Subject: Proposal for a Regulation of the European Parliament and of the Council establishing the criteria and mechanisms for determining the Member State responsible for examining an application for international protection lodged in one of the Member States by a third-country national or a stateless person (Recast)

- Preparation for the first informal trilogue [First reading]

Introduction

In December 2008, the Commission submitted to the European Parliament and the Council a recast of the Regulation establishing the criteria and mechanisms for determining the Member State responsible for examining an application for international protection lodged in one of the Member States by a third-country national or stateless person (the Dublin Regulation).

The recast of the Regulation is part of a series of legislative proposals in the field of asylum submitted by the Commission in keeping with the commitment of the European Council to establish a Common European Asylum System by 2012.
Negotiations in Council have been prolonged mainly due to the opposition by delegations to the suggestion of a suspension mechanism in the Regulation in cases where a Member State is faced with mass influx on its asylum system. Other significant issues have concerned the definition of family members, the applicant’s right to information, the personal interview, guarantees for unaccompanied minors and dependents, remedies, and rules on detention.

The result of these examinations with delegations' comments in the footnotes is set out in document 7814/12.

Based on negotiations during previous Presidencies, most recently at the meeting of the Committee on 2 December 2012, as well as discussions by Counsellors on 23 January, 3 February, 23 February, 29 February, 5 March and 15 March 2012, the Presidency has prepared a compromise package which is reflected in the annex. The Presidency invites the Committee to endorse this package as its mandate for engaging in informal trilogues with representatives of the European Parliament without, however, touching yet on the technical questions of delegated acts. In keeping with the commitment of the European Council to establish a Common European Asylum System by 2012, the Presidency aims to achieve agreement on the recast for the Dublin Regulation in early second reading.

In accordance with Article 3 and Article 4a(1) of the Protocol (No 21) on the Position of the United Kingdom and Ireland in respect of the Area of Freedom, Security and Justice, annexed to the Treaty on European Union and to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, these Member States have notified (by letter received on 2 March 2009 IE, and by letter received on 6 March 2009 the UK) their wish to take part in the adoption and application of the present Regulation, notified its intention to participate in the adoption of this proposal.

In accordance with Articles 1 and 2 of the Protocol (No 22) on the Position of Denmark, annexed to the Treaty on European Union and to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, Denmark is not taking part in the adoption of this Regulation and is not bound by it or subject to its application.
In this context, it is recalled that by virtue of the Agreement between the European Community and the Kingdom of Denmark, the provisions of Council Regulation (EC) No 343/2003 establishing the criteria and mechanisms for determining the Member State responsible for examining an asylum application lodged in one of the Member States by a third-country national and Council Regulation (EC) No 2725/2000 concerning the establishment of "Eurodac" for the comparison of fingerprints for the effective application of the Dublin Convention were extended to Denmark.

Compromise package

The Presidency compromise package which appears in the Annex consists of the following main elements. New Presidency suggestions in comparison to document 7814/12 are highlighted in bold.

1. Definition of family members, relatives and relations – Article 2

   The Presidency proposes to maintain the definition of family members as it stands in Article 2 (g). The Presidency has introduced two different definitions on “relatives” when dealing with unaccompanied minors in Article 2 (ga) and on “relations” as concerns the provision on dependents in Article 2 (gb).

   Moreover, the Presidency has clarified the text in Recitals 13 and 14, and Article 7, deleting the reference to siblings, as this is already covered by the reference to family members and relatives in article 2. In Recital 14 and Article 17, the Presidency suggest to refer to “members of the extended family”, thereby emphasising that this refers to persons falling outside of the scope of family members, relatives and relations.

2. Remedies – Article 26

   The discussions concerning the suspension of transfers have mainly concerned the fact that delegations are opposed to any general rule on suspension of transfers during appeals, including during the period for deciding on a suspensive effect. Based on the discussion at the meeting of Counsellors on 29 February 2012 and 15 March 2012, the Presidency has removed the reference to no transfer taking place before a decision on the applicants request for suspensive effect of an appeal has been examined. The Presidency has instead sought to underline the principle that transfers shall always be carried out in accordance with the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union as well as other international obligations of the Member States.
3. Detention – Article 27

On the meeting between counsellors on 15 March 2012, delegations in general supported the Presidency text. As it stands, the text clarifies that detention may not take place solely because a person applied for international protection and is undergoing a Dublin procedure. Furthermore, detention shall be for as short as possible, proportionate and may take place in order to secure Dublin transfers when there is a risk of absconding. Member States shall lay down the conditions and guarantees concerning detention in their national legislation and in accordance with applicable EU and international instruments.

