragraphs 1 or 2, the Commission shall make use of information from the Member States, its own information and, where necessary, information from UNHCR, the Council of Europe and other relevant international organisations.
4. Where the Council requests the Commission to submit a proposal for removing a third country from the minimum common list, the obligation of Member States pursuant to Article 31(2) shall be suspended with regard to this third country as of the day following the Council decision requesting such a submission.

5. Where a Member State requests the Commission to submit a proposal to the Council for removing a third country from the minimum common list, that Member State shall notify the Council in writing of the request made to the Commission. The obligation of this Member State pursuant to Article 31(2) shall be suspended with regard to the third country as of the day following the notification to the Council.

6. The European Parliament shall be informed of the suspensions under paragraphs 4 and 5.

7. The suspensions under paragraphs 4 and 5 shall end after three months, unless the Commission makes a proposal before the end of this period, to withdraw the third country from the minimum common list. The suspensions shall in any case end where the Council rejects a proposal by the Commission to withdraw the third country from the list.

8. Upon request by the Council, the Commission shall report to the European Parliament and the Council on whether the situation of a country on the minimum common list is still in conformity with Annex II. When presenting its report, the Commission may make such recommendations or proposals as it deems appropriate.

2005/85/EC (adapted)

Article 30

National designation of third countries as safe countries of origin
1. Without prejudice to Article 29, Member States may retain or introduce legislation that allows, in accordance with Annex II, for the national designation of third countries other than those appearing on the minimum common list, as safe countries of origin for the purposes of examining applications for asylum. This may include designation of part of a country as safe where the conditions in Annex II are fulfilled in relation to that part.

2. By derogation from paragraph 1, Member States may retain legislation in force on 1 December 2005 that allows for the national designation of third countries, other than those appearing on the minimum common list, as safe countries of origin for the purposes of examining applications for asylum where they are satisfied that persons in the third countries concerned are generally neither subject to:

   (a) persecution as defined in Article 9 of Directive 2004/83/EC; nor

   (b) torture or inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment.

3. Member States may also retain legislation in force on 1 December 2005 that allows for the national designation of part of a country as safe, or a country or part of a country as safe for a specified group of persons in that country, where the conditions in paragraph 2 are fulfilled in relation to that part or group.

4. In assessing whether a country is a safe country of origin in accordance with paragraphs 2 and 3, Member States shall have regard to the legal situation, the application of the law and the general political circumstances in the third country concerned.

5. The assessment of whether a country is a safe country of origin in accordance with this Article shall be based on a range of sources of information, including in particular information from other Member States, the UNHCR, the Council of Europe and other relevant international organisations.

6. Member States shall notify to the Commission the countries that are designated as safe countries of origin in accordance with this Article.
Article 36

The safe country of origin concept

1. A third country designated as a safe country of origin in accordance with this Directive either Article 29 or 30 may, after an individual examination of the application, be considered as a safe country of origin for a particular applicant only if:

(a) he/she has the nationality of that country; or

(b) he/she is a stateless person and was formerly habitually resident in that country;

and he/she has not submitted any serious grounds for considering the country not to be a safe country of origin in his/her particular circumstances and in terms of his/her qualification as a refugee or a person eligible for subsidiary protection in accordance with Directive [....../EU] [the Qualification Directive] 2004/83/EC.

2. Member States shall, in accordance with paragraph 1, consider the application for asylum as unfounded where the third country is designated as safe pursuant to Article 29.

2.1 Member States shall lay down in national legislation further rules and modalities for the application of the safe country of origin concept.

184 Scrutiny reservation: EL
185 Reservation: CY requesting this paragraph not to be mandatory.
Article 37\(^{186}\)

National designation of third countries as safe countries of origin\(^{187}\)

1. Without prejudice to Article 29, Member States may retain or introduce legislation that allows, in accordance with Annex I \(I\), for the national designation of third countries other than those appearing on the minimum common list, as safe countries of origin for the purposes of examining applications for international protection as asylum. This may include designation of part of a country as safe where the conditions in Annex II are fulfilled in relation to that part.

2. By derogation from paragraph 1, Member States may retain legislation in force on 1 December 2005 that allows for the national designation of third countries, other than those appearing on the minimum common list, as safe countries of origin for the purposes of examining applications for asylum where they are satisfied that persons in the third countries concerned are generally neither subject to:

(a) persecution as defined in Article 9 of Directive 2004/83/EC; nor

(b) torture or inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment.

