Amendment 1

Draft Framework Decision Recital 13 a (new)

Text proposed by the Council

Amendment

(13a) In the event of a breach of a European supervision measure, the issuing authority may decide to issue a European arrest warrant for the purpose of transferring the suspect to the issuing State. In such circumstances, which should be strictly limited to the application of this Framework Decision, Council Framework Decision 2002/584/JHA of 13 June 2002 covers all offences in relation to which a European supervision measure may be issued.

Justification

In order to be consistent with the new title wording of the Council draft.

Amendment 2

Draft Framework Decision Recital 17 a (new)

Amendment

(17a) A uniform common set of procedural guarantees is a necessary prerequisite to ensuring a fair and effective application of measures concerning judicial cooperation in criminal matters; taking into due consideration the opinion of the European Parliament, the Council should without delay adopt a legal instrument on procedural safeguards in criminal proceedings, based upon the principle of presumption of innocence, which should include at least the authorization by the judicial authority for any restriction or deprivation of freedom,

the right to a "Letter of Rights", to legal advice, to evidence, to be informed on the nature and reasons of the charges and of the grounds for suspicion, the right to access to all relevant documents in a language the suspect/defendant understands and to an interpreter;

Amendment 3

Draft Framework Decision Article 2 - paragraph 2 a (new)

Amendment

2a. For the purpose of this Framework Decision, a person is considered as non resident when his/her lawful and ordinary residence is fixed in a Member State different from the Member States where the proceeding is going on.

Justification

It appears appropriate to clarify the definition of the residence.

Amendment 4

Draft Framework Decision Article 4 - paragraph 1 - point a

Text proposed by the Council

a) "decision on supervision measures" shall mean an enforceable decision taken in the course of criminal proceedings by a competent authority of the issuing State in accordance with its national law and procedures and imposing on a natural person, as an alternative to provisional detention, one or more supervision measures;

Amendment

a) "decision on supervision measures" shall mean an enforceable decision taken in the course of criminal proceedings by a competent judicial authority of the issuing State in accordance with its national law and procedures and imposing on a natural person, as an alternative to provisional detention, one or more supervision measures;

Justification

One of the most important procedural safeguards is that decisions involving personal freedom should be adopted only by judicial authorities. The same approach was followed in the Commission's proposal.

Amendment 5

Draft Framework Decision

Article 4 - paragraph 1 - point d a (new)

Amendment

(da) “competent authority in the issuing State” shall mean a court, a judge, an investigating magistrate or a public prosecutor, with competence under national law to issue a decision on supervision measures;

Justification

One of the most important procedural safeguards is that decisions involving personal freedom should be adopted only by judicial authorities. The same approach was followed in the Commission's proposal.

Amendment 6

Draft Framework Decision

Article 4 - paragraph 1 - point d b (new)

Amendment

(db) “competent authority in the executing State” shall mean a court, a judge, an investigating magistrate or a public prosecutor, with competence under national law to execute and monitor decision on supervision measures

Justification

One of the most important procedural safeguards is that decisions involving personal freedom should only be issued executed and monitored by the judicial authorities, or in other words judges, investigating magistrates and public prosecutors. The same approach was followed in the Commission's proposal.

Amendment 7

Draft Framework Decision
Article 5 a (new)

Amendment

Article 5a

Personal data

The processing of personal data for the purposes of this Framework Decision shall comply with at least the basic principles laid down in Framework Decision 2008/977/JHA of 27 November 2008 on the protection of personal data processed in the framework of police and judicial cooperation in criminal matters¹ and in the Council of Europe Convention nr 108 of 28 January 1981 for the Protection of individuals with regard to Automated Processing of their personal data and the subsequent protocols.

Article 6 - paragraph 2

2. As an exception to paragraph 1 and without prejudice to paragraph 3, Member States may designate non-judicial authorities as the competent authorities for taking decisions under this Framework Decision, provided that such authorities have competence for taking decisions of a similar nature under their national law and procedures.