4. A mechanism for early warning, preparedness and crisis management – Article 31

Intensive discussions have been conducted on the wording of the provision in the Dublin Regulation replacing the suspension mechanism as suggested by the Commission in its proposal from December 2008 and replacing it with a more viable alternative consisting of a mechanism for early warning, preparedness and crisis management for situations of particular pressures or deficiencies that could affect the functioning of the Dublin Regulation. The provision concisely sets down the structure of the mechanism. On 8 March 2012, the Council adopted a set of conclusions on a Common Framework for genuine and practical solidarity towards Member States facing particular pressures on their asylum systems, including through mixed migration flows. The Council Conclusions, as set out in doc. 7485/12+COR1, provide for a framework for the activities undertaken as part of the mechanism set down on the proposal.

The mechanism currently included in the draft Dublin Regulation contains provisions on a preventive action plan followed by a crisis management action plan, where the preventive action plan does not remedy the situation and/or where there is a serious risk that the asylum system in the Member State concerned develops into a crisis and this may jeopardize the application of the Regulation. The possibility exists that a crisis management action plan is triggered directly, when the situation presenting amounts to a fully fledged crisis. Throughout the entire process, the Council will closely monitor the situation and may request more information or provide political guidance, including on any measures of solidarity as it deems appropriate. Furthermore, the provision foresees the assistance of EASO and other relevant EU agencies where appropriate.
5. Delegated acts

Discussions on the question of delegated acts remain highly technical and relate to questions such as the adoption of an information leaflet on Dublin/EURODAC, of procedures related to the implementation of measures concerning the reunification of unaccompanied minors and dependent persons with relatives, of procedures for preparing and transmitting take charge and take back requests, of establishing and revising the two lists indicating the elements of proof regarding a take charge request, the design of the laissez-passner, the standard form for exchange of information between authorities in connection with a transfer, cf. Article 30, the procedure for the common health certificate accompanying the persons transferred, cf. Article 30 A, and rules relating to the establishment of secure electronic transmission channels between the authorities for transmitting requests, cf. Article 33. Certain reservations remain to the proposed articles set down in document 7814/12. The Presidency will present compromise proposals on these issues to the Committee at a later stage after having entered into informal trilogue with the European Parliament on the other elements of the recast Dublin Regulation, which is the main part of the proposal.

Conclusion

The Presidency invites the Committee of Permanent Representatives to endorse the compromise package reflected in the annex with a view to establishing a mandate for the first trilogue on the recast of the Dublin Regulation with the exception of the question of delegated acts.

(1) A number of substantive changes are to be made to Council Regulation (EC) No 343/2003 of 18 February 2003 establishing the criteria and mechanisms for determining the Member State responsible for examining an asylum application lodged in one of the Member States by a third-country national\textsuperscript{4}. In the interests of clarity, that Regulation should be recast.

(2) A common policy on asylum, including a Common European Asylum System, is a constituent part of the European Union's objective of progressively establishing an area of freedom, security and justice open to those who, forced by circumstances, legitimately seek protection in the Union.

\textsuperscript{3} OJ C \textsuperscript{3}, \textsuperscript{3}, p. \textsuperscript{4}.
The European Council, at its special meeting in Tampere on 15 and 16 October 1999, agreed to work towards establishing a Common European Asylum System, based on the full and inclusive application of the Geneva Convention relating to the Status of Refugees of 28 July 1951, as supplemented by the New York Protocol of 31 January 1967, thus ensuring that nobody is sent back to persecution, i.e. maintaining the principle of non-refoulement. In this respect, and without affecting the responsibility criteria laid down in this Regulation, Member States, all respecting the principle of non-refoulement, are considered as safe countries for third-country nationals.

The Tampere conclusions also stated that this system should include, in the short term, a clear and workable method for determining the Member State responsible for the examination of an asylum application.

