This Statistical Bulletin has been produced by statisticians working in the Home Office Statistics Unit. Although this output is not currently given National Statistics accreditation, the protocols for such statistics have been mirrored as closely as possible.

The governance arrangements in the Home Office for statistics were strengthened on 1 April 2008 to place the statistical teams under the direct management of a Chief Statistician who reports to the National Statistician with respect to all professional statistical matters.

Introduction

1. The Home Office published for the first time in May 2009 a Statistical Bulletin covering arrests and outcomes data under current terrorism legislation for the period 11 September 2001 to 31 March 2008 (Home Office Statistical Bulletin 04/09). A further report published in November 2009 included for the first time statistics covering powers under terrorism legislation including arrests, outcomes and stops and searches up to 31 March 2009 (Home Office Statistical Bulletin 18/09). The current report provides a quarterly update of these data for the period up to 30 September 2010.
2. This report brings together a wide range of statistical material from police and other agencies in Great Britain (i.e. England & Wales and Scotland). Although similar statistical data are collected in Northern Ireland, these are published separately. The latest report 'Northern Ireland Statistics on the Operation of the Terrorism Act 2000: Annual Statistics 2009/10' was published in November 2010 and can be found at the following address:
 - o http://www.nio.gov.uk/northern_ireland_terrorism_legislation_annual_statistics_2009-2010.pdf
3. Searches made using powers under the Terrorism Act 2000 are carried out to prevent acts of terrorism and do not assume that a criminal offence has been committed. Only a small proportion of those stopped and searched will be arrested.
4. The final validated statistics on stops and searches are designated 'National Statistics' implying they are to be granted accreditation by the UK Statistics Authority. These will be published by both the Home Office and the Ministry of Justice. There is no indication of lower standards for the data on terrorism arrests and outcomes with National Statistics protocols followed closely to ensure best practice. However since the terrorism arrest data series is only under-development no such accreditation has currently been sought.

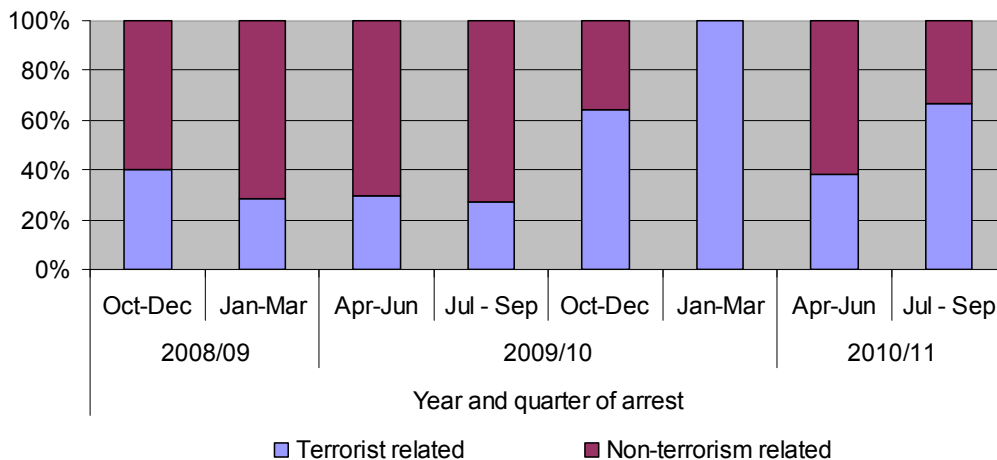

Chapter 1

Statistics on terrorism arrests and outcomes

MAIN POINTS

- There were 130 terrorism arrests in the year ending 30 September 2010 compared with 201 in the previous twelve months, a fall of 35 per cent. In total there have been 1,897 terrorism arrests since 11 September 2001.
- In total, 45 per cent of terrorism arrests in the year ending 30 September 2010 resulted in a charge, compared with a charging rate of 33 per cent in the previous twelve months. This compares with 28 per cent of those aged 18 and over arrested for all indictable offences and prosecuted in 2008/9.
- Of those charged in the year ending 30 September 2010, 62 per cent were terrorism related as compared with 33 per cent in the previous twelve months and 63 per cent since 11 September 2001. For the latest quarter July-September 2010, 10 of the 15 charges were for terrorism related offences.
- None of the suspects arrested in the year ending 30 September 2010 were held in pre-charge detention for more than 14 days, with 62 per cent of those dealt with within 48 hours. This compares with 64 per cent of suspects dealt with within 48 hours since 11 September 2001.

- Of the 36 persons charged for terrorist related offences in the year ending 30 September 2010, 10 (28%) have currently been convicted of terrorist related offences. This compares with a total of 240 (57%) persons currently convicted of terrorism related offences out of 420 persons charged since 11 September 2001. On 30 September 2010, 32 persons were awaiting prosecution for a terrorist related offence.
- During the year ending 30 September 2010, 33 defendant trials for terrorism related offences were completed, of which 70 per cent resulted in a conviction. This compares with 45 defendant trials completed in the previous twelve months with a 73 per cent conviction rate.