\(^{186}\) Scrutiny reservation: EL, FR

\(^{187}\) HU considered that it should also be possible to designate part of a country as safe. In response, Cion indicated that the Qualification Directive provides for this possibility even though with a lesser sense of permanence.
3. Member States may also retain legislation in force on 1 December 2005 that allows for the national designation of part of a country as safe, or a country or part of a country as safe for a specified group of persons in that country, where the conditions in paragraph 2 are fulfilled in relation to that part or group.

4. In assessing whether a country is a safe country of origin in accordance with paragraphs 2 and 3, Member States shall have regard to the legal situation, the application of the law and the general political circumstances in the third country concerned.

2. Member States shall ensure a regular review of the situation in third countries designated as safe in accordance with this Article.

3. The assessment of whether a country is a safe country of origin in accordance with this Article shall be based on a range of sources of information, including in particular information from other Member States, the European Asylum Support Office, the UNHCR, the Council of Europe and other relevant international organisations.

4. Member States shall notify to the Commission the countries that are designated as safe countries of origin in accordance with this Article.
The safe third country concept

1. Member States may apply the safe third country concept only where the competent authorities are satisfied that a person seeking international protection will be treated in accordance with the following principles in the third country concerned:

(a) life and liberty are not threatened on account of race, religion, nationality, membership of a particular social group or political opinion;

(b) there is no risk of serious harm as defined in Directive [...] [the Qualification Directive];

(c) the principle of non-refoulement in accordance with the Geneva Convention is respected;

---

188 Reservation: ES
Scrutiny reservation: CY, EL
189 Scrutiny reservation: ES, RO, SI considering this a matter that is to be examined at the level of the individual and not at country level.
(d) the prohibition of removal, in violation of the right to freedom from torture and cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment as laid down in international law, is respected; and

(e) the possibility exists to request refugee status and, if found to be a refugee, to receive protection in accordance with the Geneva Convention.

2. The application of the safe third country concept shall be subject to rules laid down in national legislation, including:

(a) rules requiring a connection between the person seeking international protection and asylum and the third country concerned on the basis of which it would be reasonable for that person to go to that country;

(b) rules on the methodology by which the competent authorities satisfy themselves that the safe third country concept may be applied to a particular country or to a particular applicant. Such methodology shall include case-by-case consideration of the safety of the country for a particular applicant and/or national designation of countries considered to be generally safe;

(c) rules in accordance with international law, allowing an individual examination of whether the third country concerned is safe for a particular applicant which, as a minimum, shall permit the applicant to challenge the application of the safe third country concept on the grounds that that the third country is not safe in his/her particular circumstances he/she would be subjected to torture, cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment. The applicant shall also be allowed to challenge the existence of a connection between him/her and the third country in accordance with point (a).
3. When implementing a decision solely based on this Article, Member States shall:

   (a) inform the applicant accordingly; and

   (b) provide him/her with a document informing the authorities of the third country, in the language of that country, that the application has not been examined in substance.

4. Where the third country does not permit the applicant for international protection to enter its territory, Member States shall ensure that access to a procedure is given in accordance with the basic principles and guarantees described in Chapter II.

5. Member States shall inform the Commission periodically of the countries to which this concept is applied in accordance with the provisions of this Article.

2005/85/EC article 36

New Article 39

The European safe third country concept

1. Member States may provide that no, or no full, examination of the asylum application for international protection and of the safety of the applicant in his/her particular circumstances as described in Chapter II, shall take place in cases where a competent authority has established, on the basis of the facts, that the applicant for asylum international protection is seeking to enter or has entered illegally into its territory from a safe third country according to paragraph 2.

Scrutiny reservation: CY, EL
2. A third country can only be considered as a safe third country for the purposes of paragraph 1 where:

(a) it has ratified and observes the provisions of the Geneva Convention without any geographical limitations;

(b) it has in place an asylum procedure prescribed by law; and

(c) it has ratified the European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms and observes its provisions, including the standards relating to effective remedies; and

(d) it has been so designated by the Council in accordance with paragraph 3.

3. The Council shall, acting by qualified majority on a proposal from the Commission and after consultation of the European Parliament, adopt or amend a common list of third countries that shall be regarded as safe third countries for the purposes of paragraph 1.

4. The Member States concerned shall lay down in national law the modalities for implementing the provisions of paragraph 1 and the consequences of decisions pursuant to those provisions in accordance with the principle of non-refoulement under the Geneva Convention, including providing for exceptions from the application of this Article for humanitarian or political reasons or for reasons of public international law.