Such a method should be based on objective, fair criteria both for the Member States and for the persons concerned. It should, in particular, make it possible to determine rapidly the Member State responsible, so as to guarantee effective access to the procedures for determining refugee international protection status and not to compromise the objective of the rapid processing of asylum applications for international protection.
As regards the introduction in successive phases of a common European asylum system that should lead, in the longer term, to a common procedure and a uniform status, valid throughout the Union, for those granted asylum, it is appropriate at this stage, while making the necessary improvements in the light of experience, to confirm the principles underlying the Convention determining the State responsible for examining applications for asylum lodged in one of the Member States of the European Communities (4), signed in Dublin on 15 June 1990 (hereinafter referred to as the Dublin Convention), whose implementation has stimulated the process of harmonising asylum policies.

(6) The first phase in the creation of a Common European Asylum System that should lead, in the longer term, to a common procedure and a uniform status, valid throughout the Union, for those granted asylum, has now been achieved. The European Council of 4 November 2004 adopted the Hague Programme which sets the objectives to be implemented in the area of freedom, security and justice in the period 2005-2010. In this respect the Hague Programme invited the European Commission to conclude the evaluation of the first phase legal instruments and to submit the second-phase instruments and measures to the Council and the European Parliament with a view to their adoption before 2010.
(6a) In the Stockholm Programme the European Council reiterated its commitment to the objective of establishing a common area of protection and solidarity in accordance with Article 78 TFEU, for those granted international protection, by 2012 at the latest. Furthermore it emphasized that the Dublin System remains a cornerstone in building the Common European Asylum System, as it clearly allocates responsibility for the examination of asylum applications.

(7) In the light of the results of the evaluations undertaken, it is appropriate, at this stage, to confirm the principles underlying the Regulation (EC) No 343/2003, while making the necessary improvements in the light of experience to enhance the effectiveness of the system and the protection granted to applicants for international protection under this procedure.

(8) In view of ensuring equal treatment for all applicants and beneficiaries of international protection, as well as in order to ensure consistency with current EU asylum acquis, in particular with Directive 2011/xx/EU of 13 December 2011 on standards for the qualification and status of third country nationals or stateless persons as beneficiaries of international protection for a uniform status for refugees or for persons eligible for subsidiary protection and for the content of the protection granted,\(^5\) the scope of this Regulation encompasses applicants for subsidiary protection and persons enjoying subsidiary protection.

(9) [...] (10) In accordance with the 1989 United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child and as recognised in the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union, the best interests of the child should be a primary consideration of Member States in the application of this Regulation. In addition, specific procedural guarantees for unaccompanied minors should be laid down on account of their particular vulnerability.

Family unity should be preserved in so far as this is compatible with the other objectives pursued by establishing criteria and mechanisms for determining the Member State responsible for examining an asylum application.

(11) In accordance with the European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms and as recognised in the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union, respect for family life should be a primary concern of Member States when applying this Regulation.
(12) The processing together of the asylum applications for international protection of the members of one family by a single Member State makes it possible to ensure that the applications are examined thoroughly and the decisions taken in respect of them are consistent and that the members of one family are not separated.

(13) In order to ensure full respect for the principle of family unity and of the best interests of the child, the existence of a relationship of dependency between an applicant and his/her relative on account of the applicant’s pregnancy or maternity, state of health or old age, should become binding responsibility criterion. When the applicant is an unaccompanied minor, the presence of a family member, or a relative on the territory of another Member State who can take care of him/her should also become binding responsibility criterion.
Any Member States should be able to derogate from the responsibility criteria, so as to make it possible to bring family members together where this is necessary on humanitarian grounds, in particular for humanitarian and compassionate reasons, so as to make it possible to bring members of the extended family and other relatives or relations together and examine an application for international protection lodged with it or with another Member State, even if such examination is not its responsibility under the binding criteria laid down in the Regulation.
(15) A personal interview […] should be organised in order to facilitate the determination of the Member State responsible for examining an application for international protection […] The asylum seeker should be informed, as soon as the application for international protection is lodged, on the application of the present Regulation and […] that the interview in order to facilitate the process of determining the Member State responsible includes the possibility for the applicant to provide information regarding the presence of family members or other relatives or relations in the Member States.

