Informal Commission Expert Group “European Contact Group on Search and Rescue”

Terms of Reference

1. Background

In its Communication on a new Pact on Migration and Asylum (COM(2020)609) of 23 September 2020, the European Commission outlined the need for developing a more coordinated EU approach to the evolving practice of search and rescue in the Mediterranean sea.

While the coordination of Search and Rescue (SAR) operations is a national competence under international law, search and rescue is also a key element of the European integrated border management, implemented as a shared responsibility by Frontex and national authorities. Moreover, the repeated disembarkation in EU Member States of rescued migrants, that results from State and private operations, has a significant impact on asylum, migration and border management in particular of some EU coastal Member States. It is therefore essential, given also the complexity of the relevant legal framework, to establish a more coordinated and structured framework for cooperation at EU level in order to avoid incidents at sea, maintain safety of navigation and ensure effective migration management.

Commission Recommendation (C(2020) 6468) which accompanied the new Pact, sets out a framework of cooperation and information exchange between Member States and other relevant stakeholders, in the field of search and rescue, with a focus on operations carried out by private vessels, as their predominant activity.

This Recommendation also calls for the establishment, by the Commission, of the first interdisciplinary European Contact Group in this field. The Group will be a key tool to reinforce cooperation and coordination among Member States and with relevant stakeholders, including entities and associations operating or representing private and commercial vessels which become involved in search and rescue activities. The Group will compile national rules and practices, be a forum for the exchange of lessons learned, identify best practices and possible actions needed to increase the safety at sea, and availability of all relevant information to competent national authorities.