5. When implementing a decision solely based on this Article, the Member States concerned shall:

(a) inform the applicant accordingly; and

(b) provide him/her with a document informing the authorities of the third country, in the language of that country, that the application has not been examined in substance.
65. Where the safe third country does not re-admit the applicant for asylum, Member States shall ensure that access to a procedure is given in accordance with the basic principles and guarantees described in Chapter II.

6. Member States shall inform the Commission periodically of the countries to which this concept is applied in accordance with the provisions of this Article.

7. Member States which have designated third countries as safe countries in accordance with national legislation in force on 1 December 2005 and on the basis of the criteria in paragraph 2(a), (b) and (c), may apply paragraph 1 to these third countries until the Council has adopted the common list pursuant to paragraph 3.
SECTION IV

Article 40

Subsequent application

1. Where a person who has applied for international protection as asylum in a Member State makes further representations or a subsequent application in the same Member State, that Member State shall examine these further representations or the elements of the subsequent application in the framework of the examination of the previous application or in the framework of the examination of the decision under review or appeal, insofar as the competent authorities can take into account and consider all the elements underlying the further representations or subsequent application within this framework.

Reservation: NL, SI
Scrutiny reservation: AT, CZ, EE, EL, ES, FI, FR, HU, IT, RO, SE, SK
NL found the change from "may" into "shall" problematic given that the Dutch system does not have the concept of admissibility.
HU pointed out that an application made after an implicit withdrawal that resulted in discontinuation of the examination of the application on the basis of Article 82(2) is not covered by the regime of subsequent applications provided for in Article 40 in conjunction with Article 2(q).

CY opposed the term "subsequent application". CY proposed not to allow appeal in case it is established that no new elements are presented.

CZ requested clarification whether the "shall" provision has as a consequence that examination procedures need to be merged and that separate procedures for each application are no longer allowed. In response, Cion indicated that, on the basis of the paragraph, throughout the first instance procedure and the appeal stage, all further representations of a subsequent application need to be attached to the ongoing procedure.
Moreover, Member States may apply a specific procedure as referred to in paragraph 2, where a person makes a subsequent application for asylum:

(a) after his/her previous application has been withdrawn or abandoned by virtue of Articles 19 or 20,

(b) after a decision has been taken on the previous application. Member States may also decide to apply this procedure only after a final decision has been taken.

For the purpose of taking a decision on the admissibility of an application for international protection pursuant to Article 33(2)(d), a subsequent application for international protection shall be subject first to a preliminary examination as to whether, after the withdrawal of the previous application or after the decision referred to in paragraph 2(b) of this Article on this application has been reached, new elements or findings have arisen or have been presented by the applicant which relate to the examination of whether the applicant qualifies as a refugee or a person eligible for subsidiary protection by virtue of Directive [.../2004/83/EC] [the Qualification Directive] have arisen or have been presented by the applicant.

HU, SI opposed deletion of paragraph 2 of the directive currently in force.
HU pointed to the different phrasing in paragraphs 2 and 3. Paragraph 2 uses the phrase "new elements or findings have arisen or have been presented by the applicant which relate" and paragraph 3 uses the phrase "new elements or findings have arisen or have been presented by the applicant which significantly add to the likelihood". In order to avoid a different level of proof, HU suggested to use in both cases the former phrase.

HU opposed the proposed deletion of the phrase "after the withdrawal...has been reached".
If, following the preliminary examination referred to in paragraph 2 of this Article, concludes that new elements or findings have arisen or been are presented by the applicant which significantly add to the likelihood of the applicant qualifying as a refugee or a person eligible for subsidiary protection by virtue of Directive [.../.../EU] [the Qualification Directive] 2004/83/EC, the application shall be further examined in conformity with Chapter II. Member States may also provide for other reasons for a subsequent application to be further examined.

Member States may, in accordance with national legislation, further examine a subsequent application where there are other reasons why a procedure has to be re-opened.

Member States may decide to further examine the application only if the applicant concerned was, through no fault of his/her own, incapable of asserting the situations set forth in paragraphs 2 and 3 and 5 of this Article in the previous procedure, in particular by exercising his/her right to an effective remedy pursuant to Article 46.

When a subsequent application is not further examined pursuant to this Article, it shall be considered inadmissible, in accordance with Article 33(2)(d).