(16) In accordance in particular with the rights recognised in Article 47 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union, legal safeguards and the right to an effective remedy in respect of decisions regarding transfers to the Member State responsible should be established to guarantee effective protection of the rights of the individuals concerned.
Detention of asylum seekers should be applied in line with the underlying principle that a person should not be held in detention for the sole reason that he is seeking international protection. Detention should be as short as possible and be subject to the principles of necessity and proportionality. In particular, detention of asylum seekers must be applied in line with Article 31 of the Geneva Convention. The procedures carried out according to this Regulation in respect of a detained person should be handled with priority, within the minimum possible deadlines.
Deficiencies or collapses of asylum systems, often aggravated or contributed to by particular pressures on them, can destabilise the proper functioning of the system put in place by the present Regulation. A process for early warning, preparedness and management of asylum crises serving to prevent such deteriorations or collapses with EASO playing a key role using its powers under Regulation (EU) 439/2010 should be established both in order to ensure that cooperation within the framework of this Regulation is robust as well as to develop mutual trust among the Member States with respect to asylum policy. The process should ensure that the Union is alerted as soon as possible of situations in which a concern exists that the smooth functioning of the system set up by this Regulation is jeopardized because the asylum systems of one or more Member States are subject to particular pressure and/or due to deficiencies in the asylum systems of one or more Member States. Such a process would allow the Union to promote preventive measures at an early stage and afford such situations the appropriate political attention. Solidarity is a pivotal element in the CEAS and solidarity and mutual trust go hand in hand. By enhancing such trust, this process could improve the steering of concrete measures of genuine and practical solidarity towards the Member State or Member States concerned in order to assist the affected Member States in general and the asylum seekers in particular.
Member States should collaborate with the European Asylum Support Office in the gathering of information concerning their ability to manage particular pressure on their asylum and reception systems, in particular in the framework of the application of this Regulation. The European Asylum Support Office should regularly report on the information gathered in accordance with Regulation (EU) No 439/2010.

In accordance with Commission Regulation (EC) No 1560/2003 of 2 September 2003 laying down detailed rules for the application of Council Regulation (EC) No 343/2003, transfers to the Member State responsible may be carried out on a voluntary basis, by supervised departure or under escort. Member States should promote voluntary transfers and should ensure that supervised or escorted transfers are undertaken in a human manner, in full respect for fundamental rights and human dignity.

The progressive creation of an area without internal frontiers in which free movement of persons is guaranteed in accordance with the Treaty establishing the European Community and the establishment of Community policies regarding the conditions of entry and stay of third country nationals, including common efforts towards the management of external borders, makes it necessary to strike a balance between responsibility criteria in a spirit of solidarity.

(23) Directive 95/46/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 24 October 1995 on the protection of individuals with regard to the processing of personal data and on the free movement of such data\(^7\) applies to the processing of personal data by the Member States in application of this Regulation.

(24) The exchange of applicant's personal data, including sensitive data concerning health, to be transferred before a transfer is carried out will ensure that the competent asylum authorities are in a position to provide applicants with adequate assistance and to ensure continuity in the protection and rights afforded to them. Special provision should be made to ensure the protection of data relating to applicants involved in this situation, in conformity with Directive 95/46/EC.

\(^7\) OJ L 281, 23.11.1995, p. 31.
(25) The application of this Regulation can be facilitated, and its effectiveness increased, by bilateral arrangements between Member States for improving communications between competent departments, reducing time limits for procedures or simplifying the processing of requests to take charge or take back, or establishing procedures for the performance of transfers.

(26) Continuity between the system for determining the Member State responsible established by the Dublin Convention Regulation (EC) No 343/2003 and the system established by this Regulation should be ensured. Similarly, consistency should be ensured between this Regulation and Council Regulation (EC) No 2725/2000 of 11 December 2000 [concerning the establishment of "EURODAC" for the comparison of fingerprints for the effective application of the Dublin Regulation].

(27) The operation of the Eurodac EURODAC system, as established by Regulation (EC) No 2725/2000 [concerning the establishment of "EURODAC" for the comparison of fingerprints for the effective application of the Dublin Regulation] and in particular the implementation of Articles 6 and 10 contained therein should facilitate the implementation application of this Regulation.

The operation of the Visa Information System, as established by Regulation (EC) No 767/2008 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 9 July 2008 concerning the Visa Information System (VIS) and the exchange of data between Member States on short-stay visas, and in particular the implementation of Articles 21 and 22 contained therein should facilitate the application of this Regulation.

With respect to the treatment of persons falling within the scope of this Regulation, Member States are bound by their obligations under instruments of international law, including the relevant case-law of the European Court of Human Rights.