Justification

This provision should be deleted in the interests of consistency with the amendments concerning Article 4.

fa) an obligation to deposit a certain sum of money or to give another type of guarantee, which may either be provided through a specific number of instalments or entirely at once.

Justification

Monetary or other type of guarantee should be included in the obligatory paragraph of this article. This kind of supervision measure is easy to define and apply. It is also easy and affordable to monitor and does not involve any supplementary cost.

informed about the measures concerned in a language which he/she understands, consents to return to that State.

Justification

Pending the adoption of a far-reaching instrument in the field of procedural safeguards, it would be appropriate to establish, at the least, minimum procedural safeguards concerning the execution of supervision measures and notably the right for the suspect to be accurately informed in a language he/she understands

Amendment 12

Justification

As this framework decision aims to apply the least coercive measures to suspects who would otherwise most likely be subject to the application of a prison pre-trial measure, it makes no sense to make the recognition and execution of the decision on supervision measures subject to the verification of the dual criminality. In fact, Article 14, excluding the verification of dual criminality for the categories of offences listed, implicitly, allows a ground for refusal based on the lack of dual criminality for all the offences not included in the list. This would concretely result in a worse treatment of the suspect as in case of lack of dual criminality it would be more likely that he/she would be subject to provisional detention instead of a non detentive measure applied in a Member States where that behaviour is not punishable. Moreover, fixing the threshold for the exclusion of the verification of dual criminality in three years would mean leaving out of the scope of Paragraph 1 the cases which are likely to be more frequent: less serious crime. Finally, the verification of double criminality should gradually disappear from instruments founded on mutual recognition. The provision which this amendment removes is a step in the opposite direction and was not envisaged in the European Commission proposal.

Amendment 17

Draft Framework Decision
Article 15 - paragraph 1 - point d

Text proposed by the Council

Amendment

(d) the decision on supervision measures relates, in the cases referred to in Article 14(3) and, where the executing State has made a declaration under Article 14(4), in the cases referred to in Article 14(1), to an act which would not constitute an offence under the law of the executing State; in tax, customs and currency matters, however, execution of the decision may not be refused on the grounds that the law of the executing State does not prescribe any taxes of the same kind or does not contain any tax, customs or currency provisions of the same kind as the law of the issuing State; deleted

Justification

This provision should be deleted in the interests of consistency with the amendments concerning Article 14.

Amendment 18

Draft Framework Decision Article 21 - paragraph 1

Text proposed by the Council

1. If the competent authority of the issuing State has issued an arrest warrant or any other enforceable judicial decision having the same effect, the person shall be surrendered in accordance with the Framework Decision on the European Arrest Warrant.

Amendment

1. If, in case of breach of the supervision measure, the competent authority of the issuing State has issued an arrest warrant, the person shall be surrendered in accordance with the Framework Decision on the European Arrest Warrant.

Justification

The rapporteur in the opinion delivered in 2007 expressly referred to cases of breaches of the supervision measures and to the need not to create a transfer/surrender system parallel to the European Arrest Warrant. The reference to the European Arrest Warrant is therefore mostly welcome.

Amendment 19

Draft Framework Decision Article 21 - paragraph 3

Text proposed by the Council

3. Each Member State may notify the General Secretariat of the Council, when transposing this Framework Decision or at a later stage, that it will also apply Article 2(1) of the Framework Decision on the European Arrest Warrant in deciding on the surrender of the person concerned to the issuing State.

Justification

Taking into account the aim of this legal instrument, all offences should be covered, without setting a threshold.

EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

As already stressed in the first opinion on this legislative proposal, pre-trial detention shall be regarded as an exceptional measure which must be strictly tested against the right to liberty and the presumption of innocence¹. It shall never be compulsory nor be used for punitive reasons². Consequently, in the pre-trial stage, the widest possible use should be made of non-custodial supervision measures.

Deprivation of liberty in the pre-trial stage may in principle be imposed only as an extrema ratio to prevent three classical situations: danger of flight, danger of suppression of evidence and danger of repetition of offences.