SI proposed to delete this paragraph.
6. The procedure referred to in this Article may also be applicable in the case of:

(a) a dependant who lodges an application after he/she has, in accordance with Article 7(2), consented to have his/her case be part of an application made on his/her behalf, and/or

(b) an unmarried minor who lodges an application after an application has been made on his/her behalf pursuant to Article 7(5)(c).

In those cases, the preliminary examination referred to in paragraph 2 of this Article will consist of examining whether there are facts relating to the dependant's or the unmarried minor's situation which justify a separate application.

7. Where a person with regard to whom a transfer decision has to be enforced pursuant to Regulation (EU) [...] [the Dublin Regulation] makes further representations or a subsequent application in the transferring Member State, those representations or subsequent applications shall be examined by the responsible Member State, as defined in Regulation (EU) [...] [the Dublin Regulation], in accordance with this Directive.

198 DE, SI proposed to delete this paragraph.
Specific rules following the rejection or inadmissibility of a subsequent application

Where a person makes a new application for international protection in the same Member State, Member States need not grant the right to remain in the territory, provided the determining authority is satisfied that a return decision will not lead to direct or indirect refoulement in violation of international and Union obligations of that Member State.

Reservation: AT, DE, EE, ES, FR, HU, IT, LT, RO, SI considering the regime laid down in Article 41 should apply as of the second application. In response, Cion indicated that applying the regime laid down in Article 41 would not be justified for several reasons including that, in some cases such as implicit or explicit withdrawal, there has never been a full examination of the asylum application.

Scrutiny reservation: CY, CZ, EE, EL, ES, FI, FR, HU, IT, LT, RO, SE, SK In case the proposal that the regime applies only as of the second subsequent application would remain, DE, ES, NL, SE proposed to allow that in some cases, such as persona non grata with a criminal past, the regime would be applicable as of the first subsequent application.

FR rejected an obligation to conduct a personal interview after the first subsequent application.

CZ proposed "expresses the intention to lodge an application for international protection" instead of "makes a new application".

AT considered the reference to the non refoulement principle in point (a) not appropriate pointing out that this point should be examined in relation to Article 9.2.
Member States may also:

(a) provide that the examination procedure be accelerated in accordance with Article 31(6)(f); in such case, Member States may also derogate from the time limits normally applicable in accelerated procedures, in accordance with national legislation and/or,

(b) derogate from the time limits normally applicable to admissibility procedures provided for in Articles 33 and 34, in accordance with national legislation.

2005/85/EC

Article 33

Failure to appear

Member States may retain or adopt the procedure provided for in Article 32 in the case of an application for asylum filed at a later date by an applicant who, either intentionally or owing to gross negligence, fails to go to a reception centre or appear before the competent authorities at a specified time.

202 CZ requested clarification how in particular point (a) could be applied in practice. AT requested clarification on the reference to time limits.

203 DE opposed the proposed deletion of Article 33 of the Directive currently in force. In response, Cion indicated that the subject matter of this article is sufficiently covered in the provisions on implicit withdrawal.
Procedural rules

1. Member States shall ensure that applicants for international protection whose application is subject to a preliminary examination pursuant to Article 40 enjoy the guarantees provided for in Article 12(1).

2. Member States may lay down in national law rules on the preliminary examination pursuant to Article 40. Those rules may, inter alia:

   (a) oblige the applicant concerned to indicate facts and substantiate evidence which justify a new procedure;

   (b) require submission of the new information by the applicant concerned within a time limit after he/she obtained such information.

Scrutiny reservation: FR.
FR also noted that Article 42 and Article 45 have the same title.

Reservation: CY considering that a person who is subject of a preliminary examination does not have the status of an applicant. In this light, CY proposed this provision to be voluntary for the Member States.

In the same vein, SI proposed to specify that the person is "an applicant for the introduction of a new procedure". In this light, SI requested clarification whether such persons can be excluded from the material conditions laid down in the Reception Conditions Directive until it is established that relevant new elements have been presented.

In response, Cion indicated that no changes have been proposed in paragraph 1 with the exception of the standard broadening of the scope to include all applicants for international protection.

CZ, DE, ES, MT opposed the proposed deletion of point (b) of the directive currently in force considering it a useful provision.
(b e) permit the preliminary examination to be conducted on the sole basis of written submissions without a personal interview, with the exception of cases referred to in Article 40(6) 207.

Those rules shall not render impossible the access of applicants for asylum to a new procedure or result in the effective annulment or severe curtailment of such access.

3. Member States shall ensure that:

(a) the applicant is informed in an appropriate manner of the outcome of the preliminary examination and, in case the application will not be further examined, of the reasons for this and the possibilities for seeking an appeal or review of the decision.

(b) if one of the situations referred to in Article 32(2) applies, the determining authority shall further examine the subsequent application in conformity with the provisions of Chapter II as soon as possible.

207 SE proposed to add: "when the dependent or unmarried minor has not undergone a personal interview during the asylum procedure".
SECTION V

Article 43

Border procedures

1. Member States may provide for procedures, in accordance with the basic principles and guarantees of Chapter II, in order to decide at the border or transit zones of the Member State on:

(a) the admissibility of an application, pursuant to Article 33, made at such locations; and/or

Reservation: NL
In response to NL, Cion confirmed that the regime for border procedures laid down in Article 43 would apply to the Schiphol centre as it is located at the border. In the Schiphol centre all sorts of applications are examined and not only applications on their admissibility and applications in accelerated procedure. In the light of this response, NL requested clarification whether examinations of applications at the Schiphol centre can only take place when the conditions laid down in Article 31(6) apply and that other examinations are not possible irrespective of the question whether these are done in full respect of Chapter II.

Scrutiny reservation: BE (sharing the concern of NL), EE, ES, HU, PT, RO

Scrutiny reservation: CZ, FR
CZ considered that at border or transit zones, other cases, such as subsequent applications, should be added, to the cases mentioned in points (a) and (b).
(b) the substance of an application in a procedure pursuant to Article 31(6).

2. However, when procedures as set out in paragraph 1 do not exist, Member States may maintain, subject to the provisions of this Article and in accordance with the laws or regulations in force on 1 December 2005, procedures derogating from the basic principles and guarantees described in Chapter II, in order to decide at the border or in transit zones as to whether applicants for asylum who have arrived and made an application for asylum at such locations, may enter their territory.

3. The procedures referred to in paragraph 2 shall ensure in particular that the persons concerned:

(a) are allowed to remain at the border or transit zones of the Member State, without prejudice to Article 7.

210 CZ requested clarification on the term "substance of an application". In response, Cion indicated that this term was used to contrast point (b) with point (a) on admissibility.

Reservation: DE in relation to Article 31(6).

Scrutiny reservation: AT in relation to Article 31(6).

HU wanted to add additional grounds allowing an examination at the border of manifestly unfounded applications. These additional grounds (bad faith and failure to apply within a reasonable period) could be added to the list of Article 31(6) or be included in Article 32 or 43.
(b) are immediately informed of their rights and obligations, as described in Article 10(1)(a);

(c) have access, if necessary, to the services of an interpreter, as described in Article 10(1)(b);

(d) are interviewed, before the competent authority takes a decision in such procedures, in relation to their application for asylum by persons with appropriate knowledge of the relevant standards applicable in the field of asylum and refugee law, as described in Articles 12, 13 and 14;

(e) can consult a legal adviser or counsellor admitted or permitted as such under national law, as described in Article 15(1); and

(f) have a representative appointed in the case of unaccompanied minors, as described in Article 17(1), unless Article 17(2) or (3) applies.

Moreover, in case permission to enter is refused by a competent authority, this competent authority shall state the reasons in fact and in law why the application for asylum is considered as unfounded or as inadmissible.

2.4 Member States shall ensure that a decision in the framework of the procedures provided for in paragraph 1.2 is taken within a reasonable time. When a decision has not been taken within four weeks\(^\text{212}\), the applicant for asylum shall be granted entry to the territory of the Member State in order for his/her application to be processed in accordance with the other provisions of this Directive.

\(^{212}\) In response to a request for clarification of ES, PT, Cion, noting that this time-period is already included in the Directive currently in force, indicated that the 4 weeks concern the first instance procedure and not the appeal stage.
3. In the event of particular types of arrivals, or arrivals involving a large number of third country nationals or stateless persons lodging applications for international protection at the border or in a transit zone, which makes it practically impossible in practice to apply there the provisions of paragraph 1 or the specific procedure set out in paragraphs 2 and 3, those procedures may also be applied where and for as long as these third country nationals or stateless persons are accommodated normally at locations in proximity to the border or transit zone.

2005/85/EC

Article 36

The European safe third countries concept

1. Member States may provide that no, or no full, examination of the asylum application and of the safety of the applicant in his/her particular circumstances as described in Chapter II, shall take place in cases where a competent authority has established, on the basis of the facts, that the applicant for asylum is seeking to enter or has entered illegally into its territory from a safe third country according to paragraph 2.

2. A third country can only be considered as a safe third country for the purposes of paragraph 1 where:

(a) it has ratified and observes the provisions of the Geneva Convention without any geographical limitations;

(b) it has in place an asylum procedure prescribed by law;

(c) it has ratified the European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms and observes its provisions, including the standards relating to effective remedies; and
(d) — it has been so designated by the Council in accordance with paragraph 3.

3. The Council shall, acting by qualified majority on a proposal from the Commission and after consultation of the European Parliament, adopt or amend a common list of third countries that shall be regarded as safe third countries for the purposes of paragraph 1.

4. The Member States concerned shall lay down in national law the modalities for implementing the provisions of paragraph 1 and the consequences of decisions pursuant to those provisions in accordance with the principle of non-refoulement under the Geneva Convention, including providing for exceptions from the application of this Article for humanitarian or political reasons or for reasons of public international law.

5. When implementing a decision solely based on this Article, the Member States concerned shall:

(a) — inform the applicant accordingly; and

(b) — provide him/her with a document informing the authorities of the third country, in the language of that country, that the application has not been examined in substance.

6. Where the safe third country does not readmit the applicant for asylum, Member States shall ensure that access to a procedure is given in accordance with the basic principles and guarantees described in Chapter II.

7. Member States which have designated third countries as safe countries in accordance with national legislation in force on 1 December 2005 and on the basis of the criteria in paragraph 2(a), (b) and (c), may apply paragraph 1 to these third countries until the Council has adopted the common list pursuant to paragraph 3.
CHAPTER IV

PROCEDURES FOR THE WITHDRAWAL OF INTERNATIONAL PROTECTION

Refugee STATUS

Article 44

Withdrawal of international protection refugee status

Member States shall ensure that an examination to withdraw the international protection refugee status of a particular person may commence when new elements or findings arise indicating that there are reasons to reconsider the validity of his/her international protection refugee status.

HU suggested that an examination to withdraw the status may also commence following an ex officio review. In response, Cion indicated that the basic principles of effective remedy apply also in relation to this provision.

213
Article 45

Procedural rules

1. Member States shall ensure that, where the competent authority is considering withdrawing the international protection status of a third country national or stateless person in accordance with Article 14 or Article 19 of Directive [.../.../EU] [the Qualification Directive] 2004/83/EC, the person concerned shall enjoy the following guarantees:

(a) to be informed in writing that the competent authority is reconsidering his or her qualification for international protection status and the reasons for such a reconsideration; and

(b) to be given the opportunity to submit, in a personal interview in accordance with Article 12(1)(b) and Articles 14, 15, 16, and 17 or in a written statement, reasons as to why his/her international protection status should not be withdrawn.
In addition, Member States shall ensure that within the framework of such a procedure:

(a) the competent authority is able to obtain precise and up-to-date information from various sources, such as, where appropriate, from the European Asylum Support Office and the UNHCR, as to the general situation prevailing in the countries of origin of the persons concerned; and

(b) where information on an individual case is collected for the purposes of reconsidering the international protection status, it is not obtained from the actor(s) of persecution or serious harm in a manner that would result in such actor(s) being directly informed of the fact that the person concerned is a beneficiary of international protection whose status is under reconsideration, nor jeopardise the physical integrity of the person and his/her dependants, or the liberty and security of his/her family members still living in the country of origin.
2. Member States shall ensure that the decision of the competent authority to withdraw the international protection refugee status is given in writing. The reasons in fact and in law shall be stated in the decision and information on how to challenge the decision shall be given in writing.

3. Once the competent authority has taken the decision to withdraw the international protection refugee status, Article 20 paragraph 2, Article 22, Article 23(1) paragraph 1 and Article 29 are equally applicable.¹⁴

4.²¹⁵ ²¹⁶ By derogation to paragraphs 1, 2 and 3 of this Article, Member States may decide²¹⁷ that the international protection refugee status shall lapse by law in case of cessation in accordance with Article 11(1)(a) to (d) of Directive 2004/83/EC or if the beneficiary of international protection refugee has unequivocally renounced his/her recognition as a beneficiary of international protection refugee. Member States may also provide that the international protection status shall lapse by law where the beneficiary of international protection has become a citizen of that Member State.