In order to ensure uniform conditions for the implementation of this Regulation, implementing powers should be conferred on the Commission. Those powers should be exercised in accordance with Regulation (EU) No 182/2011 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 16 February 2011 laying down the rules and general principles concerning mechanisms for control by the Member States of the Commission’s exercise of implementing powers.

The examination procedure should be used for the adoption of an information leaflet on Dublin/Eurodac, of procedures related to the implementation of measures concerning the reunification of unaccompanied minors with relatives and dependent persons with relations, of procedures for preparing and transmitting take charge and take back requests, of establishing and revising the two lists indicating the elements of proof regarding a take charge request, the design of the laissez-passer, the procedures for carrying out transfers and meeting their costs, drawing a standard form of data exchange, the practical arrangements on the transfer of health data, the rules relating to the establishment of secure electronic transmission channels for all written correspondence, given that those acts are of general scope.
The measures necessary for the implementation of Regulation (EC) No 343/2003 have been adopted by Regulation (EC) No 1560/2003. Certain provisions of Regulation (EC) No 1560/2003 should be incorporated into this Regulation, for reasons of clarity or because they can serve a general objective. In particular, it is important both for the Member States and the asylum seekers concerned, that there should be a general mechanism for finding a solution in cases where Member States differ over the application of a provision of this Regulation. It is therefore justified to incorporate the mechanism provided for in Regulation (EC) No 1560/2003 for the settling of disputes on the humanitarian clause into this Regulation and to extend its scope to the whole of this Regulation.

The effective monitoring of the application of this Regulation should require that it be evaluated at regular intervals.
The Regulation observes respects the fundamental rights and observes the principles which are acknowledged in particular in the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union. In particular, this Regulation seeks to ensure full observance of the right to asylum guaranteed by Article 18 and the rights recognized by Articles 1, 4, 7, 24 and 47 of the said Charter and should be applied accordingly.

Since the objective of the proposed measure, namely the establishment of criteria and mechanisms for determining the Member State responsible for examining an asylum application for international protection lodged in one of the Member States by a third-country national or a stateless person, cannot be sufficiently achieved by the Member States and, given the scale and effects, can therefore be better achieved at Community level, the Community may adopt measures in accordance with the principle of subsidiarity as set out in Article 5 of the Treaty. In accordance with the principle of proportionality, as set out in that Article, this Regulation does not go beyond what is necessary in order to achieve that objective.

In accordance with Article 3 of the Protocol on the position of the United Kingdom and Ireland, annexed to the Treaty on European Union and to the Treaty establishing the European Community, the United Kingdom and Ireland gave notice, by letters of 30 October 2001, of their wish to take part in the adoption and application of this Regulation.

In accordance with Article 3 and Article 4a(1) of the Protocol No 21 on the Position of the United Kingdom and Ireland in respect of the Area of Freedom, Security and Justice, annexed to the Treaty on European Union and to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, these Member States have notified their wish to take part in the adoption and application of the present Regulation.
In accordance with Articles 1 and 2 of the Protocol on the position of Denmark, annexed to the Treaty on European Union and to the Treaty establishing the European Community, Denmark does not take part in the adoption of this Regulation and is not bound by it nor subject to its application.

In accordance with Articles 1 and 2 of the Protocol (No 22) on the Position of Denmark, annexed to the Treaty on European Union and to the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, Denmark is not taking part in the adoption of this Regulation and is not bound by it or subject to its application.

The Dublin Convention remains in force and continues to apply between Denmark and the Member States that are bound by this Regulation until such time an agreement allowing Denmark’s participation in the Regulation has been concluded.

The application shall be examined by a single Member State, which shall be the one which the criteria set out in Chapter III of this Regulation indicate is responsible.
2. Where no Member State responsible for examining the application for international protection as asylum can be designated on the basis of the criteria listed in this Regulation, the first Member State with which the application for asylum international protection was lodged shall be responsible for examining it.

3. Any Member State shall retain the right, pursuant to its national laws, to send an asylum seeker to a safe third country, in compliance with the provisions of the Geneva Convention subject to the rules and safeguards laid down in Directive 2005/85/EC.
Article 4

The decision on whether to suspend the implementation of the transfer decision, shall be taken within a reasonable period of time. Transfers shall be carried out in accordance with the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union as well as other international obligations of the Member States, including relevant case law from the European Court of Human Rights.

Without arbitrarily restricting access to legal assistance, Member States may provide that free legal assistance not be granted where the appeal or review is considered by the competent authority to have no tangible prospect of success.

Legal assistance shall include at least the preparation of the required procedural documents and representation before the judicial authorities and may be restricted to legal advisors or counsellors specifically designated by national law to assist and represent asylum seekers.

Procedures for access to legal assistance shall be laid down in national law.

The Member State carrying out the transfer shall communicate to the responsible Member State such personal data concerning the person to be transferred as is appropriate, relevant and non-excessive for the sole purposes of ensuring that the competent authorities in accordance with national law in the responsible Member State are in a position to provide the person concerned with adequate assistance, including the provision of immediate health care required in order to protect the vital interest of the person concerned, and to ensure continuity in the protection and rights afforded by this Regulation and by other relevant asylum legal instruments. This information shall be communicated to the responsible Member State within a reasonable period of time before a transfer is carried out, in order to ensure that the competent authorities in accordance with national law in the responsible Member State have sufficient time to take the measures required.

The transferring Member State shall, insofar as such information is available to the competent authority in accordance with national law, transmit to the responsible Member State any information that it is essential in order to safeguard the rights and immediate special needs of the person concerned, and in particular:

A mechanism for early warning, preparedness and crisis management

1. Where, based in particular on the information gathered by EASO pursuant to the application of this Regulation may be jeopardised due to either the identification of a substantiated risk of particular pressure on a Member State’s asylum system and/or because of problems in the functioning of the asylum system of a Member State, the Commission, in cooperation with EASO, shall address recommendations to that Member State inviting it to draw up a preventive action plan. The Member State concerned shall inform the Council and the Commission whether it intends to present a preventive action plan following the Commission’s recommendations.
A Member State may upon its own discretion and initiative draw up a preventive action plan and subsequent revisions thereof. When drawing up a preventive action plan, the Member State may call for the assistance of the Commission and other Member States, EASO and other relevant EU agencies.

2. a) Where a preventive action plan is drawn up, the Member State concerned shall submit it as well as regular reports on its implementation to the Commission. Where necessary, the Commission shall submit reports on its implementation to the Council.

b) Where a preventive action plan is drawn up, the Member State concerned shall take all appropriate measures to deal with the situation of particular pressure or to ensure that the deficiencies identified are addressed before the situation deteriorates.

c) Where the Commission establishes on the basis of EASO’s analysis that the implementation of the preventive action plan has not remedied the deficiencies identified or where there is a serious risk that the asylum situation in that Member State develops into a crisis, which is unlikely to be remedied by a preventive action plan, the Commission may give recommendations to the Member State concerned the elaboration of a crisis management action plan and, where necessary, revisions thereof.
Following this request, the Member State concerned shall, in cooperation with the Commission and EASO, elaborate a crisis management action plan.

Where a crisis management action plan is drawn up, the Member State concerned shall submit this plan and, at least every three months, report on its implementation to the Commission and other relevant stakeholders as appropriate. The Commission shall inform the Council and the European Parliament on the crisis management action plan, its implementation and possible revisions.
4. The Council will closely monitor the situation and may request further information and provide political guidance throughout the entire process, in particular as regards the urgency and severity of the situation and thus, the need for a Member State to draw up either a preventive action plan or, if necessary, a crisis management action plan. The Council may throughout the process discuss and provide guidance on any measures of solidarity as it deems appropriate.

Article 2432

In that case, the time-limits provided for in Articles 21 and 23 for submitting a request to take charge or take back shall be extended with a period of time which shall be equivalent to the delay in the reply by the requested Member State.
6. The exchange of information shall be effected at the request of a Member State and may only take place between authorities whose designation by each Member State has been communicated to the Commission in accordance with Article 33(1) which shall inform the other Member States thereof.

   (b) examining the application for international protection;

   (c) implementing any obligation arising under this Regulation.

8. The Member State which forwards the information shall ensure that it is accurate and up-to-date. If it transpires that that Member State has forwarded information which is inaccurate or which should not have been forwarded, the recipient Member States shall be informed thereof immediately. They shall be obliged to correct such information or to have it erased.

9. The asylum seeker shall have the right to be informed, on request, of any data that is processed concerning him/her.
