Article 1
General principle and beneficiaries
Any citizen of the Union, and any natural or legal person residing or having its registered office in a Member State, shall have the right to the widest possible access to the documents of the institutions within the meaning of this Regulation, without having to cite reasons for their interest, subject to the exceptions laid down in Article 4.

(Art. 2.3)
1. This Regulation shall apply to all documents held by the institutions, that is to say, documents drawn up by them or received from third parties and in their possession.

Access to documents from third parties shall be limited to those sent to the institution after the date on which this Regulation becomes applicable.

2. This Regulation shall not apply to documents already published or accessible to the public by other means. This Regulation shall not apply where specific rules on access to documents exist.

The right of access to documents includes:

(a) direct access to:
- documents not manifestly covered by the exceptions which shall be directly available through the register or other electronic form and documents which shall be published in the Official Journal; and
- (b) access following a written application.

This Regulation shall be without prejudice to:

a) rights of access to documents held by the institutions which might follow from instruments of international law to which the Community or Union is a party or acts of the institutions implementing them;

b) the right of Member States to grant access to documents in accordance with their national legislation;

c) the rights of judicial authorities, investigative bodies and Parliaments.

Article 3
Definitions

For the purposes of this Regulation:

a) "document" shall mean any content whatever its medium (written on paper or stored in electronic form or as a sound, visual or audiovisual recording); only administrative documents shall be covered, namely documents concerning a matter relating to the policies, activities and decisions falling within the institution’s sphere of responsibility, excluding texts for internal use such as discussion documents, opinions of departments and excluding informal messages;

b) "legislative document" shall mean any document created or received in the course of procedures for the adoption of acts which are legally binding in or for the Member States, by means of regulations, directives, framework decisions, or decisions, on the basis of the relevant provisions of the Treaties, [such as draft proposals for committees which assist the Commission, parliamentary committee documents and Working Group documents in the Council.]

c) preparatory document shall mean any document for internal use authored by the General Secretariat of an institution as part of preliminary consultations and deliberations within that institution such as discussion documents, opinions of departments [or documents whose content reflect personal opinion], [such as information notes and background reports].

d) document shall not mean information in the form of written messages whose content reflects personal opinion.

Article 3A

Applications

1. Applications for access to a document shall be made in writing in one of the languages referred to in Article 314 of the EC Treaty and in a sufficiently precise manner to enable the institution to identify the document. The applicant is not obliged to state reasons for his application.

2. If an application is not sufficiently precise the institution shall ask the applicant to specify the application and shall assist the applicant in doing so, e.g. by providing information on the use of the public registers of documents.

3. In the event of general and repetitive applications or applications relating to very large documents or a very large number of documents, the institution concerned may confer with the applicant informally, with a view to finding a fair solution.
The institutions shall refuse access to documents where disclosure could significantly undermine the protection of:

a) the public interest and in particular:
   public security,
   defence and international relations, relations between and/or with the Member States or Community and non-Community institutions, financial or economic interests,
   monetary stability,
   the stability of the Community’s legal order,
   court proceedings,
   inspections, investigations and audits,
   infringement proceedings, including the preparatory stages thereof,
   the effective functioning of the institutions;

b) privacy and the individual, in particular:
   personnel files,
   information, opinions and assessments given in confidence with a view to recruitments or appointments, an individual’s personal details or documents containing information such as medical secrets which, if disclosed, might constitute an infringement of privacy or facilitate such an infringement;

c) commercial and industrial secrecy or the economic interests of a specific natural or legal

1. Public access to documents may be limited on the following grounds:

(a) access may be denied on grounds of public interest where disclosure could significantly undermine public security,
   financial policy or monetary stability of the Community or of a Member State, defence and military matters, relations between a Member State and the institutions of the Community or an institution of the Community,
   court proceedings,
   inspections, investigations and audits.

(b) access shall be denied where disclosure would be contrary to the protection, under the law, of the right to privacy of the individual, in particular as protected by Community legislation regarding the protection of personal data [and by Annex B for Union activities].