²¹⁴ In response to DE, Cion indicated that Article 21 applies via Article 20.
²¹⁵ DE proposed to maintain the wording of the Directive currently in force, in particular the phrase "in case of cessation in accordance with Article 11(1)(a) to (d) of Directive 2004/83/EC".
²¹⁶ CZ proposed to include as a derogation that the status shall lapse in case of death of an applicant. In response, Cion indicated that the relevant provisions in the Qualification Directive apply.
²¹⁷ CZ proposed "establish" instead of "decide". In response, Cion indicated this concerns a part of the directive on which the Commission has not made proposals.
CHAPTER V

APPEALS PROCEDURES

Article 46 218

The right to an effective remedy

1. Member States shall ensure that applicants for international protection have the right to an effective remedy before a court or tribunal, against the following:

   (a) a decision taken on their application for international protection, including a decision:

   (i) to consider an application unfounded in relation to refugee status and/or subsidiary protection status.

218 Reservation EL and NL presenting its proposal to amend Article 46 which is laid down in document 13131/11. This proposal is aimed at making Article 46 compatible with the single status system in the Netherlands.

Scrutiny reservation: CZ, EE, FR, IT, SE (in particular as regards paragraphs 6 and 7).
(ii) to consider an application inadmissible pursuant to Article 33(2),

(iii) taken at the border or in the transit zones of a Member State as described in Article 43 (1, 2, 3, 4, 5);

(iii) not to conduct an examination pursuant to Article 36;

(iv) not to conduct an examination pursuant to Article 39.

(b) a refusal to re-open the examination of an application after its discontinuation pursuant to Articles 27 and 28;

(c) a decision not to further examine the subsequent application pursuant to Articles 32 and 34;

(d) a decision refusing entry within the framework of the procedures provided for under Article 35(2);

(e) a decision to withdraw international protection refugee status pursuant to Article 45.

Scrutiny reservation: CY, EL because of their reservations on Article 39.
2. Member States shall ensure that persons recognised by the determining authority as eligible for subsidiary protection have the right to an effective remedy as referred to in paragraph 1 against a decision to consider an application unfounded in relation to refugee status.

3. Member States shall ensure that the effective remedy referred to in paragraph 1 provides for a full examination of both facts and points of law, including an ex nunc examination of the international protection needs pursuant to Directive […/…/EU] [the Qualification Directive], at least in appeal procedures before a court or tribunal of first instance.

220 Reservation: CY, PL (in connection with paragraph 1)
Scrubiny reservation: AT, ES, IT, SK requesting clarification on the ex nunc examination. NL expressed its preference for an ex nunc examination only and not a full examination as proposed, in particular in the case of clear abuse by the applicant.
Cion indicated that the proposal was drawn up in the light of existing case-law. Cion further pointed out that ex nunc examination was important as it enabled the court or tribunal to look at the situation in the country of origin at the time of the ruling.
Member States shall provide for reasonable time limits and other necessary rules for the applicant to exercise his/her right to an effective remedy pursuant to paragraph 1.

The time limits shall not render impossible or excessively difficult the access of applicants to an effective remedy pursuant to paragraph 1.

Member States may also provide for an ex officio review of decisions taken pursuant to Article 43.

Scrutiny reservation: ES, LT

LT requested clarification what would be considered as a "reasonable" time-limit. In response, Cion indicated that case-law gave rather clear indications what time-limits should be considered as reasonable and that this has to be determined on a case-by-case basis. CZ suggested to establish a time-limit.
Member States shall, where appropriate, provide for rules in accordance with their international obligations dealing with:

(a) the question of whether the remedy pursuant to paragraph 1 shall have the effect of allowing applicants to remain in the Member State concerned pending its outcome;

(b) the possibility of legal remedy or protective measures where the remedy pursuant to paragraph 1 does not have the effect of allowing applicants to remain in the Member State concerned pending its outcome. Member States may also provide for an ex officio remedy; and

(c) the grounds for challenging a decision under Article 25(2)(c) in accordance with the methodology applied under Article 27(2)(b) and (c).

2005/85/EC
5. Without prejudice to paragraph 6, Member States shall allow applicants to remain in the territory until the time limit within which to exercise their right to an effective remedy has expired or, when this right has been exercised within the time limit, pending the outcome of the remedy.