In a common European area of justice without internal borders, it is necessary to ensure that a suspect who is not resident in the trial state is not treated any differently from a suspect who is so resident.

However, so far alternative measures to pre-trial detention could not be recognised across borders as no specific mutual recognition instrument was in place and this resulted in an obstruction of the judicial protection of individual rights.

There is a clear risk of unequal treatment between the two categories - EU citizens who are not residents in the territory of the Member State where they are suspected of having committed a criminal offence and EU citizens who are residents. Furthermore, that could also be seen as an obstacle to the free movement of persons.

Taking into account the above-mentioned, the rapporteur strongly supports the adoption of this piece of legislation, which will allow the mutual recognition of pre-trial supervision orders. This instrument would encourage competent national authorities not to detain EU non-residents in pre-trial process due to the danger of absconding but to let them return to the Member State of their current lawful and ordinary residence.

In this spirit, the rapporteur welcomes the amendment of the text in the sense of taking on board his suggestion to widen the scope of the Framework Decision and to include the possibility for the suspect to request the issuing competent authority to forward the supervision order to a Member State other than the one in which he/she is ordinary and lawfully resident. The rapporteur further clarifies the definition of residence. In the light of ¹Article 6(2) TEU provides that the Union shall respect fundamental rights as guaranteed by the European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (ECHR, 1950) and as they result from constitutional traditions common to the Member States, as general principles of Community law.

The basic rights or fundamental freedoms that govern pre-trial detention and alternatives to such detention and that are determined by the ECHR are as follows:

- Art. 5(1) "everyone has the right to liberty and security of person";

- Art. 6(2) " everyone charged with a criminal offence shall be presumed innocent until proved guilty according to law";

- Art. 5(1)c "the lawful arrest or detention of a person effected for the purpose of bringing him before the competent legal authority on reasonable suspicion of having committed an offence or when it is reasonably considered necessary to prevent his committing an offence or fleeing after having done so" the aim of the proposal, it is vital not to restrict the meaning of the residence to the `permanent` residence which is already well-accepted Community terminology. However, it should be clarified that the residence should be lawful and ordinary. To this purpose de facto circumstances should be taken into account.

As this framework decision aims to apply the least coercive measures to suspects who would otherwise most likely be subject to the application of provisional detention, it makes no sense to make the recognition and execution of the decision on supervision measures subject to the verification of the dual criminality. In fact, Article 14 and Article 15 Paragraph 1(d), excluding the verification of dual criminality for the categories of offences listed, allow a ground for refusal based on the lack of dual criminality for all the offences not included in the list. This would concretely result in a worse treatment of the suspect as in case of lack of dual criminality it would be more likely that he/she would be subject to provisional detention instead of a non detentive measure applied in a Member States where that behaviour is not punishable. Moreover, fixing the threshold for the exclusion of the verification of dual criminality in three years would mean leaving out of the scope of Article 14 paragraph 1 the cases which are likely to be more frequent: less serious crime. Finally, the verification of double criminality should gradually disappear from instruments founded on mutual recognition..

In the spirit of ensuring the best treatment to the suspect and pending the adoption of a far-reaching instrument in the field of procedural safeguards, it would be appropriate to establish, at least, minimum procedural safeguards for execution/modification of supervision measures and notably the right for the suspect to be accurately informed in a language he/she understands.

Concerning the transfer mechanism and the new reference to the European Arrest Warrant, the rapporteur in the opinion delivered in 2007 expressly referred to cases of breaches of the supervision measures and to the need not to create a transfer/surrender system parallel to the European Arrest Warrant. The reference to the European Arrest Warrant is, therefore welcome. It is nevertheless the opinion of the rapporteur that the competent issuing authority should decide on a case by case base if, in the case of breach of the supervision measure, the suspect needs to be arrested and surrendered to issuing Member State.

It should in addition be clearly stated that all offences should be covered (without setting a threshold). Therefore, when applying the ESO, the EAW should be extended to cover all offences.