2. The institutions shall refuse access to a document,

3. Access to a document which relates to a matter where the decision has not been taken by the institutions may be denied if its disclosure could seriously undermine the institution’s decision-making process, unless it is clearly in the public interest to disclose the document.

4. A Member State may request the institution not to disclose a document originating from that Member State without its prior agreement.

5. Sensitive documents originating from a third party shall be released only with its consent.

6. As regards third party documents not covered by paragraphs 4 and 5 the institution shall consult with the third party with a view to assess whether an exception in paragraphs 1 and 2 is applicable, unless it is clear that the document shall or shall not be handed out.
3. [When considering the public interest in the disclosure of the document, the institution shall also take account of the interest raised by a petitioner, complainant or other beneficiary having a right, interest or obligation in a matter.]

4. The exceptions shall only apply for the period during which protection is justified on the basis of the content. After a maximum period of 30 years the exceptions shall cease to apply except for those referred to in paragraph 1(b) [and in relation to sensitive documents] which may, if necessary, continue for a further 20 years.

CHAPTER II
THIRD PARTIES

Article 5
Documents of Member States
Any Member State or institution as defined in Article 7 of the Treaty or Community or Union body which transmits a document to an institution must indicate whether it considers that any of the exceptions in Article 4 apply and, if so, to which parts of the document. [This request shall be deemed to be well-founded.]

Public access may be granted by the recipient institution if it considers that the exceptions [manifestly] do not apply. Prior to granting access, the institution shall take a decision providing for the disclosure of the document.

In the decisions referred to in the second paragraph above the institution shall state the date on which the decision shall take effect, which shall not be less than 21 days from the date of the decision, and the institution shall immediately send the decision to the party concerned.

[EP text, Article 10 and Presidency Working document, Article 4(3) and (4)]

Article 6

Documents of non-community institutions, non-member countries and natural and other legal persons

1. Any non-community institution, non-member country, or natural or other legal person should indicate whether it considers that any of the exceptions in Article 4 apply and if so, to which parts of the document.

2. Public access may be granted by the institution to a document of a non-community institution or a non-member country if the institution considers that the exceptions do not apply [unless an international agreement or other legal requirement precludes the disclosure of the document. Prior to granting access, the institution shall take a decision providing for the disclosure of the document. The institution shall indicate the remedies available.

Public access may be granted by the institution to documents of natural or other legal persons if the institution considers that the exceptions do not apply.

If the natural or legal person indicates that it considers that Article 4(1)(b) or (c) apply, prior to granting access, the institution shall take a decision providing for the disclosure of the document.

4. In the decisions referred to in the second and third paragraphs above the institution shall state the date on which the decision shall take effect, which shall not be less than 21 days from the date of the decision, and the institution shall immediately send the decision to the party concerned.

[EPEP text, Article 10 and Presidency Working document, Article 4(3) and (4)]

Article 7
Documents in the Member States

1. Each institution shall, when transmitting documents to one or more Member States, inform the Member States, if the institution considers that one of the exceptions in Article 4 applies.

2. Where a Member State receives an application for a document of an institution which the institution considers to be within the scope of one of the exceptions in Article 4, the Member State shall immediately inform the institution and request the institution to confirm whether the exception in Article 4 still applies.

3. [Except in the case of sensitive documents, ] the Member State shall decide in accordance with its
Article 5
Processing of initial applications

1. All applications for access to a document shall be made in writing in a sufficiently precise manner to enable the institution to identify the document. The institution concerned may ask the applicant for further details regarding the application.

In the event of repetitive applications and/or applications relating to very large documents, the institution concerned shall confer with the applicant informally, with a view to finding a fair solution.

2. Within one month of registration of the application, the institution shall inform the applicant, in a written and reasoned reply, of the outcome of the application.

3. Where the institution gives a negative reply to the applicant, it shall inform him that, within one month of national legislation whether the document or parts thereof can be disclosed.

4. [In the case of sensitive documents, where the institution confirms that the exception in Article 4 still applies, the Member State may only transfer the document if, according to its national rules, the Member State can assure the same level of protection for the sensitive documents.]