- For the 23 offenders convicted during the year ending 30 September 2010, 18 persons (78%) received determinate prison sentences and the remaining five persons received life sentences. About one half of defendants (48%) pleaded guilty during the year ending 30 September 2010, down from just over half (52%) in the previous twelve months.
- There were 111 persons in prison for terrorist/extremist or related offences on 30 September 2010 in Great Britain, of whom 22 were classified as domestic extremists/separatists.
- In the first two quarters of 2010/11, 20 prisoners held under terrorism related offences were discharged from prison.

(1) These include cases which predate the introduction of the Terrorist Acts (2000 & 2006). They were imprisoned pre-2001 following a terrorist investigation, acts of terrorism, or for membership of a proscribed organisation. They include convicted terrorists from the 1970s to 1990s for a range of offences. They include members of groups such as the Palestinian Liberation Organisation (PLO), Democratic Revolutionary Movement for the Liberation of Arabistan (DRMLA) and domestic bombers.

NOTES - Terrorism arrests

1. The ACPO Counter Terrorism Coordination Centre (ACTCC) collects information covering all terrorism arrests in Great Britain (i.e. excluding Northern Ireland) and their subsequent outcomes. This information relates to data collected from 11 September 2001, although the total number of arrests between February and 11 September 2001 is known no further breakdown is possible. The ACTCC reviews all cases to identify those that are currently identified as being terrorist related. This decision is based upon the information available centrally on these cases.
2. Comparison with the data held by the Crown Prosecution Service Counter-Terrorism Division (CPS CTD) enables quality assurance of the court/sentencing data held on the terrorism database. In addition information held by the CPS CTD covers the outcome of all defendant trials, including sentences.
3. The National Offender Management Service maintains a list of known terrorists/extremists held in prisons in England and Wales (e.g. those on remand or convicted). This list also includes those who entered prison before 11 September 2001, and are therefore excluded from the police data. Information for Scotland has been provided separately by the Scottish Prison Service.
4. Detailed notes on the definitions and methodology used in the bulletin were included in the Home Office Statistical Bulletin 18/10:
<http://rds.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/pdfs10/hosb1810.pdf>

Chapter 2

Statistics on stops and searches under the Terrorism Act 2000

MAIN POINTS

- A total of 45,932 stops and searches were made in Great Britain under Section 44 of the Terrorism Act 2000 in the year ending 30 September 2010, a 77 per cent fall on the previous twelve months. The number of stops and searches in the second quarter of 2010/11 (666) was 98% below the same quarter in 2009/10.
- The Metropolitan Police Service and the British Transport Police accounted for 94 per cent of all Section 44 uses in Great Britain in the year ending 30 September 2010. The proportion of those stopped and searched under these powers during the same period who classified themselves as Asian or Asian British averaged 19 per cent over the year (up 4 percentage points from the previous twelve months) and those self defined as Black or Black British was an average of 10 per cent (the same proportion as the previous twelve months).
- A total of 898 persons were stopped and searched by the Metropolitan Police Service in the year ending 30 September 2010 under Section 43 of the Terrorism Act 2000, down from 1,929 in the previous twelve months, a fall of just over half (53%). The proportion of persons stopped and searched who classified themselves as Asian increased from 20 per cent in the year ending 30 September 2009, to 30 per cent in the year ending 30 September 2010. The proportion of persons searched describing themselves as Black or Black British fell from 12 per cent to 10 per cent over the same period.
- The year ending 30 September 2010 saw 249 arrests resulting from Section 44 stops and searches in Great Britain, an arrest rate of 0.5 per cent. Two of these arrests were identified as terrorism related. A further 30 arrests were made by the Metropolitan Police following stops and searches under Section 43 of the Terrorism Act 2000.

(1) Does not include 'Vehicle only' searches.

(2) The police forces separately identified in the table are the only police forces in England and Wales who conducted Section 44 searches between 01 October 2008 and 30 September 2010.

(3) The 4 searches conducted in Oct-Dec were carried out under the authorisation of the British Transport Police.

(4) Sussex police currently are unable to separate vehicle only searches from vehicle and occupant searches; as a consequence data here refers only to searches of pedestrians.

(5) Includes figures for Merseyside police force for 2008/09 revised since previous bulletins.

(6) British Transport Police figures include both England and Wales, and Scotland.

NOTES - Stops and searches

1. Information on stops and searches under Section 44 has been provided by police forces (including British Transport Police). Information for Scottish Police forces and on Section 43 powers in the Metropolitan Police Service have been supplied for this specific report.
2. Persons stopped and searched are asked to self-classify their own ethnicity using 2001 Census categories.
3. In March 2010 ACTCC introduced a new system of verifying the accuracy of data indicating the number of arrests under Section 44/43 which were terrorism related.
4. Detailed notes on the definitions and methodology used in the bulletin were included in the Home Office Statistical Bulletin 18/10:
