

Implementing the Bratislava Roadmap

October 2017

The Bratislava Roadmap - One Year On

Real solutions to real problems

The Bratislava Roadmap emerged from the Leaders' debate in September 2016. In March 2017, the Rome Declaration broadened the scope and set additional priorities for the longer term.

One year on, the EU has made significant progress and can demonstrate tangible results. The Bratislava method is working. The attached table shows that many tasks have been completed, and many others are on track. Some tasks however have progressed slower than expected, and a few require a fresh push, including at the highest level.

MIGRATION AND EXTERNAL BORDERS
In Bratislava, Leaders agreed to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - never allow return to uncontrolled flows of last year and further bring down number of irregular migrants 	The numbers of irregular migrants have been cut dramatically - by the end of 2016 arrivals were 72% lower than 2015, and numbers continue to decline in 2017.
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - ensure full control of our external borders and get back to Schengen 	The EU and its Member States have undertaken great efforts to ensure full control of the external borders. More work is needed to get fully back to Schengen.
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - broaden EU consensus on long term migration policy and apply the principles of responsibility and solidarity 	Much progress has been made on the future of the asylum system, but work on the application of the principles of responsibility and solidarity is still ongoing.

Contracting will reach EUR 3 billion by the end of 2017. According to current project planning, disbursements will reach EUR 1 billion in November and EUR 1.6 billion in December. ○ Over 10 000 refugees have been resettled from Turkey.
	➤ Western Balkans <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ The European Border and Coast Guard Agency (EBCGA) has deployed officers in the Western Balkans and the Commission is working on border cooperation agreements with Serbia, the former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia, Albania, Bosnia and Herzegovina, and Montenegro, which would allow the deployment of European Border and Coast teams with executive powers in the territory of these countries. ○ The EU has been using all possible tools to help the Western Balkans cope with the refugee crisis. Since the steep increase of arrivals in summer 2015, this assistance has amounted to over EUR 100 million allocated mainly through Special Measures (EUR 65 million), Regional programmes (EUR 13 million) and Humanitarian aid (EUR 29 million). In addition, over EUR 200 million were mobilised since 2007 through Pre-Accession programmes supporting reforms, such as migration and border management in the Western Balkans. Support to Serbia has also been provided through the Union Civil Protection Mechanism.

Rapid Reaction Pools of staff and equipment are in place, to be deployed in case of emergency.
d) migration compacts for cooperation and dialogue with third countries to lead to reduced flows of illegal migration and increased return rates, to be assessed by the December European Council	A dialogue is ongoing with Niger, Nigeria, Senegal, Mali, Ethiopia under the Partnership Framework, as well as with other countries in West Africa and Asia, such as Afghanistan and Bangladesh. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ➤ Operational arrangements and/or agreements on returns have been completed with several countries. Nevertheless, the coverage remains incomplete and returns and readmissions continue to remain unsatisfactory. ➤ Cooperation with Niger has resulted in a significant reduction of migrants transiting from that country into Libya. ➤ Enhanced support to these efforts is being provided through CSDP missions and operations in third countries, particularly in Libya and the Sahel region.

INTERNAL SECURITY
a) intensified cooperation and information-exchange among security services of the Member States	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ➤ Work to improve the exchange of information has been a priority over the last year. In December 2016 the Commission presented a proposal to strengthen the Schengen Information System (SIS). ➤ The reinforcement of Europol's capacities, which, alongside the entry into force of the new Europol Regulation on 1 May 2017, should further establish the law enforcement agency as the genuine EU hub for information exchange on serious cross-border crime and terrorism. ➤ The Commission's proposals on interoperability are expected at the end of 2017. 	●
b) adoption of the necessary measures to ensure that all persons, including nationals from EU Member States, crossing the Union's external borders will be checked against the relevant databases, that must be interconnected	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ➤ As a result of an amendment to the Schengen borders code adopted in March 2017, all persons crossing the Union's external borders, including nationals from EU Member States, are now systematically checked against the relevant databases. ➤ An Entry/Exit System will allow a better detection of document and identity fraud. A provisional agreement was reached with the European Parliament and should be confirmed in Plenary in October. ➤ Proposals to extend the existing system on the exchange of criminal records (ECRIS) to third country nationals and for a stronger mandate for EU-LISA, the agency for operational management of large-scale IT systems in the area of freedom, security and justice are under active negotiation. An agreement between Member States on the latter is expected by the end of 2017. ➤ In June 2017 the High Level Expert Group on information systems and interoperability made a comprehensive set of recommendations. The Commission was subsequently invited by the June European Council to put forward proposals based on the work of the High Level Expert Group. These proposals are near completion. 	●

Trilogues will start as soon as the EP mandate is confirmed. The European Council's guidance is to conclude by the end of 2017.
d) a systematic effort against radicalisation, including through expulsions and entry bans where warranted as well as EU support to Member States' actions in prevention	Various initiatives are in place at EU level and a High Level Expert Group on radicalisation has been put in place to coordinate them. The first results of its work are expected by the end of 2017. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ➤ Online radicalisation: in June 2017 the European Council called on industry to improve the automatic detection and removal of content that incites terrorist acts. ➤ In September 2017, the Commission issued guidelines to encourage online platforms to be more active in tackling illegal content online.

ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL DEVELOPMENT, YOUTH
a) in December: decision on extension of the European Fund for Strategic Investment in light of evaluation	EFSI has triggered EUR 225 billion in investment and supported over 300 000 jobs. Provisional agreement on its extension was reached between the co-legislators in September 2017.
b) Spring 2017 European Council: review progress as regards delivering on the different Single Market strategies (including Digital Single Market, Capital Markets Union, Energy Union)	The Spring 2017 European Council reviewed progress on all single market strategies, and since then has regularly reverted to the issue. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ➤ On the Digital Single Market, the co-legislators have reached a deal on the release of the 700 MHz band - critical for the future of wireless connectivity, especially the roll-out of 5G. Roaming surcharges for EU citizens also ended by the agreed date of 15 June 2017. Cross-border portability is now ensured, making it easier for European citizens to access their films, e-books and other subscribed online content when they travel abroad. By implementing the Marrakesh Treaty, the EU has also improved access to published works for people who are blind or visually impaired. And the newly-adopted wifi4EU initiative seeks to provide free Wi-Fi hotspots in local communities across the EU.
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ➤ The European Council in June 2017 broadened the DSM strategy to "Digital Europe" which seeks to fully capture the variety of issues that need to be addressed in our digital transformation. In September 2017, Leaders held an informal meeting in Tallinn dedicated to Digital Europe, giving new impetus to work in this area. ➤ Despite many achievements, a number of complex and important files are still being negotiated and will require careful attention if the 2018 deadline is to be respected (for instance on geo-blocking, on contract law reform, on copyright and on e-Privacy). An additional Telecommunications Council will be held on 24 October to accelerate progress. In addition, the Commission's very recent proposals (for instance on the free flow of non-personal data and on cybersecurity) will require sustained work in order to advance swiftly.

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ➤ In relation to the Capital Markets Union, the EU adopted a number of essential elements for its completion including the Prospectus Regulation, which protects investors while improving access to debt capital markets across the EU; rules on securitisation, which aim to free up capital for economic growth through a simple, transparent and standardised securitisation market, and revamped rules on European Venture Capital Funds and European Social Entrepreneurship Funds, as part of efforts to stimulate venture capital investments in the EU and improve access to finance for small and growing companies and social enterprises. ➤ In addition, in June 2017 the Commission adopted the mid-term review of the Capital Markets Union and identified new initiatives to drive forward the objectives of the Capital Markets Union, including the Review of the European Supervisory Authorities, adopted in September 2017. 	●
	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ➤ The EU has also advanced in its ambition to build an Energy Union. Most significantly, it has ratified the Paris Climate Agreement. It has also reinforced the security of its gas supply, also thanks to the Decision on inter-governmental agreements. This will enable the Union to deal more quickly and efficiently with any gas supply crises. ➤ Measures to increase energy efficiency are expected to be agreed with the EP in early 2018, while the other elements in the clean energy package should be in place before next summer. ➤ Negotiations on the review of the emissions trading system (ETS) are in their final stages; trilogues are starting on LULUCF and are to due to start on effort-sharing. 	●
