Subject: Draft Council Conclusions on safe countries of origin

Delegations will find in Annex the draft Conclusions on safe countries of origin suggested by the Presidency for the examination at the Asylum Working Party on 13 July 2015.

DraftCouncil conclusions on safe countries of origin

Recalling that Directive 2013/32/EU of the European Parliament and of the Council, of 26 June 2013, on common procedures for granting and withdrawing international protection ('Asylum Procedures Directive')¹, enables Member States to designate safe countries of origin for the purposes of an accelerated examination of applications for international protection and defines common criteria and procedures to be followed for such designation;

Recalling that, in order to support the swift processing of asylum applications of persons having the nationality of third countries designated as safe, the Commission has announced in the European Agenda on Migration its intention to strengthen the 'safe country of origin' provisions of the Asylum Procedure Directive;

Recalling that, as part of the measures on return/readmission/reintegration, the European Council, on 25 June 2015, invited the Commission to outline, by July 2015, measures to be taken by EASO to coordinate the implementation of the 'safe country of origin' provisions in the Asylum Procedures Directive. It also noted the Commission's intention to strengthen the 'safe country of origin' provisions in the Asylum Procedures Directive, including the possible establishment of a common EU list of safe countries of origin;

Recalling the EASO 2015 update of the key findings of its 2013 report on 'Asylum Applicants from the Western Balkans: comparative analysis of the trends, push-pull factors and responses'.

¹ Directive 2013/32/EU of the European Parliament and of the Council, of 26 June 2013, on common procedures for granting and withdrawing international protection, OJ L 180 of 29.06.2013.

Whereas:

The designation by a Member State of a third country as safe country of origin allows this Member State to accelerate and/or conduct at the border or in transit zones the examination of applications for international protection made by applicants who have the nationality of this third country. This can therefore be an effective tool for addressing situations when large numbers of asylum applications are lodged by nationals of third countries for whom there is a presumption that they do not qualify for international protection.

A country may be considered as a safe country of origin where, on the basis of the legal situation, the application of the law within a democratic system and the general political circumstances, it can be shown that there is generally and consistently no persecution as defined in Article 9 of Directive 2011/95/EU², no torture or inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment and no threat by reason of indiscriminate violence in situations of international or internal armed conflict.

Member States must examine each case on its merits. In addition, where an applicant shows that there are valid reasons to consider the country not to be safe in his or her particular circumstances, the designation of the country as safe can no longer be considered relevant for him or her.

Several Member States have designated at national level certain third countries as safe countries of origin, in the meaning of the Asylum Procedures Directive. Regular reviews of the situation in those countries need to be carried out.

The Asylum Procedures Directive acknowledges the need for a coordinated approach between Member States on the use of safe country of origin concept, leading to potential further harmonisation in this area in the future.

² Directive 2011/95/EU of the European Parliament and of the Council of 13 December 2011 on standards for the qualification of third-country nationals or stateless persons as beneficiaries of international protection, for a uniform status for refugees or for persons eligible for subsidiary protection, and for the content of the protection granted, OJ. L 337 of 20.12.2011.

The European Council, already in June 2000, recognised that all the countries of the Western Balkans are potential candidates for membership of the EU³ and reiterated the European perspective of the Western Balkans on numerous occasions. Furthermore, the progress achieved by these countries, in particular in the areas of rule of law and respect of fundamental rights, is annually assessed by the Commission in its communications on 'Enlargement Strategy and Main Challenges'.

THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION

TAKES NOTE of the fact that several Member States have national lists of safe countries of origin within the meaning of the Asylum Procedures Directive.

STRESSES the importance of ensuring rapidly a coordinated approach between Member States on the designation at national level of third countries as safe countries of origin within the meaning of the Asylum Procedures Directive.

STRONGLY RECOMMENDS therefore that, without delay, all Member States assess which third countries could be designated at national level as safe countries of origin, within a coordination process to be led by EASO and in line with the criteria defined in the Asylum Procedures Directive.

NOTES with regards to the Western Balkans countries that a majority of national lists of safe countries of origin include these countries, that the European Council reiterated on numerous occasions their European perspective and that Albania, Bosnia and Herzegovina, the former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia, Montenegro and Serbia were transferred to the list of countries whose nationals are exempt from the visa requirement as of 19 December 2009 and 15 December 2010 respectively. Moreover, the EU-wide average asylum recognition rate for the Western Balkan countries was only 4% in 2014. This suggests that the Western Balkans countries could be considered as safe countries of origin by all the Member States.

³ Santa Maria Da Feira European Council 19 And 20 June 2000 Conclusions of the Presidency, para.67.

STRONGLY RECOMMENDS therefore that priority should be given to an assessment by all Member States of the safety of the Western Balkans countries, within a coordination process to be led by EASO and in line with the criteria defined in the Asylum Procedures Directive.

WELCOMES the intention of the Commission to strengthen the safe countries of origin provisions in the Asylum Procedures Directive, including the possible establishment of a common EU list of safe countries of origin.