DOCUMENTS AVAILABLE ON APPLICATION

Article 8
Application

1. Applications for access to a document shall be made in writing in one of the languages referred to in Article 314 of the EC Treaty and in a sufficiently precise manner to enable the institution to identify the document. The applicant is not obliged to state reasons for his application. In writing also comprises applications in electronic form such as fax or e-mail.

2. If an application is not sufficiently precise the institution shall ask the applicant to specify the application and shall assist the applicant in doing so, e.g. by providing information on the use of the public registers of documents.

3. If only parts of the requested document are covered by any of the exceptions in Article 4, the remaining parts of the document shall be released.

COUNCIL

Article 7
Exercise of the right to access

1. The applicant shall have access to documents either by consulting them on the spot or by receiving a copy, according to his preference.

The cost of his doing so may be charged to the applicant. The charge has to be limited to an amount which will not exceed the real cost of production and sending of the copies.

2. If a document has already been released by the institution concerned and is easily accessible to the applicant, the institution may fulfill its obligation of granting access to documents by informing the applicant how to obtain the requested document.

3. Documents shall be supplied [in an existing version and form] as requested by the applicant if they are already available in that form, including electronically or in an alternative format, such as Braille, large print or tape, and regard being had to the preference expressed by the applicant.

4. If only parts of the requested document are covered by any of the exceptions in Article 4, the remaining parts of the document shall be released.
Article 9
Information and registers

Each institution shall take the requisite measures to inform the public of the rights they enjoy as a result of this Regulation. Furthermore, to make it easier for citizens to exercise their rights arising from this Regulation, each institution shall provide access to a register of documents.

1. An applicant who has obtained a document may not reproduce it for commercial purposes or exploit it for any other economic purposes without the prior authorisation of the right-holder.

2. The applicant shall have access to documents either by consulting them on the spot or by receiving a copy, including an electronic copy, according to his preference.

   In the case of very substantial documents or a very large number of documents the cost of his doing so may be charged to the applicant. The charge has to be limited to an amount which will not exceed the real cost of production [and sending] of the copies. Consultation on the spot and direct access through the register or in other electronic form shall be free of charge.

3. Documents shall be supplied [in an existing language version and format] as requested by the applicant if they are already available in that form, including electronically or in an alternative format, such as Braille, large print or tape, and regard being had to the preference expressed by the applicant.

Article 11
Access following an application

1. The applicant shall have access to documents either by consulting them on the spot or by receiving a copy, including an electronic copy, according to his preference.

2. If a document has already been released by the institution concerned and is easily accessible to the applicant, the institution may inform the applicant how to obtain the requested document.

3. Documents shall be supplied [in an existing language version and format] as requested by the applicant if they are already available in that form, including electronically or in an alternative format, such as Braille, large print or tape, and regard being had to the preference expressed by the applicant.
CHAPTER IV
DIRECTLY ACCESSIBLE DOCUMENTS

Article 12
Documents to be published in the Official Journal

In addition to the documents required to be published by Article 254 of the Treaty and Article 163 of the Euratom Treaty, the documents referred to in Annex C shall be published in the Official Journal including, where appropriate, the date of entry into force.

[EP text, Article 12]

Article 13
Registers

1. Each institution shall provide public access to a register of documents. Access shall be granted in electronic form. Documents shall be introduced onto the register without delay.

2. For each document the register shall contain a reference number, the subject matter and/or a short description of the content of the document and the date the document was received or drawn up and entered into the register. Reference shall not be made if disclosure of the reference could undermine the protection of information provided for in Article 4.

3. The public register shall not include any references to sensitive documents.

Comment: This provision specifies references which should be included in the register. The corresponding provisions in the EPamendments are found in Article 18(1) subparagraph 1 and 18(2).
reference number, the subject matter and/or a short description of the content of the document and the date the document was received or drawn up and entered into the register. Where all or part of a document is covered by an exception in Article 4, the register shall contain a reference to the exception.

3. Legislative documents not manifestly covered by one of the exceptions in Article 4 shall, in addition to the references above, be made directly accessible through the register. [Other categories of documents not manifestly covered by the exceptions shall progressively be made accessible through the register.]