6. In the case of a decision:

(a) to consider an application unfounded where any of the circumstances listed in Article 31(6) apply or manifestly unfounded in accordance with Article 32(2);

(b) to consider an application inadmissible pursuant to Article 33(2)(a) or (d);
(c) to reject reopening of the applicant's case that has been discontinued according to Article 28;

(d) not to examine or not to examine fully the applicant's case pursuant to Article 39, and where, in such cases, the right to remain in the Member State pending the outcome of the remedy is not foreseen under national legislation, a court or tribunal shall have the power to rule whether or not the applicant may remain on the territory of the Member State, either upon request of the concerned applicant or acting on its own motion.

This paragraph shall not apply to procedures referred to in Article 43.

7. Member States shall allow the applicant to remain in the territory pending the outcome of the procedure to rule whether or not the applicant may remain on the territory, laid down in paragraph 6.

8. Paragraphs 5, 6 and 7 shall be without prejudice to Article 26 of Regulation (EU) No [.../…] [the Dublin Regulation].

225 Cion opposed adding this situation arguing that in case of implicit withdrawal of an application the substance of the application may be left unexamined. For that reason, suspensive effect is needed to provide a safety net for these cases.

226 Cion opposed adding this situation arguing that in case of applying the provision on safe third countries the substance of the application may be left unexamined.

227 Scrutiny reservation: CZ, EE, IT

228 Scrutiny reservation: AT, DE, ES, FI, SI, SK

229 ES requested clarification what would happen in case of an unfounded application.

229 Reservation: SI proposing to delete this paragraph.
Member States may lay down time-limits for the court or tribunal pursuant to paragraph 1 to examine the decision of the determining authority.

Where an applicant has been granted a status which offers the same rights and benefits under national and Community law as the refugee status by virtue of Directive 2004/83/EC, the applicant may be considered as having an effective remedy where a court or tribunal decides that the remedy pursuant to paragraph 1 is inadmissible or unlikely to succeed on the basis of insufficient interest on the part of the applicant in maintaining the proceedings.

Member States may also lay down in national legislation the conditions under which it can be assumed that an applicant has implicitly withdrawn or abandoned his/her remedy pursuant to paragraph 1, together with the rules on the procedure to be followed.

Definition of "determining authority."

When implementing the provision of this Directive, Ireland may, insofar as the provisions of section 17(1) of the Refugee Act 1996 (as amended) continue to apply, consider that:

- "determining authority" provided for in Article 2 (e) (f) of this Directive shall, insofar as the examination of whether an applicant should or, as the case may be, should not be declared to be a refugee is concerned, mean the Office of the Refugee Applications Commissioner; and

- "decisions at first instance" provided for in Article 2 (e) (f) of this Directive shall include recommendations of the Refugee Applications Commissioner as to whether an applicant should or, as the case may be, should not be declared to be a refugee.

Ireland will notify the Commission of any amendments to the provisions of section 17(1) of the Refugee Act 1996 (as amended).
Designation of safe countries of origin for the purposes of Articles 29 and 30(1)

A country is considered as a safe country of origin where, on the basis of the legal situation, the application of the law within a democratic system and the general political circumstances, it can be shown that there is generally and consistently no persecution as defined in Article 9 of Directive [.../.../EU] [the Qualification Directive] Directive 2004/83/EC, no torture or inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment and no threat by reason of indiscriminate violence in situations of international or internal armed conflict.

In making this assessment, account shall be taken, inter alia, of the extent to which protection is provided against persecution or mistreatment by:

(a) the relevant laws and regulations of the country and the manner in which they are applied;

(b) observance of the rights and freedoms laid down in the European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms and/or the International Covenant for Civil and Political Rights and/or the Convention against Torture, in particular the rights from which derogation cannot be made under Article 15(2) of the said European Convention;

(c) respect of the non-refoulement principle according to the Geneva Convention;

(d) provision for a system of effective remedies against violations of these rights and freedoms.
Definition of "applicant" or "applicant for asylum"

When implementing the provisions of this Directive Spain may, insofar as the provisions of "Ley 30/1992 de Régimen jurídico de las Administraciones Públicas y del Procedimiento Administrativo Común" of 26 November 1992 and "Ley 29/1998 reguladora de la Jurisdicción Contencioso-Administrativa" of 13 July 1998 continue to apply, consider that, for the purposes of Chapter V, the definition of "applicant" or "applicant for asylum" in Article 2(c) of this Directive shall include "recurrente" as established in the abovementioned Acts.

A "recurrente" shall be entitled to the same guarantees as an "applicant" or an "applicant for asylum" as set out in this Directive for the purposes of exercising his/her right to an effective remedy in Chapter V.

Spain will notify the Commission of any relevant amendments to the abovementioned Act.