4. After the adoption of a decision referred to in Article 4(2) or the final adoption of the act concerned, the institution shall make available to the public any [preparatory] documents relating to this act which were drawn up before this decision, unless any of the exceptions in Article 4 apply.

5. The institutions must immediately take the measures

Article 9B

The institutions shall develop good administrative practices in order to facilitate the exercise of the right of access guaranteed by this Regulation.

Comment: Measures to develop and support the access system are suggested in several Articles in the EP amendments (Articles 9[b], 12, 18(1) subparagraph 2 and 18(4) and Article 19).
necessary to establish a register which must be operational at the latest one year from the entry into force of the Regulation.

CHAPTER V
COMPLEMENTARY MEASURES

Article 14
Parliamentary scrutiny

Based on the mechanisms on the Member States for the transmission and handling of confidential information between the governments and national parliaments, and to the extent necessary to ensure the openness of the decision-making process, the institutions shall agree mechanisms for the transmission of documents which are excluded from public access by the Commission and Council to the European Parliament.

[EP text, Article 15(3)]

Article 15
Information

1. Each institution shall be responsible for informing the public of the rights they enjoy as a result of this Regulation and for making this information easily available:
(a) the internal rules;
(b) the structure of the institution including details of any departments, committees, and formal working groups in all areas of the Union's activities;
(c) the department(s) to whom written applications for documents should be addressed;
(d) a code of conduct on transparency for officials.

2. The Member States shall cooperate with the institutions in the provision of information to the citizens and shall, through public authorities and facilities as far as possible, grant access to inter alia the registers of the institutions and the Official Journal. [EP text, Article 17 and Article 11(3)]

Article 16
Appointment and tasks of the Information Officer

Each institution shall appoint one Information Officer [of appropriate rank] with the necessary staff and with the task of ensuring the correct application of the exceptions in Article 4, in particular:

(a) responding to applications; and
(b) supervising the register of documents.

[EP text, Article 19]

Article 17
Reproduction for commercial purposes or other forms of economic exploitation

1. This Regulation does not interfere with rights, existing by virtue of intellectual or industrial property, that protect information contained in
2. Any third party or Member State that receives information under this Regulation is responsible for complying with the applicable Community, national or international law relating to the protection of intellectual or industrial property rights.

Chapter IV
Remedies and Reports

Article 18
Remedies

1. An applicant who receives a negative response or decision may institute proceedings in accordance with Article 230 of the Treaty.

2. If the conditions laid down in Article 195 of the Treaty are fulfilled, an applicant may submit a complaint to the Ombudsman.

Article 19
Reports

1. Each year each institution shall publish a report for the preceding year setting out the number of cases in which the institution refused to grant access to documents and the reasons for such refusals.
2. Within a period of [three] years the Commission shall publish a report on the implementation of this Regulation by the institutions and shall make recommendations, if appropriate.

[EP text, Article 21]

CHAPTER VI
TRANSITIONAL PROVISIONS

Article 20
Implementing provisions

1. In accordance with Article 255(3), Article 199(2) and Article 207(3) of the Treaty, the institutions shall adopt in their rules of procedure provisions implementing these Regulations. Those provisions shall take effect on at the latest [six months] after the entry into force of this Regulation.

2. In order to provide the basis for the adoption of the implementing provisions referred to in the paragraph above, the institutions shall agree, on the basis of proposals presented by an inter-institutional committee, on the following:

(a) guidelines for the application of the exceptions; [for the documents to be included in the register] and for the transmission of documents between the institutions; and procedures for the resolution of conflicts between the institutions and procedures relating to the provision of information to a select committee of the European Parliament.

(b) general measures on the production, storage and dissemination of documents (through a common interface), including measures on quality of drafting of legislation, archiving of documents and the format and presentation of
3. The agreements referred to in paragraph 2 above will be adopted by the Council acting by a majority in accordance with Article 205 of the Treaty and by the European Parliament acting by a majority of the votes cast. The agreements may be modified at the request of one of the parties.
